

Christmas Is Blackness in Milwaukee's Inner Core

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Black is the color of Christmas in Milwaukee's virtually all-Negro inner core this year.

Even Santa Claus has been wearing black.

A group at the Calvary Baptist Church didn't bother to decorate 11th Street for the first time in years.

An 11-year-old boy came home from school and told his mother, "Don't you give me anything for Christmas 'is year. I want a black Christmas."

The mother will give her son new underwear.

Parties are being held, but in at least one case, it is not being called a Christmas party.

"We're having some friends over for dinner," a young social worker explained.

At Toran's Tropical Hut, the usual Christmas decorations are missing. "We asked our customers, and more were against the idea of putting them up than were for it," said Mrs. Jim Toran, wife of the proprietor.

It is all part of a protest campaign being pushed by the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The Youth Council is waging daily marches for an all-inclusive open housing ordinance.

The Common Council finally adopted a limited ordinance after more than 100 straight days of demonstrations.

The ordinance was not enough to stop the marches or halt the black Christmas drive.

"It's going mellow," said Lee McGhee, vice president of the Youth Council. "Everyone is wishing everyone a black Christmas."

McGhee and others engaged in the racial struggle see the campaign as the expression of an emerging sense of black awareness. They say it began appearing in the wake of summer rioting that left four dead and scores more injured.

Black identity was the theme of the open housing marches led by a white Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. James E. Groppi. It was also hammered home by outsiders, who helped galvanize hundreds of young Milwaukee Negroes behind the Youth Council's cause.

"Black is beautiful," is a constant theme of Father Groppi's. The priest and three fellow administrators of the Negro parish will celebrate midnight mass at St. Boniface Church Christmas Eve. Eyebrows would rise if the priests wore vestments colored anything but black.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory, who played a prominent role in the open housing marches that began in late August, first suggested a Christmas economic boycott as a means of putting pressure on the city's business community.

The Youth Council took over the idea with fervor.

The Rev. Walter B. Hoard, president of the Milwaukee NAACP and pastor of Mount Calvary, said fear of violence has been one unfortunate side effect.

"Many of the organizations within the church that usually have Christmas affairs have refused to have them this year," the minister said. "It's this point of violence."

There is fear, he explained, that an open display of the traditional holiday trappings will bring reprisals.

"We have a group that usually decorates 11th Street, and they have had a block affair at Christmas time for many years. They're not this year," he said.

The minister said he had no idea where the fear came from. He said he never heard anyone voice a threat against boycott violators.

"We haven't been able to pin it down," he said. "There is nothing in any kind of organized way."

Yet, the fear persists.

"What impact, if any, the campaign will have on Milwaukee's downtown merchants will not be measurable until after the holidays. The Rev. Mr. Hoard, for one, believes that few children will be left empty-handed come Christmas morning.

"I haven't really met one person who has children who will not get something for those children," he said, even if only school supplies or underwear.

McGhee was confident the merchants were hurting.

"They aren't going to announce it yet," he said, "but this year is quite different."

Ken Addison, a graduate student at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, said the black Christmas idea has had an impact on the inner core where he works part-time in a poverty project.

"It won't be mammoth," he said, "but it will be significant."

Raiders Down Pair of MIGs

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots returning from the sixth day of raids on the Hanoi area Tuesday reported shooting down two more of the MIG jets that have challenged them in fierce dog-fights for the past week. The American fliers also reported two probable MIG kills.

Poor weather today curtailed the Hanoi raids.

On the ground, 4,300 jungle fighters of the U.S. 11th Infantry Brigade arrived in South Vietnam by ship and began coming ashore at Qui Nhon, pushing the unofficial estimate of American troop strength in the country to about 475,000.

This is some 1,200 more men than the Korean war peak.

Pilots who raided the Hanoi area said the city's principal bridge—the 19-span Paul Doumer Bridge across the Red River—was battered beyond use. They reported eight spans were down and three more were damaged.

Vital Bridge

The bridge is one of two over which all road and rail traffic from Red China to Hanoi must pass and is the principal artery for munition and war supplies moved by land.

There was no estimate of how long it would take to get the bridge functioning again. But intelligence reports say the North Vietnamese have been working during the past month of cloud cover to build pontoon bridges and bamboo structures which could be quickly floated into place as substitutes.

The raiders also pummeled the big railroad shops on the northeastern edge of Hanoi. Pilots said they caught some 50 rail cars and left them under a blanket of flame and smoke.

The two MIG kills brought the total number of Communist jets claimed by American pilots to 101. The American Command credits Red pilots with shooting down 36 U.S. warplanes over the North, including two since the letup in the northeast monsoons last Thursday permitted the resumption of intensive attacks on the Hanoi area.

Kills by F105F

The two MIG17 interceptors were brought down by F105F jets a two-place version of the single seat Thunderchief fighter-bomber that has carried much of the load in American strikes against the North. Pilots of another F105F and an F4 Phantom claimed the probable kills.

There was no mention of U.S. losses Tuesday in initial headquarters reports, but Hanoi Radio claimed five American planes were shot down.

Won't Relax

Cushman added a warning to his greeting, telling the new arrivals: "We think the enemy may be trying to throw a Christmas party for us. We don't intend to be caught napping."

Bridge Victims Search Continues

POINT PLEASANT W.Va. (AP) — Small boats continued to drag the Ohio River today downstream from the collapsed suspension bridge here while divers attempted to free wrecked autos from the mangled steel and concrete 40 feet under water.

The divers use torches to cut the sunken steel girders into workable lengths, which are then hauled up by 100-ton floating derricks. Officials estimate it may take several months to clear all debris from the river bottom.

Searchers have recovered 23 bodies since the Silver Bridge collapsed Friday. It was loaded with bumper-to-bumper traffic at the time, and Civil Defense officials estimate there are at least 38 persons still missing.

Oklahoma to Maryland Epidemic of Influenza Dims Southern Yule

By EDITH LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

Influenza and influenza-like respiratory infections are putting a bug in Christmas preparations from Oklahoma to Maryland.

Across the Midwest, mid-South and mid-Atlantic states, outbreaks of various respiratory ailments—many as yet unidentified—have forced schools to close early and businesses to curtail activity.

Though the "bugs" have left some last-minute Christmas shoppers with sore throats, fever, aches and chest pains, their arrival was not totally unexpected.

Last summer, the government's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta forecast an influenza epidemic in the eastern United States this winter.

Flu in Michigan

Unfortunately, the prediction appears to be coming true. Flu in the Far West is either nonexistent or below normal. In the East and Midwest, however, several epidemics and near-epidemics are already in full swing.

In Michigan Asian flu was reported reaching near epidemic proportions in the southeastern corner of the state—the populous Detroit area—after soaring close to epidemic levels in the rest of lower Michigan, state health authorities reported.

Alabama Health Officer Ira L. Myers, said his state was in the throes of an influenza epidemic with 2,761 cases of influenza and 10,418 cases of influenza-like respiratory disease this week.

Dr. R. H. Hutcheson, Tennessee commissioner of public health, described the flu situation in hardest-hit Nashville and Knoxville as a "good-size epidemic. But it's just what we've been expecting since July."

In Culpeper County, Va., schools closed for Christmas vacation Tuesday—two days early—after 11 per cent of the teachers and 657 of 4,000 students were absent with flu. Dr. R. S. Legarde, county health officer, labeled the outbreak an "epidemic of viral respiratory diseases."

Worst in Nation

Last week, the Oklahoma State Health Department described the Asian flu outbreak in the northeast city of Bartlesville as the worst in the nation.

"The state is full of something," said Dr. Arnold M. Reeve, of the Iowa State Health Department. "Though tests to pin down the bug have not been completed, he said it looked like a virus other than influenza."

An influenza-like virus running through the Washington, D.C., area raised the absentee rate in some schools to nearly 30 per cent and cut the staffs of some federal agencies. The Department of Agriculture reported Monday that the number of visits to its health unit hit a peak.

Absentee Rate

In Maryland, a suspected influenza outbreak in Allegany County brought the absentee rate at Allegany High School to a peak of 35 per cent last Friday.

The high school in Hot Springs, Ark., closed for two days last week after 292 of 464 students were absent with flu. What State Health Department officials described as an outbreak of mild respiratory illness.

Supplies Rushed to Stranded Navajos

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — More emergency food supplies were rushed toward the Navajo reservation today after a new storm and whipping winds during the night left thousands of Indians fighting waist-high snow.

Nearly a foot of snow fell in some areas of the 16-million-acre reservation, the largest in the United States.

Air Force rescue helicopter crews stood by to ferry food to Navajos living in sparsely settled areas. A White House aide, Ralph Burns, was sent to Phoenix for a look at the situation, termed the most critical period of modern Navajo history by Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai.

Thomas Sembera, an Office of Emergency Planning official, was in Santa Fe, N.M., and Nakai hoped to get both men out to the reservation.

60,000 Affected

Tribal officials said the known death toll on the reservation from seven days of snow remained at three persons. But they say about 60,000 Navajos are affected to some degree by the storms.

The weather picture was similar over much of the snow-smothered Southwest. Nearly seven feet of snow was reported on the ground at Flagstaff in northeast Arizona. Eight deaths during the past two days were attributed to snow in California, where snow fell at Porterville in Tulare County for the first time in four years.

A different weather hazard—rising temperatures which could cause flooding—was reported in some areas of Arizona. Several persons were evacuated at Miami, Ariz., when water in the Bluebird Mine Reservoir was just a foot below the top. Floods were reported in a Phoenix residential area after a downpour.

More Snow

The U.S. Weather Bureau had heavy snow warnings in effect during the night for much of Arizona and New Mexico.

The federal government had taken no action on Nakai's request that the Navajo reservation be declared a disaster area so that additional heavy equipment could be obtained to help clear snow-plugged roads to villages and hogans.

"Give us a clear 24 hours and we can make a lot of medicine," said Graham Holmes, Bureau of Indian Affairs Navajo area director, in reference to the blocked roads.

Food Packages

Holmes said the bureau had 60 tons of surplus food commodities on the way by truck and another 77 tons were being held in reserve. The New Mexico Welfare Department sent additional foodstuffs to the Indian areas of Crown Point and Shiprock, N.M.

A tribal official said 940 food packages were airlifted by helicopters to remote areas. Navajos in Window Rock were working around the clock to prepare the burlap sack packages containing such items as cornmeal, rolled oats, rice, canned meat, peanut butter and raisins.

Rulon Bergeson, a tribal official, said 16 C119 Flying Boxcars were in Phoenix ready for a hay drop to thousands of starving livestock.

Nakai also has asked the federal government for several large Army helicopters for use in the emergency livestock feeding program.

Kaukauna Wants New Grader Bids

Mayor's Veto of First Purchase Not Challenged by Councilmen

KAUKAUNA — New specifications will be drawn and bids readvertised for the purchase of a new grader by the city.

This course of action was approved by the city council Tuesday night after no attempt was made to override a veto by Mayor Gilbert Anderson on the previously approved purchase of a grader.

Anderson told councilmen he had vetoed the purchase, which they approved Dec. 5, because of the weight of the unit and the cost in comparison with other units.

He added that he felt the purchase was not in the best interests of Kaukauna.

Much discussion followed, but council members finally decided to have the city engineer furnish new specifications, calling for a 36-month guarantee, and readvertise for sealed bids. The bids would be reviewed by the board of public works.

Alderman Surprised
During the discussion of the mayor's veto, Ald. James McDaniel (fourth) expressed surprise at the move, pointing out that all grader bids met specifications.

Anderson repeated his objections, citing the cost. Aldermen then discussed whether to review proposals immediately, call in representatives of various bidders and discuss previous proposals or readvertise for sealed bids.

Some councilmen felt rebidding was not necessary, indicating the original proposals were adequate and a decision could be reached.

Others pointed out that letters had been received following original proposals with new quotations given. Others said guarantee periods had been changed to make some units more attractive.

McDaniel favored rebidding with a 36-month guarantee on all units and accused Robert Natrop, city engineer, of failure to abide by his recommendations on any one unit. He claimed that Natrop favored purchase of three different graders on three different occasions.

Natrop Denies Charge
Natrop denied the charge, indicating he had listed two graders as good units, capable of meeting city needs, after a demonstration of all machines.

A third machine he had listed as a good unit, based on previous knowledge, he claimed.

The low bid of Sentry Insurance Co. for workmen's compensation and liability and property insurance was accepted, with the total bid $7,773. An $8,454 bid also was received.

Gustman Chevrolet's low bid of $1,186 per car for two squad cars was accepted, with the bid price to include trade-in. The only other bid received called for $1,244 per car. Cars are to be delivered within 60 days.

The city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance prohibiting storage of junked or unused cars in residential areas. The ordinance will be studied by the legislative committee prior to action by the council.

The legislative committee also was asked to give further study to a burning ordinance prior to recommended action.

City office workers were authorized to be given the afternoon of Dec. 22 as a holiday with pay. The finance committee was instructed to study holidays and days off for city offices and clerical help to facilitate setting up a policy.

Black Creek Tax Rate Is $39.21 for 1968

Use Is Restricted

Kaukauna Rezones For Local Shopping

KAUKAUNA — Rezoning of two parcels of land from residential to local shopping was approved by the common council Tuesday night. One was recommended by the Planning Commission, but the second received no commission support.

Two lots on Oviatt and Tobacco streets were rezoned from Class B residential when the majority of aldermen felt the property was overlooked in the original zoning ordinance. A grocery store has operated on the property for over 50 years.

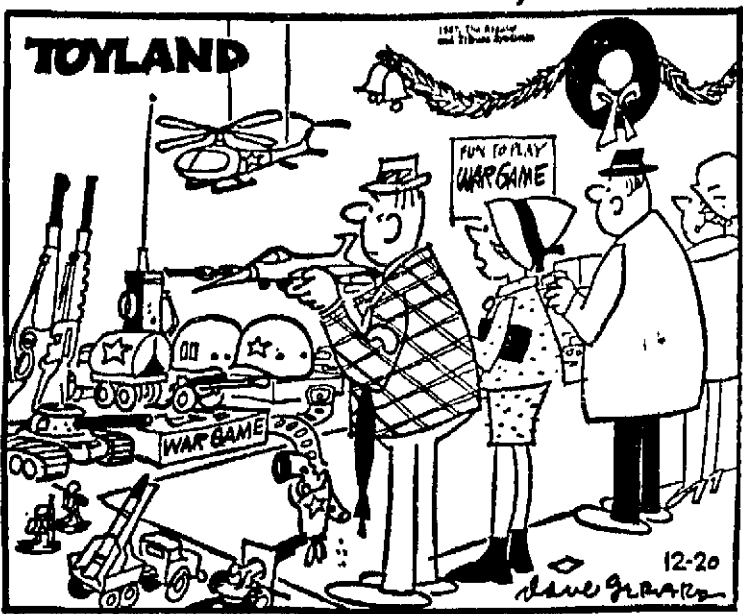

A residential. Dix wanted a specific clause in the deed indicated the property would be used exclusively for office building purposes, but other aldermen felt this was too restrictive. They felt covenants, similar to those imposed on the first property rezoned, were adequate.

Some property owners in the area of Henry and Crooks objected to rezoning without restrictive clauses in the deed and the property owner, who lives adjacent to the land, agreed to the clauses.

Dix was not satisfied, pointing out property owned by the petitioner on the opposite side of his home was not kept in the best order and if he didn't care what one side looked like, the council had no guarantee he would care what the opposite side would look like.

Singer Rodgers Apparently Not Hurt in Beating

Inquiry Reveals Police Were Near Fall on Highway

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — A Los Angeles police investigator says singer Jimmie Rodgers apparently suffered his serious head injury as an off-duty police officer stood by. The officer had stopped Rodgers after seeing him driving erratically.

Lt. Pierce R. Brooks said an inquiry established that Rodgers fell early the morning of Dec. 1 as he stood talking to officer M. P. Duffy. He said Rodgers struck the back of his head, fracturing his skull.

Brooks said Duffy had stopped Rodgers by honking his horn and blinking his lights upon seeing the singer's car making U-turns on the freeway.

'No One Person'
"There was no one person responsible for Mr. Rodgers' falling," Brooks said. He added that there was "no criminality" involved.

Brooks said Rodgers' head could have struck the asphalt or a large metal manhole cover.

He said an investigation is continuing into the actions of Duffy and two on-duty uniformed policemen he summoned to the scene.

Tuesday's disclosures were the first indication that police knew how Rodgers had been injured. A police statement Dec. 7 said officers had checked him and left him in his car, apparently asleep.

Rodgers subsequently underwent two operations to remove pressure on his brain. In one of them a section of his skull was removed.

'Not Out of Danger'

An administrator at Glendale Community Hospital said today Rodgers is "perfectly lucid" but "not out of danger yet." He said Rodgers recalls nothing of the events surrounding his injury and has not been interviewed by police.

Brooks refused to say if he knew how Rodgers got back in his car, where he was found by a friend about an hour later. However, another police spokesman said Duffy had told him he wasn't aware that Rodgers had been seriously hurt.

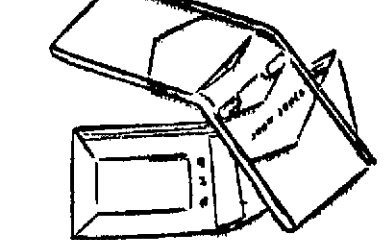

The singer wasn't hospitalized until 26 hours after he was found, although a doctor examined him soon after he reached home.

Rodgers' physician, Dr. William L. Donham, at first said it was his impression the 33-year-old singer had been beaten with a blunt instrument.

But he issued a statement Tuesday saying that indications during surgery and a later study by experts had convinced him the injury was due to a fall, not a beating.

Grand Chute to Reassess at Full Valuation

Tax Rate Should be Reduced on Homes, Authorities Believe

An appropriation of $30,300 for revaluation of Grand Chute to bring property assessments into line was approved at a special meeting of the town board Tuesday evening.

James R. Laird Co., Appleton, appraisers and mappers, were awarded a contract and will start operations immediately. Laird, who attended the meeting, told board members a North Carolina firm will be contracted for aerial photomapping which will require about six weeks. Complete reassessment is scheduled for completion on or before Nov. 29, 1968.

Town Assessor John R. Stevens, said the program would pay for itself in a greatly reduced tax rate and also place added emphasis on commercial and industrial property.

The town will be assessed at full value. In the eight years Stevens has served the town, the value has increased from $11 million to better than $22 million and it has been impossible for an assessor working on a part-time basis to keep records up to date, officials said.

Tax Would Drop

Authorities said if the appraisal firm finds values claimed by the state in its equalized value, the town tax rate could possibly drop to about $20 per $1,000 of assessed value. Officials also felt the state tax credit will be increased which will proportionately reduce the tax bill. This year the credit totaled $9,446 which reduced the bill only 43 cents per $1,000. Working on the present assessment each year, the credit is less.

Officials said some property values will be increased, but when assessed at full value, indications are the property owner will pay less total taxes. Stevens said property owners are paying too much and the commercial developments along W. College Avenue will be required to pay their fair share.

Laird said the reappraisal program is based on reproduction cost less depreciation. The procedures, costs and depreciation schedules are standardized.

Illegal Deer Denied By Black Creek Man

Arrested by state conservation wardens, Melvin Casada, 42, route 1, Black Creek, pleaded innocent Tuesday to a charge of possessing parts of one untagged deer and the untagged carcass of another deer.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for Jan. 16 and set bond at $100. Wardens alleged the offense occurred Dec. 5 in the Town of Bovina.

$40,000 Retained

Handling of Funds by School Board Prompts Aldermen's Questions

Board of education handling of building funds was questioned Tuesday when the board of public works approved $379,186 in contracts for an addition to Madison Junior High School.

When bids were opened recently, the school board announced the construction cost would be $40,000 less than originally estimated.

City officials, who floated a $500,000 bond issue to construct and equip the addition, were pleased and thought the $40,000 would revert back to the school district fund.

However, Supt. of Schools William Spears and Business Manager William Knuth informed the board this would not be the case. They said the $40,000 would have to be used to purchase equipment and improve the building site.

Package Deal

Their explanation prompted Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) to declare, "The city council was under the impression the $500,000 appropriation represented a package deal."

Pointer asked other public works board members what impression the school board had given them when making the original request for the addition to Madison and asking for the bond issue.

All were of the opinion the school board indicated the $500,000 would cover construction and equipment purchases.

(In the case of the new Highland School the construction bids were $70,000 lower than estimated and the money was turned back by the school board and used to reduce the bond issue payments.)

Not Be Equipped

"If the Madison bids had not been $40,000 lower, what would you have done?" Pointer asked school representatives.

Spears and Knuth replied that some parts of the addition would not have been equipped, and it would have been necessary to include funds in the operation budget next year to do so.

"The board of education led the council to believe the $500,000 appropriation it requested would build and equip the addition and have it ready to move in," commented Ald. John Ayers (12th), council president.

However, Spears said building estimates had been kept tight.

City Speeds Approval of New Post Office Building Location

Council Will Take Final Step Tonight

In rapid-fire succession, three municipal bodies gave official approval to the new Post Office site Tuesday afternoon and recommended sale of a parcel of land to the federal government.

The city council will give the matter top priority tonight with final approval expected to be a formality.

The site of the proposed facility is bounded by Franklin, Division and Packard Streets — two blocks from the College Avenue business district.

After being notified by U.S. Postal officials Friday that options had been obtained on most of the property, and a small city-owned piece on Packard Street also was needed, Mayor George Buckley contacted other agencies.

At a meeting of the Park and Recreation Commission at 1 p.m. Tuesday, the group adopted a resolution that it had no plans for developing the Packard site and indicated the city could dispose of it for Post Office purposes.

Members of the city plan commission also were polled as to whether the proposed new site tied in with future planning and gave their okay.

Buckley reported on both actions when the board of public works met later in the afternoon and recommended sale of the property on Packard Street for $17,807.

In effect, the city will be

Wounded Soldier From Appleton in Good Condition

Army Pfc. Chris Kimball, 19, son of Richard Kimball, 1913 S. Jackson St., Appleton, recently wounded in action in Vietnam, has been listed in good condition in a hospital in Japan.

A telegram, sent to his father on Dec. 9, stated that Kimball had received arm, chest, leg, hip and cheek injuries by shrapnel and small arms.

According to Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kimball, 824 W. Grove St., Appleton, the private's grandparents, Kimball called from Japan on Dec. 12 and told them that he hoped he might be home for the holidays.

Since then no further word has been received from him, Mrs. Kimball said.

The soldier, a 1965 graduate of Menasha High School, enlisted in the army eight months ago. He went to Vietnam two months ago as an ammunition carrier with the infantry.

Referendum Sought for New Bridge

In an unexpected development today, Ald. James Bethke (19th) submitted a resolution to the city clerk's office calling for a referendum April 2 on a proposed 1971 downtown bridge project.

Bethke informed the city council's finance committee Tuesday night of his intentions to submit his proposal, which will be formally received by the council tonight.

Long-range plans call for construction of a high level bridge sometime after 1970 over the Fox River parallel with Oneida Street. It has been estimated it will take a couple of years to plan and about two more years to construct.

The board of public works recommended Tuesday afternoon that a firm be hired to conduct a feasibility study to make a final determination if and where a bridge should be located.

In the past, Bethke has been cool to a study and at one time sought to have the $37,000

Firm Suggested for Fox Bridge Survey

Council Will be Asked to OK Contract, Study Behind Schedule

A New York firm was recommended by the board of public works Tuesday to conduct a preliminary survey and feasibility study for a high level bridge over the Fox River.

The city council will be asked to enter into a contract with Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff — a nationally known firm — when it meets tonight.

Actually, the bridge study is already a year behind schedule, having been earmarked for 1967, but postponed by the council.

The New York firm, which offices in Milwaukee, was one of eight given consideration by the board.

Some aldermen favored Harland Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis, the firm which prepared the city's comprehensive plan and recommended the bridge be constructed across Oneida Street.

Cost of Study

Cost of the study will be $37,000 — the money included in the 1968 budget. There have been estimates a bridge over the Fox will cost upwards of $5 million.

The city council recently eliminated the structure from the five-year capital improvement program with the intention of considering the project after 1970.

Two representatives of the Appleton area Chamber of Commerce appeared before the board and urged the preliminary study to be made now to pinpoint a bridge location.

The Chamber conducted a survey a year ago and said the bridge project was given top priority by those interviewed.

Chamber representatives said they were hopeful construction could be started in 1969 and completed in 1971.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) leaned toward hiring Harland Bartholomew and Associates because the firm made in-depth studies and was more familiar with Appleton's planning and traffic problems.

However, Ald. John Ayers (12th), council president, felt the St. Louis firm "might have a conflict of interest" because it recommended Oneida Street as the bridge location.

Based on data and recommendations supplied by Harland Bartholomew, the city already has made some property acquisitions for the proposed bridge.

Shiocton Man Fined $100 for Bad Conduct

Gary LeMere, 22, route 2, Shiocton, was fined $100 and costs Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge brought after he reportedly forced his way into a Shiocton tavern Nov. 24.

The fine was imposed by Outagamie County Judge Urban P. Van Susteren, who was assigned the case after an affidavit of prejudice was filed against Judge Gustave J. Keller.

County police said that LeMere forced his way into a bar owned by Dennis Conradt the afternoon of Nov. 24. LeMere was arrested shortly after the incident.

No Action

Attorney Green ruled there was no committee action since the council failed to uphold the recommendation with a majority vote. Simon questioned Green's ruling and asked to be furnished a written resume detailing the attorney's reasons for the ruling.

Simon proposed aldermen salaries be increased to $1,200 effective May 1, 1969 when they would all be eligible for hikes. Green differed, however, saying

Battle Coming Over Appleton Station?

ETV Network Could be on Air in '69

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Educational television stations, including one in the Fox Valley Appleton area, will be on the air and broadcasting into school rooms throughout Wisconsin in 1969 if all goes well, according to Angus Rothwell, executive director of the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

Approved in the final hours of the 1967 legislative session early Sunday morning, the new stations will be financed with federal funds and with money raised by the state through the sale of long term bonds.

The new stations will be located "in the Appleton vicinity," and in LaCrosse, Colfax and Wausau. In addition, relay stations to rebroadcast signals will be located in Ashland and near Platteville.

"The only target date we have is to move as fast as possible," said Rothwell, when asked how soon state students could be expected to be benefiting from the broadcasts of educational material aimed at them.

"Sometime in 1969"

"I would imagine that it will be sometime in 1969," he said.

The educational television network, once thought dead for the session, gained the spark of life in the final few hours of the planned 1967 legislative session when it was passed by the Senate and sent to the governor after seeming to fail a few hours before.

The action came on the final "night" of the session, which lasted in the upper house until almost 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

Early in the evening the Senate failed to advance the bill on a vote that fell two votes short of success. The measure, long the hope of educational planners in the state and the center of a legislative fight for two sessions, seemed dead.

The day before, Rothwell, prepared for the defeat, had told the CCHC that a full scale battle should be waged during the interim to win passage of a similar proposal in the 1969 session.

But suddenly, long past midnight, the Senate reconsidered its action and the bill sailed through.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles is expected to sign the bill.

As amended by the Assembly, the bill provides for a 13-man board to oversee the operation of the system. Included on the board will be six legislators, and seven other members appointed because of their positions.

That board will be accountable to the CCHC, as the state university boards are to the Coordinating Committee, which will place lawmakers in the curious position of being responsible to an administrative board.

Also seated on that body will be the governor or his representative, the state superintendent of public instruction, the state vocational school system director, the president of the University of Wisconsin, the secretary of the state university system, a representative of public elementary or secondary schools and a private school counterpart.

"I'm not disturbed by the legislative membership," said Rothwell. "Of course, you can have any kind of legislator out of a legislature made up of 133 members."

Some lawmakers raised stiff opposition to the creation of the system because of dangers which they alleged can come from the institution of a state run broadcasting system. State politicians and bureaucrats could use the system to propagandize, they warned.

Supporters of the system pointed out that the decades old state radio network has not fallen into that trap despite similar warnings in the past.

Rothwell said that the decision locating the station "in the Appleton vicinity" will be left entirely to a professional engineering committee to be appointed to advise the board.

The bill almost died earlier as contenders for the site battled over the location of the Fox Valley station. Green Bay boosters want the station in their city, and point out that the area's three commercial channels are located there.

Support Green Bay

The location of the system's antenna in the valley should be located just outside of the city, they claim.

Appleton backers contend that their city should win the station because of the location of all of the commercial outlets in Green Bay. They had the wording specifying the Appleton area inserted in the bill.

Fox Cities lawmakers point out that the entire Appleton area is included in that wording, and say they must be considered.

And Oshkosh forces emphasize the developing television capacity of their state university and argue their home town should win the station.

A political and educational hassle seems certain.

Rothwell also warned that the channels will broadcast programs aimed at being "not entertainment, but instructional."

No local production facilities will be available at the stations at the start of programming.

County, Union Reach Insurance Agreement

An agreement on group insurance benefits has been reached in bargaining between the Outagamie County Joint Personnel and Insurance committees and representatives of the various county employee bargaining units.

The proposal calls for an increase in the daily hospital room rate coverage to $30 per day. The current group policy pays $18 per day and the county originally had offered a benefit increase to $25. Other revisions also were made in medical coverage provisions of the policy.

An additional concession was made by the county in that group health insurance will be let out on a bid basis for 1969. The 1968 program is being continued under the present carrier, North American Insurance Co.

Alderman Didn't Know About Expense Money

MENASHA — Sixth Ward Alderman Robert F. Winarski, who was absent from Monday night's committee of the whole meeting of the common council, objected today to being included among aldermen in favor of a $20 monthly expense allowance for themselves.

Winarski said, "This is the first I ever heard of it. It never dawned on me that they would ever try this."

He said he also had been absent from the closed-door council meeting in which the allowance apparently was added to the city budget for 1968.

Before he had left the meeting, he said, the council was "thinking in generalities" about the raising aldermanic stipends, and was debating when a salary increase should take effect.

That the council had placed the expense allowance in its budget through the Post Office the first beginning in January, Winarski said, was something he was totally unaware of until he read Tuesday news reports on the previous night's council meeting.

New NHS in Working Stage

NEENAH — Plans for a second senior high school for Neenah will move without delay into the working stages after Jan. 1 as a result of an advisory vote of the board of education Tuesday night.

After minutely studying the Citizens' Committee report submitted to the board after five months of study on Nov. 6, each board member voted to accept the committee's recommendations and go ahead.

The report made by the group of citizens and headed by Fredrick L. Merrill, general chairman and Martin N. Kuether, vice chairman, calls for a $3.9 million construction program within the next five years. $3 million for the new high school total secondary program and a 300-pupil addition to came up with specific proposals to meet a satisfactory time table and the financial implications, board members agreed.

"Projections made by the Approval of the insurance program had been considered one of the major stumbling blocks in reaching a labor settlement with unions representing county employees.

The only complete settlement reached thus far has been with County Hospital employees. A tentative wage agreement was reached Tuesday night with Highway Department employees but that settlement must still be ratified by union members. Negotiations are continuing with the Courthouse Employees Association.

Record Volume of Holiday Mail Is Handled Locally

A record volume of Christmas mail has been sent and received by Appleton area residents, but also apparently headed the raising aldermanic stipends, and was debating when a salary increase should take effect.

Appleton Postmaster Francis Sumnitch said that 5,151,500 pieces of mail were processed through the Post Office the first 19 days of December. 335,000 said, was something he was more than last year for the same period.

The two peak days for outgoing mail, Sumnitch said, were last Wednesday and Friday while the peak incoming days were Thursday and Saturday. Volume Wednesday was 228,000 and 218,000 pieces Friday. Incoming mail Thursday was 249,000 pieces and on Saturday 220,000.

Sumnitch estimated that 80 per cent of the Christmas mail rush had been handled by last Wednesday night and that volume will now taper off.

The 65 per cent increase in total volume was broken down into 233,000 additional pieces of outgoing mail and 102,000 additional pieces of incoming mail.

Wolff Backs Free Coffee For Drivers

Appleton Police Chief Earl O. Wolff today announced his support of the National Coffee Safety Stop Program, a nationwide effort to help reduce traffic accidents by getting drivers to stop for free coffee breaks.

"Although we have always advised drivers to stop often for rest breaks, especially during long drives such as many of us will be making during the coming holiday weekends, people usually are in such a hurry to get somewhere that they put off or ignore the break altogether," Wolff said.

"Because drivers are more inclined to stop for coffee breaks that rest breaks, the National Coffee Safety Stop Program is making free coffee conveniently available to drivers, as the incentive to get them out of their vehicles for a rest stop," Wolff said.

The major participant in the program is the National Restaurant Association, whose member restaurants will serve free coffee to motorists at thousands of highway locations across the nation during the Christmas and New Years weekends.

Welfare Checks Stolen

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Christmas checks to 75 welfare recipients have been stolen from a locked delivery truck, police said today. The checks amounted to several thousand dollars.

Urban Renewal Program Urged For Menasha

Neighbors Suggest Setting Big Goal for Downtown Revival

MENASHA — Two neighboring cities that already have traveled part of the route Menasha is starting have recommended drawing a big target for downtown revival and have said they found federal urban renewal preferable to local redevelopment.

The Menasha Redevelopment Authority grappled with the crucial questions about the downtown area's future Tuesday. The MRA decided to ask for common council action in mid-January on the area to be set aside for development and to invite a federal advisor to explain how urban renewal works before choosing between the two methods.

The basic difference between renewal and redevelopment is that urban renewal involves the federal assistance, requires city-wide action to meet pre-set standards before aid is provided to rebuild trouble spots and often involves removing obsolete buildings to make way for new construction.

Redevelopment, on the other hand is unique in Wisconsin. It depends more heavily on private investment, although the local redevelopment authority,

Little Damage in Three Fire Runs Made on Tuesday

Waste paper ignited by a spark caused a fire which resulted in minor damage Tuesday evening at the Piggly Wiggly Store, 420 S. Outagamie St.

Firemen, who said the paper was near an incinerator, remained at the store about 45 minutes. There was considerable smoke in the large room where the fire started.

At 3:50 p.m. Tuesday, firemen went to One Hour Martinizing, 211 S. Walter Ave., when an odor was detected in the building. Firemen could find nothing wrong.

A defective furnace brought firemen to the Frank Islinger home, 1831 S. Jefferson St., at 1:40 p.m. Tuesday, and at 10:40 a.m., firemen went to the

Knowles Signs Highway Bill

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles wasted no time in signing into law one of the two major highway safety bills passed by the recently adjourned 1967 legislative session.

Approved by the governor Tuesday was a measure boosting the 300-man Wisconsin State Patrol to 375 men, and creating a spot-check vehicle inspection system.

Still awaiting the governor's signature is a traffic safety bill providing for mandatory driver education for persons under 18, e tests for drivers license applicants, and increased penalties for moving traffic violations.

Painful burning and itching of hemorrhoids may be relieved without surgery, in some cases, by a product called M.P.O. Pleasant Acres Razing Approved OSHKOSH — Should the 86-year-old Pleasant Acres Home be demolished? An' is the building in shape today for ambulatory patient use?

These were the two main questions that caused considerable debate during Tuesday's county board session.

A resolution was before the board for the demolition of the building and a boiler house and the board passed it despite a plea by Supv. Robert Wertsch, Oshkosh, to keep the building.

Oliver Thomsen, supervisor from Neenah, "reluctantly" stated that the Pleasant Acres building, with its charming and aesthetic values, was a great fire hazard.

Arthur W. Hoppe, 66, 3131 N. Richmond St., escaped with minor cuts and bruises when his car (in the background) and one driven by Nick F. Rettler, 83, 828 Bell Ave., collided about 3:20 p.m. Tuesday at Outagamie County Trunk 00 and State 47. County police, who estimated damage at $1,300, said that Rettler was westbound and Hoppe was traveling north on 47.

Municipal Election
In his resolution, Bethke specifically states the council should hold a referendum to coincide with the 1968 municipal election with the question being: "Should the City of Appleton construct a high level bridge over the Fox River at Oneida Street at an estimated cost of $5 million?"

City hall observers feel Bethke's resolution might have been timed for an automatic referendum to the board of public works on its recommendation to have the bridge study made.

The St. Louis firm which prepared the city comprehensive plan indicated the bridge construction should be given high priority and that city officials attempt to obtain state and federal aids to help pay for the project.

New Post Office Site Gets Commission Okay

giving the Postal Department an assignable option as have other property owners affected by the proposed development.

Once final approval is given to the building project, the entire site will be sold to the private developer submitting the lowest bid for constructing the building.

The federal government will in turn lease the building from the developer on a long-term basis. This will keep the property on the tax rolls.

Postmaster Francis Sumnicht appeared before the board and said Postal Department officials considered eight sites and were able to obtain options on their first choice.

He said once all options are in, the regional office at Minneapolis will review plans and then send a recommendation to Washington. "Everything is now in the tentative stage," Sumnicht said. "Final word will have to come from Washington before we have an approved project."

Proposal Satisfactory
Asked for his opinion, City Planner Walter Rasmussen said the site tied in with future city future civic center.

plans and posed no future problems. "The proposed building arrangement is generally satisfactory from all standpoints," Rasmussen said.

Rasmussen worked with Postal Department authorities when they made inspections of various available sites.

Sumnicht said the department has adopted a policy of constructing or leasing new buildings for Post Office operations and is getting away from office building.

The existing Post Office at Superior and Washington streets, built in 1932, has other government offices on the second level.

Sumnicht said representatives of the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA), which has jurisdiction over buildings, has not made a decision on what to do with the existing facility.

Rasmussen and Sumnicht said there is the possibility of the old building being renovated for federal offices, or sold.

They indicated the government is also considering the possibility of erecting a federal building in the Jones Park area which has been earmarked for a future civic center.

Court Appoints Youth's Attorney

Vincent Freiburger, 18, 1808 W. Pine St., had an attorney appointed by the court Tuesday when he was arraigned on a forgery charge brought following investigation by Appleton detectives.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller found Freiburger indigent and appointed attorney Sydney Jacobson at county expense. Judge Keller continued the case to Friday afternoon and set bond at $2,500.

Police allege that Freiburger issued a forged $20 check Nov. 4 at the Gold Cushion, 519 W. College Ave.

County Court Grants Divorces to Two Men On Identical Charges

Two men were granted divorces from their wives in Branch 1 Tuesday. Both contended cruel and inhuman treatment.

William D. Johnson, 37, 3730 Capitol Drive, Appleton, was divorced from Jane Johnson, 28, Sturgeon Bay. They were married May 31, 1958, and had no children. The court delayed a decision on alimony and property settlement.

Eugene A. Schlender, 28, three children.

Two Men Avert Serious Home Fire on Tuesday

Two alert Kaukauna men may have averted a serious home fire early Tuesday afternoon when they discovered a car burning in a closed garage at a Town of Grand Chute home.

Jeff Fischer, 203 Oak St., and Robert Baker, 223 W. Eighth St., were driving past the Frank Kiel home, 3533 N. Richmond St., about 1:15 p.m. when they noticed smoke pouring from the attached garage.

The two men ran to the garage and saw the car burning. Finding no one home, they ran next door to Sturm's Body Shop and, with the aid of employees there, opened the garage and pushed the burning car outside, onto State 47.

Grand Chute firemen were summoned, but the entire interior of the 1958 auto already was burned out. Cause of the blaze was not determined. Firemen said it was not likely the fire was of electrical origin, because the battery had been removed from the vehicle.

Dale, was divorced from Karol Schlender, 26, whose address was unknown. The couple was married Oct. 1, 1960 and had three children.

Telulah Park Locomotive Exhibit Benefactor Offers $200 Reward for Vandals

Although hospitalized the past four months, John M. Balliet is trying to do something to halt vandalism damage to the city's railroad locomotive exhibit in Telulah Park.

The locomotive was given to the city in 1959 and Balliet has paid for its installation and maintenance.

In a letter to Mayor George Buckley he has offered a reward of $200 for the name or names of persons responsible for the acts.

"I am now increasing the reward to $200 (it had formerly been $25), retroactive to 1959, and I hope this will be large enough to bring required repairs."

Plant Site in Park Is Sold

Boldt Construction Buys 10 Acres For New Building

City officials wrapped up negotiations Tuesday which will result in the Oscar J. Boldt Construction Co. being the second Appleton firm to purchase property in the new industrial park.

The board of public works approved the sale of 10 acres for $31,000.

Previously, the city sold a large tract to Appleton Mills, the latter planning a new factory building.

The industrial park is on the city's far northeast side and formerly was the old Outagamie County Airport.

A spokesman for the Boldt firm said it planned to construct a modern building on the site to house equipment. "It will be a good-looking building," he told the board.

Some old buildings now on the site will be razed in five years, or sooner, according to the agreement, and the site of the new structure will be landscaped by the owner.

Boldt said he was anxious to get the building project started and tear down the old buildings; a stipulation insisted upon by Ald. William Errington (15th) in whose ward the industrial park site is located.

Pick Lawyer for Youth Charged With Burglary

An attorney was named Tuesday for Donald LeRoy Taylor, 18, Hortonville, who is charged with four counts of burglary.

After finding Taylor indigent, Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller appointed Kelland Lathrop defense counsel at county expense. The case then was continued to Friday afternoon. Taylor is in jail under $6,000 bond.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators contend that Taylor was involved with another youth in burglarizing the Paradise Club, Oct. 21. United Buckley was informed via Archery Lanes, Oct. 22: 41 long distance that it first appeared his father, 70, suffered a heart attack. However, it was diagnosed as a stroke and he is off the critical list.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcom Buckley, who reside in Chicago and have a winter home in Long Beach, spend summers at the family cottage on Lake Winnebago.

2 Area Girls Named for Exchange Trip

International Living Experiment to be in Sweden, Costa Rica

Two Fox Cities girls have been selected to go abroad on the 1968 summer program of the Experiment in International Living.

Barbara A. Book, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Book, 748 Reed St., Neenah, will spend the summer visiting Sweden while Hilary Ziven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard P. Ziven, 1607 Carver Lane, Appleton, will be in Costa Rica.

The program, in operation since 1932, has representatives in 60 countries and annually conducts the exchange of more than 5,000 young people between the U.S. and 100 other nations.

Youths live for one month with families abroad, allowing them the opportunity to develop friendships and learn the customs and traditions of another country as well as participate in the daily lives of the "adopted" family.

During the second month, the people travel in the host country, usually accompanied by members of their new families, or engage in work or study programs.

To prepare them, the Experiment operates a school for international training on a campus in Vermont.

Canadian Law Takes Tippy Driver Off Road

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A policeman can suspend your driver's license here if he stops you for a routine check, or for any other reason, and smells the slightest liquor on your breath.

The new British Columbia law, passed in 1966 but not put into effect until this year, is designed to take the drinking driver out of his car for the time his ability might be impaired by booze.

No charges are involved. A driver's only recourse is to ask for an on-the-spot breath test, or get an immediate blood test from his doctor.

Job Expectations of Youth Mighty High

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you were a recruiter for a large U.S. corporation assigned to lure college graduates to your firm, what bait would you hold out in college campus interviews? A fat starting salary? Job security? Valuable fringe benefits? These incentives were enough to attract my generation, for we entered the career world during the great depression of the 1930s, and against that grim background, economic security goals far down on the list of what was goal enough for us. But if what they want in their new lives which lured us, reports the Research Institute of America in a recent study of 5,000 college students throughout the U.S., you would risk failure to gain a single new employee. Today's young men and women expected to earn less than $7,500 on a first job, or $625 a month, and about one in 12 men said they expected to earn $15,000 or more at this first job. Judging by the salary offers now actually being made by college campus recruiters, the students' expectations are just about in line with the facts.

What would enhance your chances of attracting today's college students to your company? Such incentives as "opportunity for growth," "opportunity for challenge," a "chance to make a contribution to society," or a "chance to write your own job description."

Today's typical college student, in short, considers recognition as an individual as far more important than the size of his paycheck or his prospective seniority rights or provisions for severance pay. He is a child of change, not of a status quo, and he is geared to a rapid pace of progress on all fronts. He is aware of his own importance. C. Youngman of Barron, Edwin G. Dahlberg of Janesville, John Elliot N. Walstead of Milwaukee, and lawyers Leonard F. Schmitt of Merrill, Lawrence M. Engelhard of La Crosse and Eugene O. Gehl of Madison.

Today's typical student also demands from his future career the prospect of adventure. However, he doubts he'll find it in the world of business. When asked by the RIA where "the most exciting changes" were going on today, the students ranked business eighth, after science and outerspace, automation and technology, underdeveloped countries, philosophy and religion, arts and literature, etc.

Central to the drastic change in career goals from my college generation to today's is the simple fact that the vast majority of this era's students have no concept of what it means to be seriously strapped for money, and they simply do not fear this as we did.

A youngster who assumes that he will be offered a historically high starting salary has no comprehension of how it felt to stand in line at employ-

Army's Fastest Mile Run by Wooden Legs

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — In a physical combat proficiency test for Company E of the 3rd Brigade's 4th Infantry Battalion, one soldier posted the highest score ever recorded in the company. And he ran the fastest mile of any of its 200 Army trainees.

Company officers proudly identified the soldier today as Pvt. John J. Wooden Legs, a Cheyenne Indian from Lame Deer, Mont.

Parnell on Ethics Code Rules Group

SPECIAL TO THE POST-CRESCENT
MADISON — The State Supreme Court Monday named Circuit Court Judge A. W. Parnell to an 11-member committee to set up procedures for implementing the new judicial code of ethics.

The committee duties include considering how the code will be interpreted and suggested what forms of discipline should be used against violators, the court said.

Serving with Parnell will be Circuit Judges Harvey L. Neelen of Milwaukee, chairman; Milton J. Meister of West Bend and Donald W. Gleason of Green Bay; County Judges Lee C. Youngman of Barron, Edwin G. Dahlberg of Janesville, John Elliot N. Walstead of Milwaukee, and lawyers Leonard F. Schmitt of Merrill, Lawrence M. Engelhard of La Crosse and Eugene O. Gehl of Madison.

Arsonist Blamed in $100,000 School Fire in Suburban Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The director of the state fire marshal's bureau, William D. Rossiter, said Monday that arson was the cause of a fire that did more than $100,000 damage to the Dunwood school in suburban Fox Point Sunday. Rossiter said three or four separate fires were started in a storeroom and three classrooms located in a recently completed wing of the block-long school. Fox Point authorities were looking for a young girl who reported to firemen at the scene that she had seen a man with a torch near the school. The comprehension of how it felt to girl left before her name could be obtained, authorities said.

Programming Improves Commercials Get Into Changing Picture of Soviet Telecasting

By ANTHONY C. COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — "Comrades," the smiling man on television said, pointing to some costume jewelry, "wouldn't this make a nice gift for your wife?"

The commercial was crude by Western standards but had the same purpose — boosting jewelry store sales.

Occasional use of ads is one of several recent changes as government-run television seeks broader and improved programming.

"Shows are getting better," one Muscovite says. "There is Zhivago" based on the novel of the same old boring stuff.

Westward Looks
Glances of the West have included sexy teen-age girls doing the Shake and a Warsaw show with Caterina Valente singing Beatles songs.

Moscow now has four channels including an educational party and languages. All are on about five hours a night, and one broadcasts an additional two to seven hours in the day.

Reception has improved and coverage extended to some 75 miles from the Moscow transmitter by a soaring, 1,748-foot tower that went into operation last month.

Soviet television's frequent hook-ups with other European broadcasts bring live spots of entertainment programs from the West to Russia.

They can also bring embarrassment. A Vienna announcer of a figure-skating championship said in German that one skater's music was from the film "Dr. Zhivago."

Avoid Problem
The Russian translator merely told viewers "The skater is wearing a blue shirt."

Some viewers find that much of the programming remains a burdened with propaganda. There are speeches by Communist party officials and an emphasis on the military in television plays, movies and inter-lively patter. Propaganda messages slip in at intermission time, showing happy tractor drivers or the Parliament's usual unanimous votes.

News programs are censored, omitting or minimizing bad news and inflating the good. Demonstrations in capitalist countries get heavy play.

Events like U.S. space feats are mentioned briefly.

A plan-faced, matronly woman announces much of the news, and other items. The stations' signoffs, at 11:15 or so, are often given by pretty girls.

The propaganda message is everywhere, even in children's cartoon shows nightly and Saturday afternoons. In one cartoon a Communist sailor tucked a tsar and a three-headed dragon into drowning and said, "Now the land is ours."

There are signs of liberalization everywhere, even in children's cartoon shows nightly and Saturday afternoons. In one cartoon a Communist sailor tucked a tsar and a three-headed dragon into drowning and said, "Now the land is ours."

Give Two Views
An Eastern European commentator recently told Soviet viewers that propaganda should be less one-sided, so people could make up their own minds. In the background of a panel show hung a painting in the forbidden abstract style of the "decadent" West.

More than 19 million sets are said to be in use. A communication satellite relay network called Orbita, announced in late October, is designed to add potential viewers in remote areas such as Siberia.

A variety show is put on weekly in color, and a color show bright with girls and songs was brought in from Paris last month. Color sets are reaching a few stores but their price tag of 1,200 rubles approximates an average worker's yearly pay. Black and white sets range from 168 to 650 rubles. The ruble is officially equivalent to $1.11.

Credit terms are 22 per cent down and a year to pay, with a 2 per cent carrying charge.

'Pleasant,' 'Charming,' 'Familiar' Describe Xavier Holiday Concert

BY ROBERT D. PENN
Special to The Post-Crescent
Christmas concertgoers were treated to an evening of off-beat, light, and easy-going Yuletide music at Xavier High School Saturday night as the school's music department presented its annual Holiday Concert. Featured were the band and choral music under the direction of Frances Scholtz and Zi Hyung Sa.

This was an evening in which the performers did not set out to display their mettle, but one in which they dedicated their time to creating an informal, pleasant Christmas mood of joy and even gaiety for those in attendance. As such, this concert was a charming, "soft-sell" success.

The concert band aptly opened the program with Mel Torme's classic of chestnuts, roasting on an open fire, "The Christmas Song," and the familiar, "Ring Those Christmas Bells." Though little musical contrast was present, the aggregation displayed obvious discipline and preparation.

Latin Touch
In an effectively staged "living room" set, the Choristers, a group including parents and faculty as well as some outstanding students, joined the freshmen chorus, clad as carolers complete with their own well-lit lamp post, in bringing the latin touch to Christmas with "Santa's Cha-Cha-Cha" by the Choristers and "Pablo, the Reindeer" by the freshmen group.

The younger group's enthusiasm for hand-clapping and cha-cha-cha-ing expectedly overshadowed some shyness in their choral technique.

The highlight of the concert's first half was a group of four selections by the Xavier Singers, concluding with Martin Shaw's short, responsive, "Gloria in Excelsis Deo."

Santa Steals Show
Santa Claus himself made a boisterous appearance during the group's presentation of an arrangement of "Jingle Bells" by Ray Charles, and whether desired or not, Mr. Claus stole the show.

Hopelully the audience will recall Mr. Sa's tasteful and careful interpretations of the Spanish carol, "Fum, Fum, Fum," and Leontovitch's one claim to compositional fame, "Carol of the Bells."

The very capable and polished wind ensemble under the direction of Francis Scholz raised the curtain after intermission with a potpourri of familiar carols arranged by John Cacavas, more "south-of-the-border-beat" through Percy Faith's "Brazilian Sleigh Bells," and a Leroy Anderson favorite, "Sleigh Ride."

Soloists Perform
Notable among the soloists of the evening were Mrs. Scholtz, singing one of the very loveliest of Michael Head's many songs, "The Little Road To Bethlehem," and senior Mark Sipple, who displayed a remarkable vocal maturity in Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The audience called for a second, well-earned bow from Mr. Sipple, whose popularity as a performer rivaled the earlier appearance of Mr. Claus.

Other soloists included Jeanne Trumm, Cindy Jentz, Debra Van Rooy, Yvonne Kokke, and a select chamber vocal ensemble called the Star Singers.

The concluding set was well placed, serving as dramatic climax for the evening. The Choristers returned for perhaps the most musically satisfying selection in terms of nuance, "A Boy Was Born In Bethlehem," arranged by well-known teacher, conductor, and composer Paul Christiansen. All vocalists then joined in a combined choir for an arrangement of "O Come, All Ye Faithful," featuring a high soprano descant, ably sung by Mrs. Scholtz.

Hallelujah Exciting
The Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah," performed by the combined choirs, was truly exciting, dramatically and musically.

Mr. Sa had at his disposal sheer numbers, and more successfully brought about an intensity, vitality and down-right physical involvement on the part of the singers themselves. This latter often was lacking in earlier portions of the program. It was of some surprise that the audience did not rise for the performance of the Hallelujah Chorus, a tradition among all peoples since Handel's time.

The reappearance of Mr. S. Claus to direct a little "community singing," as he put it, brought the delightful evening to a happily smashing close. Mr. Claus kissed several ladies in

Revised 'Solomon' On Broadway in April
NEW YORK (AP) — An extensively revised version of the Israeli musical "King Solomon and the Cobbler" is to be presented on Broadway in April. The sponsors said that a brand new score is being coupled to an altered book. The new version is entitled "Solomon-Solomon."

The original was performed during Montreal's Expo 67.

7:30-8 Channel 11 — Travis Williams and Doug Hart are guests on tonight's Packarama. Williams set an NFL record this year by running back four touchdowns. His Green Bay Packer teammate, Hart, was formerly a starting defensive back, but the past two seasons have been spent as a valuable asset to the special squads. Jim Irwin and the hosts.

3:30-8 Channel 5 — James Drury as The Virginian is given one of his too few opportunities to display his low-keyed and short-fused acting style. He is the whole show with the exception of the guests such as Peter Brown as the typical Western heavy, this time the degenerate bull tearing down the life's work of his pioneer-father; Susan Oliver as the housewife with a past no one knows about, and John Lupton as the hired hand who will do what he's told to do. (C)

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — The writers of Lost In Space should get an award for prolific imagination. There seems no end to their devious plots, like tonight's Latin Lotherio who is half bandit and half lover and hot on the trail of a dainty icicle lady fetchingly portrayed by Corinna Tsopei, Miss Universe of 1964. (C)

6:30-8 Channel 5 — As it has done before, Run For Your Life practically motivates itself to death tonight. It starts in typically trite TV fashion with Paul Bryan coming to the aid of a young guitar-playing singer, an unusual girl (Tisha Sterling) leading a Bohemian life in Rome, who is being insulted by equally young male tourists. (C)

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — Bruce Gordon, who gained fame as The Untouchables' Frank Nitti, shows up on He and She as a cop and a not too lovable one at that. (C)

8-10 Channel 2 — Producer Arthur Cantor calls his TV adaptation of Nocolai Gogol's The Diary of a Madman, a "challenge for the audience, equal to the challenge for the actor." His depiction is a good one for the production moves from mood to mood in alternating subtle then violent transitions that require the viewers' strict attention which if given provides great theatrical rewards. French actor Roger Coggio is the one-man cast, playing the part of a man suffering through rational disintegration brought about by his lonely existence. (C)

9-10 Channel 2 — In a welcome reversal from the inundation of holiday repeat specials the Kraft Music Hall offers an original and imaginative delight titled "The Mitzi Gaynor Christmas Show." Although one might not ordinarily equate Mitzi Gaynor, a charming singer-dancer-actress, with the Yuletide spirits, the Kraft producers have happily combined her unique blending of cuteness and sensuality with several traditional Yuletide characters to present a wholesome "ball of wax" that includes practically every phase of the Christmas season. In various segments, she is seen with Cyril Ritchard as Ebenezer Scroogee, Ed McMahon as Santa Claus and Tony Tanner (who nearly steals the show) as Bob Cratchit. (C)

PARIS (AP) — A row over Le-Roi Jones' play "Dutchman" caused a management upheaval at the Dramatic Center in Montpeper.

The mayor of the city banned the drama as "audacious, erotic, politically violent." The ruling was followed immediately by the resignation of Antoine Bourseiller as head of the theater.

Immensely Successful Moscow Circus on Second U.S. Tour

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Moscow Circus has come to town, but it's different from any circus folks have seen hereabout, being totally Russian.

On its second U.S. tour, the Moscow Circus is doing excellent business, thus gladdening the capitalist heart of Morris Chalfen. He is the veteran Minneapolis-based showman who became sponsor of the Moscow Circus' American visits through a happy booking accident.

It seems that one of Chalfen's on the fabulous business the Moscow Circus does in this walk-around clowns with crazy as much to the kid audience costumes, as we do Their But I think the Russian ice The American circus has en-clowns get their comedy by tell-shs should prove a good attraction in this country."

Wednesday, December 20, 1967 The Post-Crescent B 11

In Russia, Chalfen said. Then why does it lose money? Be- cause American labor costs are much higher than those of the Russian performers, he ex- planned. Also, prices are lower —$3.30 to 50 cents vs. $5 to $15.00 here—and the circus buildings are smaller, 3,000 average capacity vs. 8,000 here.

How do the circuses in the two countries differ?

More Individuality
"The Russians have more in- dividual performers," Chalfen said. "There are at least a thou- sand acts there, and they even carry out the cultural exchange ones. They're the greatest turn-ice" in 1959.

Money Evens Out
"But then I had to please the State Department and the unions here," he explains. "To have schools to develop new the USSR tour of "Holiday on Ice" and to provide jobs for American performers, I had to weak on aerialists. I send a circus to Russia I lose money on it; but I make it back sians have never seen—chumps. They have no roller skates, etc. They have no not as lavish as ours, not aimed on the Moscow Circus does in this walk-around clowns with crazy costumes, as we do Their But I think the Russian ice The American circus has en-clowns get their comedy by tell-shs should prove a good attraction in this country."

Snack Break for Tree-Trimmers

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR
By Lillian Mackesy

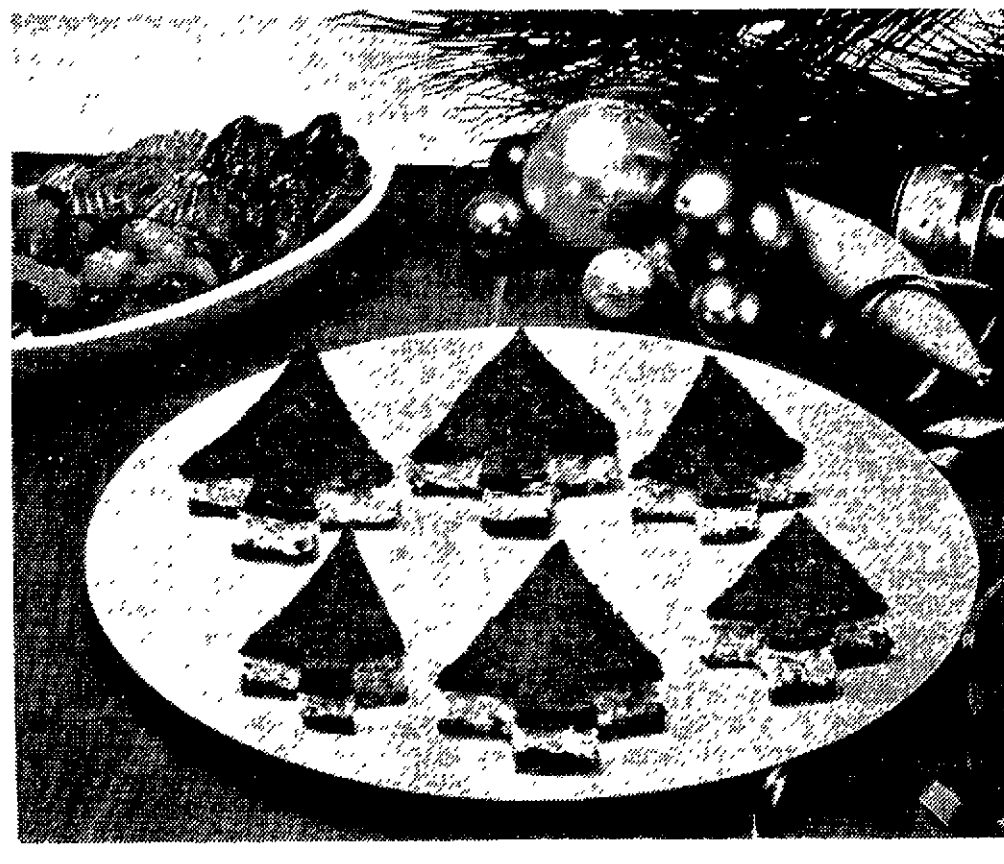

Confirmed Christmas Eve tree-trimmers would have it no other way. They all insist that it has to be the Night Before Christmas that the tree gets trimmed. Actually it's a lovely custom, especially when there's a crowd and the work goes along with light-hearted banter.

It's a sort of relaxed tag-end of holiday hurry just before the start of a new round of Christmas activities, visiting others and welcoming friends and relatives in turn. These particular holiday treats all are in tree-form and lend themselves equally as well to holiday entertaining as to a tree-trimming session.

There is the "tree" of tantalizing Date-Pecan Balls, as rich a cookie as ever graced a tree. The plastic reindeer on top is a gay Christmas Eve touch to remind the trimmers to hurry a bit if a late church service is on the agenda.

Another attractive "tree" is the pickle-spiced cheese spread shaped into a cone then topped with tree-green slabs of pickles to help the illusion along. Tree trimmers with husky appetites will take with gusto to the Yuletide

Book for the Cook Church Recipe Collection Includes Masculine Favorites

History shows that there always have been great men cooks. Some of the world's most famous recipes were created by men chefs. Today, the ordinary family man has taken to barbecue and stove with unprecedented zest and, more important, he's proud of his culinary ability.

That's what's so exciting about a new community cookbook (in its second printing), called "The Pantry Cookbook," published by both MEN and WOMEN members of St. Peter of Alcantara parish in Port Washington.

The opening chapter of 18 pages is titled "Men's Section" and contains recipes of all descriptions. They go from how to make butterscotch candy and hunter's specialties on preparing wild game to lemon chiffon pie and meat loaf with the gourmet name of Viente de Luxemburg.

The other chapters are excellent, too, including a well chosen collection of recipes from appetizers to desserts. The entrees, the meat dishes, salads, breads, cookies, puddings, cakes and pies and vegetables represent family and personal favorites. This means they are eminently usable for serving to families in the Fox Cities area, an important point in choosing a cookbook. There's also a chapter on recipe favorites of celebrities.

The Pantry Cookbook can be purchased by sending $3.40 (which includes the postage) to The Pantry Cookbook, Box 248, Port Washington, Wis. (53074).

Here are a few of the men's gems in the book.

Permanent Press Fabrics Not Totally Care Free

Let's say at the outset that permanent press works. It is not a novelty. Quality permanent press garments can be bought with confidence and these garments will perform well.

Despite its sudden appearance on the textile scene, permanent press is truly a useful and practical addition to the long history of apparel. It's a dream come true.

Permanent press is part of the wash-and-wear industry that has developed in recent years. It is the direct result of continuing research on the part of the textile industry to find ways of making fabrics durable, easier to clean, neater in appearance.

Wash-and-wear meant little or no ironing, garments could be drip-dried. Most of these fabrics utilized the new man-made fibers that resist water and wrinkling. Permanent press was also made possible by synthetics, such as polyester. Polyester blended with cotton could be treated so the fabric retained a flat appearance and creases. Starching and ironing could be eliminated.

How It Works

The permanent press finish is baked in for permanent life. It can't be washed away. The secret of the process is something called resins. Resin is a familiar word to most of us. Some resins come from trees and are used in varnishes and soaps. Resins can be made, chemically, too, and are the basis for the vast plastics industry. They are also used in permanent press finishes. Resins are impervious to water and other liquids, are usually translucent, can be easily applied.

Resin finishes have been used on fabrics for more than 30 years, especially for linens. They were first applied to permanent press fabrics by Koret of California, who developed the process now known as Koratron. George Auferheide, Jr., of Graniteville Company, was the first to see the potential of this process and was instrumental in getting Levi Strauss to make America's first permanent press pants. He took Koret's samples back to the Graniteville Mills in South Carolina, did the necessary experimentation, and together the two companies evolved its successful and revolutionary process.

Permanent Press Apparel
When applied to fabrics, resins change the molecular structure of the fiber, joining with it in a permanent partnership. Resins must be applied to the fabric at high temperatures to achieve this linking-up process. This is done by baking or "curing" in an oven. This can be done two ways: post-curing, where the fabric is treated at the mill but not cured until after it is cut and sewn into garments, and precuring where the fabric is treated and cured at the mill. Look for a brand name label. Major manufacturers such as Levi Strauss, and H. D. Lee, giant retailers such as Sears and J. C. Penney, major fabric producers such as Burlington and Graniteville, and major fiber producers such as Du Pont work only with quality products. Look for branded fibers such as Du Pont's Dacron polyester.

Look for guarantees and certifications that apparel was made under quality-controlled conditions. Look for soil release labels, such as "X-it."

Check the garment for wrinkles, for puckering, for coloration. Waistbands, pockets, and zippers should have no puckering around the edges. Colors should be strong and even. There should be no streaking. These may have been baked in during curing and will not come out. Fabric should be soft and smooth, not rigid.

Check fabric content. The most practical is a combination of cotton and polyester, or cotton and rayon. So far, durable press with all-cotton fibers have not had the durability of blends.

Talk to your retailer. Ask his advice and opinion. Rely on his judgement.

Permanent Press Care
Garments with normal soiling can be washed in cold or lukewarm water. Try to keep the water below 110 degrees Fahrenheit. Heavily soiled clothes will require hotter water; with these the wash, rinse, and dry cycle should be kept as short as possible.

Wash as often as desired. The more frequent the washing the cleaner the clothes will remain. Frequent washing does no damage to the permanent press finish.

Use regular detergents or cold-water detergents. Do not use bleach if the garment label warns against it.

Treat heavily soiled areas, spots and stains with an extra amount of soap or detergent before laundering.

Rinse in cold or lukewarm water. Do not crowd the washing or drying machines with too many garments. This might produce wrinkles that will require touching up with an iron.

Fabric softeners or starch can be used in the rinse water if extra softness or crispness is desired.

Drying is best achieved in tumble-type dryer. Watch the temperature. Try to keep below 160 degrees Fahrenheit. Remove immediately when cycle is completed and hang up.

If the drip-dry method is used hang pants up by cuff, shirts over wooden hangers.

Use a steam iron to touch up wrinkles that might occur.

Keep the washing cycle below 15 minutes, the drying cycle below 30 minutes if tumble dryer is used.

As with all garments, guard against mixing garments of different colors in the same wash. Keep them separate if possible, particularly white garments.

High Cost of Borrowing Can Bankrupt the Unwary

The temptation to buy or fly now, pay later is ever present in any easy-credit economy.

Credit, though, like all tempting things, can be badly misused. The personal bankruptcy rate has been rising steadily for the last 20 years.

Sometimes borrowing is a necessity. More often, it is a luxury. When either the need or the desire to borrow presents itself, there are three questions to ask: Can I afford to borrow? How much should I borrow? Where should I borrow?

If you have no installment debt already, and if you have a steady income, with some to spare after you have paid for food, housing, and clothing, it's probable that you could afford to borrow, unless you have some unusual fixed expense such as the care of an invalid relative.

Two Rules
How much you can afford to borrow is a more complicated question. Here are two of the rules of thumb that bankers use in deciding whether to grant loans.

1. Total monthly installment payments should not exceed 15 per cent of monthly after-tax income.

2. Total debt should not exceed one-third of annual discretionary income—that is, money remaining after the necessities are paid for.

Where you take a loan can make a large difference in the amount of money you have to pay back. Legal annual interest rates on unsecured loans generally range from about 10 per cent at a commercial bank or credit union to 60 per cent at a small-loan company in Alaska.

Small Loan Laws
All states except Arkansas have their own small-loan laws. Rates from loan sharks, of course, have been known to go over 1000 per cent a year. The five-for-six game still exists—the lender gives a man $5 to be paid back $6 the next week, this works out to 1040 per cent true annual interest.

Sources for loans:

1. Full service banks. Rates for car loans are from $4 to $6 per $100 per year, with the car as collateral, and from $5 to $8 for personal loans. The interest is usually discounted in advance. If, for example, you sign a two-year note for $1,800 at 4 1/2 per cent a year, the cash you receive is $1,647. The $153 interest is deducted in advance, and you pay the bank back at a rate of $75 a month. True annual interest is about 9 1/2 per cent.

2. Small loan companies. State laws set interest at widely varying rates, usually by the month. In a state which permits 3 per cent monthly interest charges on a small loan, the lender is actually collecting 36 per cent a year.

Low Interest Rate
3. Life insurance companies. You may borrow against the cash value of some policies at a low interest rate, usually from 4 to 6 per cent. Will power is needed on this kind of loan, because there is no pressure to repay, although interest continues to be charged.

Those who belong to credit unions—usually established within large companies, fraternal organizations or religious groups—can get loans at interest comparable to bank rates.

Whether you can get a loan depends, of course, on your credit rating. A good credit rating means, mainly, a record of paying your bills on time. Here are the ways to protect it:

Lenders Wary

1. Be careful not to run up too many installment debts at once. Continuous high debt in relation to income makes lenders wary.

2. Keep up your payments. Generally, on such things as charge accounts, you are expected to pay within 45 days of purchase. If you habitually let things go for as long as 90 days, you may be classified as a "slow pay."

3. Don't become a collection

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Lift From Make-Up

Sometimes you just can't seem to win the loveliness laurels. How about those evenings when you want to look especially well, but you look like a wraith? The Ghost of Christmas Past!

Well, there's where the right make-up would put a fresh face on a worn one. The first step is removing stale cosmetics, and you must make it. Otherwise applications muddy. Several kinds of cleansers work instantly. In the category are creamy water-solubles and clear liquids with a conditioning feature.

The effective make-up for such occasions is ultra-sheer and luminescent. A tired face appears positively haggard when make-up is of a masky texture or applied with a heavy hand. Via luminosity, cosmetics highlight the face in a way that softens telltale marks of fatigue.

Many foundations are now feather-weight and luminous. To use in conjunction with foundation, there are creamy highlighters for additional sparkle wherever it may be called for.

For relieving dark circles, illusion creams are currently favored. But cover sticks still do a good job. If the eyes look tired, subtle, smokey, eye make-up best disguises that fact.

As for lipstick, you would be hard put to it to find one that is not light-struck. And lip gloss, worn over color, adds to the voltage.

No ghost you, but a real live wire!

About the House

To prevent the metal top of a salt shaker from corroding, try this tip: Coat the inside of the top with melted paraffin. Punch through holes with a needle before the wax hardens completely.

Want to clean that hard-to-reach kitchen vent? Fasten paper toweling over the furniture-dusting attachment of your vacuum cleaner and run this over the vent. The toweling wipes off the grease, and the suction pulls out the dust. Replace the toweling as it soils.

Snack Foods for Tree-Trimmers

Logs, arranged on a long platter with Spicy Crab Apple Sauce. There's also (not pictured) a recipe for Whipped Sesame Dressing that goes beautifully with a fruit salad — always a popular and delicious snack for a busy evening. The salad can be a go-along with the Logs or tree-shaped sandwiches on a buffet table.

As for the sandwiches, they are delicious examples of ingenuity. A nicely spiced filling of tuna goes with the crunchy sweet mixed pickles to provide a peppery flavor and crisp texture in one selection. The other idea takes to the box lunch theme, each lunch either individual or for a two-some, and including favorite sandwiches cut into tree shape with a cookie cutter, Angostura Fruit Balls in paper or foil baking cups and Spicy Grape Punch on hand with a supply of holiday paper cups for serving.

The box lunch makes the serving easy, informal and fun with clean-up even easier. Anyway, tree trimmers wherever you are, here's for a good old-fashioned MERRY CHRISTMAS!

DATE-PECAN BALLS
1 cup soft butter
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 cups finely ground pecans
1 cup diced dates
Confectioners sugar

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy; add vanilla and mix lightly. Add flour, mixing lightly; add pecans and dates; mix until well blended.

Shape mixture into balls, using heaping teaspoonful for each ball. Refrigerate for about two hours.

Place on baking sheet, about one inch apart. Preheat oven to 350 degrees; bake for 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from oven and roll at once in confectioners sugar. Cool, then sprinkle generously with more confectioners sugar.

Note: These date-pecan balls freeze very well. However, if planning to freeze them, do not sprinkle them with confectioners sugar until you are ready to defrost and serve them.

For variety, prepare this recipe with imported pitted whole dates in place of the diced dates. In this case, proceed as in the original recipe, but DO NOT add the dates to the mixture. Instead, cut whole dates in half crosswise, and spread one heaping teaspoon of the mixture around each date half. Then shape them into balls and refrigerate, etc.

PICKLE CHEESE TREE
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
8 ounces Swiss cheese, grated
8 ounces Cheddar cheese, grated
½ cup chopped sweet gherkins
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
Small sweet gherkin slices

On low speed of electric mixer, beat together cheeses, chopped pickles and Worcestershire. Chill about two hours; shape into six-inch high cone-shaped tree; decorate with pickle slices and pickle star to resemble Christmas tree.

YULETIDE LOGS
1 envelope Instant Mashed Potato granules
1 egg, beaten
8 slices cooked ham
Whole Cloves
Melted butter

Prepare mashed potatoes for seven servings as directed on the envelope, except reduce water to 1½ cups. Add egg; stir until well blended. Spoon potato mixture onto ham slices; overlap ends of slices to form logs. Fasten with whole cloves. Place in shallow oblong baking dish; brush with melted butter. If desired, refrigerate until ready to use. Heat in 350-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot with Spicy Crab Apple Sauce.

SPICY CRAB APPLE SAUCE
1 envelope (¾-oz.) Brown Gravy Mix
1 can spiced crab apples
Parsley

Empty contents of gravy mix envelope into saucepan. Drain one cup syrup from the crab apples. (Add enough water to make one cup liquid if there is not enough syrup.) Stir gradually into gravy mix. Heat just to boiling, stirring constantly. Pour over hot Yuletide Logs. Garnish with spiced crab apples and parsley.

WHIPPED SESAME DRESSING
(For Fruit Salads)
2 tablespoons sesame seeds
½ cup heavy cream
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate
1 tablespoon prepared yellow mustard

Toast sesame seeds in 325-degree oven until lightly browned (about 10 minutes); cool. Whip cream until thick. Blend in mayonnaise, orange concentrate, mustard, and sesame seeds. Recipe makes about one and three-fourths cups dressing.

ANGOSTURA FRUIT BALLS
½ package dates
½ package figs
½ package dried apricots
2 cups seedless raisins
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons Angostura aromatic bitters
½ teaspoon salt

Combine fruits and put through meat grinder, using finest knife. Add lemon juice, Angostura aromatic bitters, and salt. Knead together until thoroughly blended. Form into balls and place into fluted paper baking cups. Yield: Approximately 12 to 18 balls.

SPICY GRAPE PUNCH
1 bottle grape juice (1½ pints)
1 quart water
½ can frozen lemon juice
½ can frozen orange juice
½ cup sugar
½ cup boiling water
1 tablespoon Angostura aromatic bitters
1 quart club soda

Combine grape juice with water and frozen fruit juices and let stand until juices are dissolved. Combine sugar with boiling water. Stir until dissolved and add to first mixture. Add Angostura aromatic bitters and club soda and chill.

TUNA PICKLE SANDWICH TREES
1 can (6½ ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
½ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup finely chopped sweet mixed pickles
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon tarragon leaves
Softened butter
Thinly sliced pumpnickel

Mix together tuna, celery, pickle, mayonnaise, lemon juice and tarragon. Spread tuna mixture on buttered pumpnickel. Complete sandwiches and cut each freehand into tree shape. If desired, cardboard pattern or cookie cutter may be used. Recipe makes filling for eight sandwiches.

Future Nurses at Fox Valley Lutheran High School got together at Appleton Memorial Hospital's fourth floor children's playroom Thursday to create a bit of Christmas. Linda Schlemme was chairman of the tree trimming project for the club, which has about 35 members. As several little patients look on, Bonnie Henke, Linda Greve, Miss Schlemme and Pam Werner put the lights in place. Mrs. E. J. Greve is club advisor.

Recipe Streamlines Last Minute Baking

Women caught in the rush of last-minute Christmas cookie baking might streamline their efforts with a basic recipe from which three different kinds of bar cookies can be baked.

Rolling oats give hearty texture and unusual flavor to the dough, but the imaginative cook can come up with date pecan, coconut meringue and almond fruit bars.

ROLLED OAT MIX
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder

DATE PECAN BARS Prepare rolled oat mix; stir in 1 cup finely chopped pitted dates and ½ cup chopped pecans. Spread into greased foil-lined 9 by 9 by 8-inch baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) until done, about 30 minutes. Cool; cut into 1 by 3-inch bars. Roll in confectioners' sugar. Yield: About 27 bars.

COCONUT MERINGUE BARS Prepare rolled oat mix, using only the egg yolks, saving whites for topping. Spread into greased foil-lined 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) 15 minutes. While bars are baking, prepare meringue. Beat the 2 egg whites, 1 teaspoon vanilla, and ½ teaspoon salt until whites hold soft peaks. Add ½ cup granulated sugar gradually, beat until whites are stiff and glossy. Fold in 2-3 cup flaked coconut. Spread meringue over partially baked bars. Sprinkle 1-3 cup coconut over top. Return to oven; finish baking, about 15 minutes. Cool; cut into 1 by 3-inch bars. Yield: About 36 bars.

ALMOND FRUIT BARS Prepare rolled oat mix. Spread in greased foil-lined 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) until lightly browned, about 20 minutes. Combine 1 cup chopped mixed candied fruits, 1-3 cup raisins, 1-3 cup candied cherry halves, ½ cup halved blanched almonds, ½ cup light corn syrup, and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Spread evenly over cookie dough; place in broiler, four inches from heat, until nuts toast. Cool; cut into 1 by 3-inch bars. Yield: About 36 bars.

lead that is neither meat, fowl, nor good red herring.

South's jump to four clubs was the Gerber Convention, often used directly over a no-trump bid to ask partner how many aces he holds. The response is four diamonds to show no aces or all four; four hearts to show one ace; four spades, two aces; four no-trump, three aces.

If West makes the enterprising club lead, East takes the ace of clubs and returns a club. South ruffs and eventually surrenders a spade. Down one.

If West wants to make a safe lead he should open the ten of hearts. South would eventually lose one club and one spade. Down one this way also.

Poor Theory
When the hand was actually played West opened the seven of spades on the theory that spades was the unbid suit. Actually, diamonds was the only "real" suit shown in the bidding. South considered playing dummy's queen of spades and would have done so if West had been fond of enterprising leads against six of a suit. Since West was known to be a "soft" opening leader South played the low spade from dummy at the first trick.

Now East's king of spades was trapped, and South didn't have to lose a spade trick. West's poor opening lead made a difference of 1470 points.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-A 10 2; H-K J 5; D-A C J 10 9 7; C-7. What do you say?
ANSWER: Bid three diamonds. The jump in a new suit should indicate a hand that may well produce a slam opposite a minimum opening bid. You would certainly want to get to slam if partner has as little as five spades to the king-queen and two side aces.

History Gives Clue To Heart Ailments

Study of prehistoric man has given medical researchers a clue to major heart ailments today.

Problems develop from meat-rich diets that produce waxy deposits in the arteries and these in turn lead to heart attacks or "coronaries." It all could have had its start when prehistoric man-like creatures turned from vegetable foods to meat.

Dr. William S. Collens and his co-workers in the Vascular Research Laboratory of Maimonides Hospital, Brooklyn, have suggested the role of diet in coronary heart disease, or thrombosis, may have had its origins long before recorded history.

Comparisons of the fossil teeth of extinct types of man and the teeth of homo sapiens today show that both are better equipped to eat leafy vegetables, roots and herbs than meat.

Relates to Fats
What a person eats and how a heart behaves are closely related. For instance, coronary heart disease is minor in Japan where diets are low in animal fats. But the Japanese of Hawaii, who eat a western diet, have a higher rate. Coronary heart disease takes the lives of almost 600,000 American men a year.

Doctors attribute this rate primarily to high levels of serum cholesterol in the blood of American men — and they blame this on our high-meal, high-fat diet.

The Maimonides researchers found that fossil remains of the teeth of such man-like creatures as Zinjanthropus and Australopithecus, found in Africa, show a change from vegetable to meat diets. Zinjanthropus teeth were ground down by chewing fibrous vegetables, whereas the teeth of Australopithecus, commonly regarded as a more direct ancestor of man, showed less wear. The Brooklyn investigators assume since man has the teeth of a plant eater, he also must have the digestive system of a plant eater.

But it doesn't follow that the modern executive or blue-collar worker, apartment dweller or head of a suburban family, has to give up steaks, lambchops or pork for a vegetable plate.

What father would wish to face the comments of his offspring if they were called upon to dine on spinach and turnips for Christmas instead of the standard roast turkey and fixings? What would his fellow Rotarians say if he turned vegetarian?

The modern head of a household may be amenable to warding off a heart attack by dieting and exercising to reduce his weight, but would in all likelihood turn into a ravening, saber-tooth tiger if put on a meatless, butterless, fatless, dessertless regime.

Turning herbivorous is not necessary to combat a high cholesterol count. In addition to diet and exercise, man has a new drug therapy.

New Drug Helps
Of the new drugs that lower the cholesterol count in the blood serum and thus perhaps turn aside the threat of a devastating heart attack, one of the most promising has been described as a synthetic analogue, of natural thyroid hormone.

The drug, the chemical name for which is sodium dextrothyroxine; lowers the blood cholesterol by speeding excretion, as does levothyroxine, the hormone produced by the thyroid gland.

It has been in general medical use in 29 nations up to six and a half years, and this year has been cleared for use in the United States.

Poor, Sickly Indonesians Queue Up for Rice Rations

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Aminah, looking more than her 20 years, stood in line three hours waiting for her rice ration.

Around her, hundreds of women and children, barefoot and ragged, noisily pushed around the wooden barrels of government rice. Two of Aminah's four children clung to her sarong.

It was at one of the ration centers scattered throughout this city of four million. Rice, the basic food, has tripled in price in the past six weeks and is still rising but at the centers a needy person can draw three liters of rice a day at 15½ rupiahs, about 9 cents a liter.

On Jakarta's open market, rice costs 38 rupiahs a liter, about a quart. In North Sumatra it is up to 70 rupiahs. Yet in other areas, like the South Celebes, villagers pay only 4 rupiahs.

Similar Tales

Most of the women crowding the centers here have depressingly similar tales. All are poor, sickly and have unemployed husbands or are widows. Aminah's husband is a bricklayer who is idle much of the time. They live in the dirt-encrusted slums behind the glistening Hotel Indonesia.

Taunts carried across the dust raised by shuffling feet in the ration center. "Is this the new order?" snapped one pregnant mother in a jibe at the present New Order government. "We never had this problem in the past." Helmeted troops with submachine guns stood nearby.

Longest Draughts

Indonesia is suffering one of its longest droughts in years, but mismanagement is also responsible for the critical rice situation. Various ministers and directors only shrug and say "It's not my responsibility."

The monsoon rains will eventually come, but the long dry spell has destroyed up to 20 per cent of the summer rice crop in Java. This small island, with 70 per cent of Indonesia's 110 million people, grows 75 per cent of the rice.

Some 4,000 youths marched against the offices of Acting President Gen. Suharto recently to demand he lower prices.

Reduce Price

Suharto told them rice arriving soon would help reduce the price. In fact Indonesia is importing 183,000 tons between now and next April when the harvest comes in. The cost, more than $30 million, is a blow to the government's economic stabilization program.

At least 10.4 million tons are needed this year but production will be some 500,000 tons below this by many estimates. The government is already using next year's rice stocks to meet this emergency. Another bad crop could be disastrous, for the people and the troubled government.

Thailand also is facing shortages and has reduced exports to Indonesia. The Philippines is a rice-importing nation and is selling here only for badly needed hard currency.

U.S. Biggest Supplier

The United States, which has signed an agreement to sell 100,000 tons of rice for $19.5 million on soft terms, is Indonesia's biggest supplier. Its reserves are limited and it is attempting to push bulgur wheat, cheaper and more nutritious. But rice is the traditional food.

The reasons for the high costs are many. The Chinese here have been key rice distributors for centuries. Hundreds of Chinese shops have been burned and the Chinese driven out of business. In North Sumatra, where rice is highest, some 7,000 Chinese have been forced into loose concentration camps. Indonesians have shown far less ability to distribute the rice smoothly.

Transportation costs are high and inflation continues to force up prices. Says one informed economist: "Rice represents 40 per cent of the cost of living index here. If it goes up, everything else goes up."

Unify Angry Students

There is fear in the military circles which run the country that the rice issue could unify the angry students who lost their focal point when former President Sukarno was toppled. The government is obviously concerned but its lack of firm control over this sprawling archipelago will make it difficult to find a quick solution.

Adds Flourishes To Kitchen Tasks

To have a good flavor combination, add grated orange rind to a white or yellow cake batter and frost the cake with chocolate icing.

A delightful decoration for a chocolate cake is made with blanched almonds (plain or toasted) and semi-sweet chocolate. Just dip one end of each almond in a little of the melted chocolate and insert the undipped ends of the nuts in the cake frosting. You'll need at least a dozen of the almonds for the top of the cake, but of course more may be used for a lavish effect.

Robbs Settle in for 2nd Honeymoon Week

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas (AP) — Capt. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb arrived in St. Thomas Monday afternoon at Etelman House, where they are expected to spend at least a week.

The honeymooners, married in the White House Dec. 9, were greeted Tuesday by their next-door neighbor, Allen Hofstatter, whose home, at the same 1,400-foot level on Crown Mountain, is called Bonne Resolution.

Hofstatter said that shortly after the couple arrived from Caneel Bay Plantation—the resort hotel on St. John where they spent their first week of their honeymoon—Robb reappeared in a sport shirt and khaki shorts and drove off down the mountain.

Ordinary Task

When he returned, "he had obviously been grocery shopping like any other dutiful husband," Hofstatter said, "and juggled the bags out of the trunk and into the house."

Hofstatter also said that Secret Service men had taken up residence in the house late Sunday afternoon.

Etelman House, a gift of Harry Etelman of Greenwich, Conn. to the College of the Virgin Islands, was redecorated and refurnished for the couple.

The college lends the house to the government of the Virgin Islands on occasion to be used for important visitors.

It was learned that the couple went fishing Thursday on the charter boat Savana Bay, owned by Caneel Bay Plantation.

A member of the crew said Robb and Mrs. Robb each caught a fish. The President's daughter, he said, "caught the first fish, a nine-pound bonita, and he caught the biggest fish, a 24-pound blackfin."

The Defense of Japan

Prime Minister Sato of Japan came out rather well in the controversy over Okinawa. Certainly he never expected President Johnson to agree at this time to turn over all administrative control of the island to Japan at a time when Okinawa is a major American base in its struggle with the Vietnamese. Nor as long as nuclear devices are a political issue in Japan could the Japanese prime minister promise to let the American installation continue in its present form under Japanese complete control.

But while the political repercussions of the Okinawa affair have died down in Japan, due in great part to the hard-headed realistic attitude of the Japanese, the matter has brought into the limelight a far deeper problem for the future.

It was something of a triumph for the United States and General Douglas MacArthur when the Japanese constitution was adopted with its pacifistic Article 9. The Article reads "aspiring sincerely to an international peace based on justice and order, the Japanese people forever renounce war as a sovereign right of the nation, or the threat or use of force, as a means of settling disputes with other nations."

"For the above purpose, land, sea, and air forces, and all other war potential, will never be maintained. The right of belligerency of the state will not be recognized."

This seems pretty definite. But actually, when the United States became involved in the United Nation's defense of Korea, the Japanese were encouraged to beef up their military forces so that American troops in Japan could be released for combat duty. Today Japan maintains 172,000 men under arms, obviously more than needed for internal security since the Japanese police are highly responsible and efficient. Some 8 per cent of the Japanese budget goes for arms.

But while the Japanese have been thus encouraged to contribute to at least some defense of Asia, there is obviously reluctance. Japan is unquestioned as the economic leader in today's Asia. It ranks almost third in industrial production in the world. It is definitely the hope of the non-Communist world to challenge Chinese dominance of the continent.

Prime Minister Sato is not naive. He and many other Japanese leaders understand that a certain amount of military strength is necessary in a world where the threat of aggression did not disappear with the defeat of imperialist Japan or Nazi Germany. While Japan once sought more territory for its crowded populations and while it is still a crowded nation, it now has things that the less fortunate or the less capable want.

But as long as the United States is the protector in Asia, it is not likely that Japan will assume much in the way of foreign responsibilities. Advocating an increase in military might or any suggestion of possession of nuclear bombs would still be political suicide in a land which felt two atom bombs — and which has recovered so remarkably economically without much in the way of military forces.

The task for American diplomats is to persuade the Japanese leaders that the United States will not always be around for security and that the Japanese will have to contribute more for their own benefit. But it will be no easy job.

Bravado and Tears

He was small for his 12 years. The top of his head was barely visible over the back of the chair in the front of the courtroom. His mother sat in the next chair. He didn't look any more than eight years old, but let no one in the courtroom mistake, he was "big."

Two policemen and two social workers stood nearby. The policemen would testify soon — about the boy's behavior. And the social workers, to a great extent, held the boy's fate in their hands. But what did he care. He was 12 years old. He had all the answers. And besides, his mother didn't seem too concerned, so why should he be. The black-robed judge strode to his bench. The boy glanced at the clock on the courtroom wall. He gave a look of disgust. What a bore. He had a lot of better things to do than sit around in a stuffy courtroom listening to a bunch of know-nothings. He was 12 years old. What did they know.

The first policeman sat near the judge and told of how the boy and his "friends" were involved in more than 20 offenses in the past year. They smashed 25 windows in a school and 40 windows in a warehouse. The policeman said the boys broke the windows with their fists and feet. With tools and BB guns. So what. Boy, what a bore. He looked at the clock again. Another look of disgust. His mother listened.

The policeman told how the boy beat up younger children (they must have really been small), killed a pigeon with a rake (pigeons aren't very big) and shot arrows in town. Big deal. So do other kids. Then the policeman started talking about $900 for new windows in the school. The mother suddenly became interested. How could she stretch her welfare check even further to pay for all those windows. She hadn't counted on paying for all the damage. And good paying jobs for small 12-year-old boys aren't plentiful.

The first policeman finished. And the second, by now, the mother was sobbing. The boy slid down in the plush, high back chair. If you were sitting behind him in the courtroom, you no longer could see his head. He didn't glance impatiently at the clock. He stared at his feet.

The juvenile judge asked him how he was doing in school. He replied, "good." The judge knew better. He had a written report in front of him. The judge asked him what he was failing in. English. What else? Geography. What else? Science. He had a D in another subject. The mother sobbed harder.

Then a funny thing happened. The boy looked at his mother sitting beside him sobbing convulsively. And tears rolled down his cheeks. First a few. Then more. And soon the 12-year-old boy, who minutes before was bored and disgusted, was crying so hard he couldn't reply to the judge's sternly-worded questions. The judge asked him why he couldn't answer.

But all the 12-year-old boy could do was shake his head — and try in vain to stop the tears.

The Junta Wants the King Back

The apparently sincere efforts of the ruling military junta in Greece to persuade their rebellious young king to return to the country after the failure of his effort to seize control is something quite rare in history.

Such a move toward a potential or real rival comes either from a position of considerable strength, as is happening somewhat in Taiwan today, or from weakness or a fear of weakness. Certainly it is not clear which prompted the action by the junta but it appears likely that they would prefer to have the king in Greece to bolster their regime rather than on the outside stirring up opposition.

The institution of the monarchy was at one time extremely important both to the citizens of a nation and to the people who really controlled the power. It was the only contact between the ordinary people and their government in the days before representative government. Such a situation exists in few places today — Thailand is one — but the monarchy still is important as a sentimental relic of greatness as in Great Britain.

In Greece, the junta has been increasingly criticized for its setting aside of civil rights, its repressive measures toward political opponents and its often ridiculous moves to raise the morals of the nation. But the failure of King Constantine to lead a popular revolt indicates a considerable amount of apathy on the part of the people — or an almost complete lack of sympathy for the position of the king and the institution of the monarchy. The monarchy was superimposed upon Greece; its royal house derives from Danish, not Greek, ancestors.

Democracy is a difficult sort of government to maintain, however important Americans consider it to be. The Greek military junta intends to retain arbitrary power and would like the king to back them up. So far, the Greek people seem to be virtually leaderless if they want anything else.

Christmas Festival a Success

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post, Dec. 18, 1867.

The Christmas Festival of the Congregational Society Wednesday evening last was well attended, pleasant and profitable.

The supper was good, the articles for sale of practical value and, offered at reasonable prices, they sold rapidly.

The art gallery presented an imposing array of titles and works of art. It was crowded with lovers of the beautiful. To our minds, the two companion pieces called "Mustered In" and "Mustered Out" were the gems of the collection.

The Society cleared probably $200.

Kraft Writes

Conservative Trend Illustrated By Major Acts of Congress Session

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — The coming turn to the right which so many of us feel in our bones is announced in a more concrete fashion by the record of the Congress this year. Indeed, by a curious twist, the conservative tendency finds expression not only in a balking on certain matters, but even more in the positive achievements of the Congress on the Great Society program.

Kraft

The most striking feature of the session has been a negative tone reflected in refusal to pass two critical Administration proposals. In each case the proposed legislation, while conservative in thrust, was held up for not being conservative enough.

The most important refusal, indeed the most important action of the whole session, affected the President's request for a 10 per cent tax surcharge. The Administration justified the surcharge as a necessary piece of fiscal discipline.

NEED MORE DISCIPLINE

But that orthodox appeal proved to be not orthodox enough for many House members grouped around Chairman Wilbur Mills of the Ways and Means Committee. They have school Christmas program at Combined Locks Grade School. Taking part in "Let's Light the Christmas Tree" were students Joan Pennings, Cindy Thomas, Pat Tilly and Mary Lamers. It was all in pantomime. Tom Van Dalen gave the closing for the program.

A cornet-clarinnet ensemble which performed at intermission time was composed of Vicki Manley, Mary Joy Piepenberg, Roger Bolwerk and Duane Vanden Boogaard.

Ten members of the Boys Brigade at Neenah were chosen to attend an international camp in Jamaica. British West Indies in April. The Brigaders were Don Pansch, William Kuehl, Thomas Smith, Steve Hildebrand, Tom Mott, Tom Steinmetz, John Severson, Dick Dwelle, Dave Hanson and Fred Block.

blocked the surcharge with the argument that discipline should go beyond a tax rise to include drastic cuts in spending.

The second serious setback for the administration came in the field of crime. Again the background of growing public concern with lawless behavior, the Administration put forward what it called — with an eye to the outraged middle-class voter — the "safe streets bill" for beefing up local police forces with federal funds.

The Congress has apparently felt that the streets would be safe if Attorney General Ramsey Clark were less in tune with the more progressive mayors and the liberal decisions of the Supreme Court in the field of criminal procedure. Thus the House, while passing the bill, stipulated that the Justice Department had to distribute funds through the states rather than directly to the cities.

As to the Senate, the bill has been held up by a conservative coalition under John McClellan of Arkansas. He wants to include in the bill provisions authorizing, despite what the Supreme Court may say, the use of confessions and electronic eavesdropping.

On the positive side, more Great Society legislation has gone through the Congress in far better shape than anybody supposed possible last January. But the salient feature here is the marked disparity between the Senate and the House.

For example, on rent supplements, the House authorized no money, the Senate approved $40 million, and the conference of the two bodies agreed on $10 million. On model cities, the House voted $237 million, the Senate $600 million, and the Joint Conference $312 million. For the poverty program, the House authorized $1.6 billion for one year, the Senate $2.2 billion for two years, and the joint report settled on a two-year authorization with $1.98 billion voted for the first year, and $2.18 billion for the second year.

Federal Court Cases Increase

CHICAGO (AP) — The trial docket in federal courts reached an all-time high in 1967, marking the ninth straight year of increases in federal litigations.

Cases pending before the U.S. Courts of Appeals climbed to 5,763-up 376 from the number pending the previous year, Commerce Clearing House reports.

A total of 7,903 cases were docketed, with 7,527 cases disposed of during the period, nearly 1,000 more than in 1966. District Court civil case filings climbed to 70,961, with 70,172 civil cases closed, 4,000 more than in 1966.

Criminal cases pending in District Courts increased 16 per cent to 13,541, with 28,677 cases terminated during the period.

Birth Rate Continues Declining in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — State Health Department statistics show Hawaii's birth rate and birth count have been dropping for 13 years. The decline has been greatest during the last three years.

The birth rate stood at 34.1 per thousand in 1953; it's now down to 20.9.

Officials attribute the drop to the heavy exodus of military dependents following the departure of husbands to Vietnam, availability of birth control measures and sizable emigration of young people in the most eligible, child-bearing age group.

HELPED HOUSE PASSAGE

The point is not merely that in each case the Senate pulled the House toward a more generous stand. More important, the Senate facilitated House passage in another way.

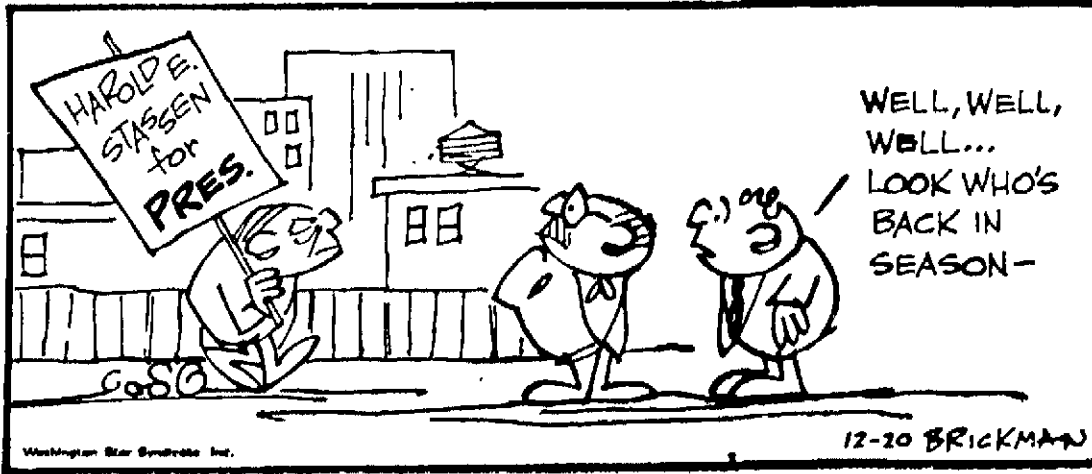

For before agreeing on compromise, the generous Senate version was usually voted down by the House. By spurning the Senate figures, Congressmen could go on record with votes for economy which can now be used to offset any criticism which comes as a result of finally voting for the program.

That the Senate had to act as a kind of cover for the House in voting the Great Society is of critical importance as a measure of national opinion. For the Senators who put across the Great Society include men elected in the liberal landslide of 1964, as well as the good liberal year of 1962. But the House, which was resisting the Great Society so vehemently, was, of course, entirely renewed a year ago.

Thus the accomplishments of the Congress, as well as what it did not do, both conspire to underline the same point. Like it or not, political opinion in the country is turning right, and the outlook for poor people and for minorities is bad.

Wisconsin Report

In Rising School Costs, State 'Ain't Seen Nothing Yet'

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Beyond any doubt, the most difficult problem in public affairs in Wisconsin for the foreseeable future is the one that troubled the Legislature during its long deliberations this year. It is causing even deeper worries among the local politicians of Wisconsin responsible for the management of local government.

Wyngaard

It is the problem of financing a public school budget that has experienced an explosive inflation during the last decade and that no one dares predict will change significantly in its direction during the next.

The State Department of Public Instruction casually notes in a current information bulletin that the per pupil enrolled cost in Wisconsin since 1956 has risen by 63 per cent from about $294 to $480 per year.

EXPENSES UP 14 PER CENT

In the same bulletin it is related that the school expenditures for the new term now begun, according to a random survey, will be about 14 per cent above those of last year, or about $64 millions. In spite of the fact that the Legislature went the limit this year in boosting state support for the schools within its self-imposed rule of avoiding a new state tax increase — a rise in local school rates is a familiar story. The state department says that nearly 260 of 299 kindergarten through 12th grade districts indicated school tax rate increases this year — in spite of steadily rising state and federal aids.

But that is only a part of the story of the school costs that will be borne by the people of Wisconsin for some years into the future.

The Legislature after years of quarreling on the subject bowed to the mandate of the people this year on the non-public school pupil transportation issue. Such transportation has now been legalized. Cost estimates will be significant.

PRECEDENT ESTABLISHED

The Legislature this year also voted a substantial appropriation, outside of the regular school aid formula, to provide special services for the culturally deprived and educationally disadvantaged — Meaning the Negro population in the metropolis. Everybody knows that whatever the label on the appropriation bill this year, the precedent has been established and that further special bonuses for the Milwaukee school system will come, if, indeed, they are not increased.

Equally important in future fiscal liability is the emergence of the new all-inclusive vocational and technical school program. The first local tax impact of that reorganization is now being felt in the non-city areas where the vocational school tax was not heretofore levied. The cries in some districts are strident and loud enough to reach political ears in Madison.

As that program advances, as planned curriculum enrichment is achieved and satellite schools are built to serve outlying areas, the pressure for more state assistance will be enormous. One state official guesses that ultimately state aid up to 50 per cent of local operating costs will be required.

NO REDUCTION LIKELY

Meanwhile, there is no indication of any slackening of enrollments or costs in higher education. There may be a leveling off of undergraduates, reflecting birth rate patterns of the last decade and a half, but it will be more than overtaken by the swift increase in the ratio of costly graduate school enrollments and the extension of opportunity to boys and girls heretofore deprived, as in the development of branch campuses.

There is also a strong chance for costly new demands in the field of special education for the mentally handicapped, which the attorney general has ruled is their constitutional right that is not now sufficiently recognized. The increasing sophistication of parents and others on such matters will be felt.

The prospects call to mind the inscription on one of the major federal buildings in Washington which declares that "The Past Is Prologue," which General Eisenhower once translated as "You ain't seen nothing yet."

Strictly Personal

Traffic Lights Have Own Perverse Life

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What Oliver Wendell Holmes called "the sheer cussedness of things" is not a matter for speculation, but simply for acceptance of the wayward universe. You can't think about it; you can only brood about it.

Like traffic lights, they seem to have a perverse life of their own most of the time. When you are in a hurry to get to the airport, the lights magically turn red at every corner, as though exhibiting a kind of malicious glee at your frustration.

Harris

And, contrariwise, when you are early for a party, the green lights flick on just as magically, speeding you to your destination a half-hour before you really care to get there. Open bridges and railroad crossings, needless to say, invariably display the same cussedness.

Shirts pop buttons only when you're in a rush to get dressed and there's a shortage of clean white shirts in the drawer; at all other times, buttons behave most decorously. They are allied with shoelaces, which tend to break in hotel rooms on Sundays, when there is no way of replacing them.

And every motorist knows that cars purposely develop motor trouble on expressways, in darkness and sleet, miles from a service station, when you are already overdue for a family Christmas dinner.

The perversity of inanimate objects has long confounded philosophers and scientists, and is almost enough to make one believe in extra-sensory phenomena. Why do the pat hands continue to come to the poker player with an enormous stack of chips in front of him, while the busted flushed persist in haunting the poor devil who has already lost next month's pay?

As I say, we cannot reflect creatively upon these matters; only brood about them. We say that "troubles come in bunches" or that some people are "accident prone," but this explains little; it certainly doesn't explain why newly-washed windows seem to invite rain, or why your umbrella conducts itself impeccably until you are toting four Christmas packages — and then the wind turns it inside out while you are crossing the most fearsomely wide boulevard in town.

Rationalists assure us that nature is quite indifferent to our plans and purposes; but I think the witch doctors strike it more accurately when they ascribe a certain malevolence (at least mischievousness) to natural forces. Man is an inordinately proud creature, and the subhuman world likes to see his hubris take a fall. Else why does a lady's dress zipper get stuck only at the wrong time, in the wrong places, and with the wrong man present?

Season Forecast: 'Keep Your Cool'

It's the season to be jolly! Don't fret when your husband hands you his last-minute shopping list, your in-laws announce a surprise visit and the children find the key to the Christmas closet. Now is the time to keep your cool.

As you complete the holiday shopping, purchase a few extra gifts to hold in reserve.

Many "little presents," such as hand cream or cosmetics, gourmet snacks, paperback books and plants are priced under a dollar and make nice holiday hello's for visitors and neighbors. When well-chosen and prettily wrapped, little gifts are appreciated far beyond their price. And if there are any "left-overs," you will be ahead of the game for grab bags, birthdays and bazaars.

Special Project

Children getting in your hair? Suggest a special holiday project they can do themselves! For instance, even little fingers can decorate a tidbit tree for the wildlife outside the window, or choose toys to wrap and give to a needy child. Cookie and candy-making can be fun too, since convenience foods and disposable utensils keep mess to a minimum. And even if the results aren't picture-perfect, the warmth of sharing and accomplishment will be well worth the effort.

During the pre-holiday rush, set aside some time for pampering yourself in peace. One lovely relaxer is a soak in a warm tub right up to your chin accompanied by your favorite background music. Turning the bath into a beauty treatment by adding bath oil to the water. It smooths and softens skin while you unwind. Then follow the bath with a leisurely manicure and pedicure and a final filip of matching body lotion, massaged into hands, elbows, feet and heels.

On the night before Christmas, the mice may all be asleep, but the Mommas and the Poppas are busier than ever! To see yourselves through the hectic evening, have a little "crash kit" handy. It might include aspirin, a tube of ointment to relieve scrapes and burns, prepacked bandages, some penetrating heat lotion or ointment to soothe stiff, aching muscles, and a decongestant eye drop to return natural sparkle to red, tired eyes. In fact, the makers suggest that you always keep such a kit in kitchen, car glove compartment, and the workshop for everyday emergencies.

Calm and Collected

So what if the tree lights just blew out and your husband thinks you still wear a size ten. Don't worry about that. Tally all over the lace tablecloth. Everyone is having

Slippers Quick Stocking Stuffers

If you need "stocking-stuffer" ideas for Christmas bazaars and last minute gifts, try making soft, plush after-bath slippers from cotton terry washcloths.

Choose two washcloths in a handsome new sculptured jacquard pattern for the slippers and use color-matched cotton ball fringe for trim.

To make a slipper, fold a washcloth in half and stitch short ends together. Fold the top open edges down inside the "slipper" and stitch an inch casing all the way around. Leave a space open for inserting elastic. Gather and stitch elastic in place. Turn terry cloth slipper inside out and sew cotton ball fringe around the casing edge.

a wonderful time, and you are calm and collected.

Now, what are you going to do about New Year's?

Should people send Christmas cards?

'Nothing to Say' Poor Excuse For Not Writing Any Letters

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for the thousands, maybe millions of people in the country who should sit down and write to a mother, father, sister, brother, grandmother or good friend. Yet they have put it off because they think they have nothing of interest to say. Modern life pulls families apart. It also makes heavy demands on our time and energy. We all know it is not easy to write a gem of a letter. Moreover, when most of us review the week's activities they seem too dull to recount. Please take my word for it, friends, they won't be dull to the person you are writing to. Just receiving a letter gives most folks a lift. Almost anything you say in a letter will be of interest if the person cares about you. So don't wait for something spectacular to happen. Sit down and write to a mother, father, sister, brother, grandmother or good friend. Yet they have put it off because they think they have nothing of interest to say. Modern life pulls families apart. It also makes heavy demands on our time and energy. We all know it is not easy to write a gem of a letter. Moreover, when most of us review the week's activities they seem too dull to recount. things we know we should do. Thank you for this gentle prodding.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: An aunt and uncle who raised my brother and me announced at dinner last night that they have purchased 12 burial plots "so we can all rest together." The plots are for my aunt and uncle, myself, my husband, our two children, my brother, his wife and their two children, and my grandparents whose remains my aunt and uncle plan to have moved. I said nothing when the announcement was made but later my husband I talked it over and decided we don't want to obligate ourselves in this way. First of all, we feel that Aunt and Uncle should not have made such far-reaching plans for our children who are teen-agers. They may want to be buried with their mates (assuming they marry) or they may want to be cremated and not buried at all. Furthermore, my brother's wife's family might have some objections. I did not discuss this with her, but I could see the expression on her face that she wasn't too pleased with the idea either. Aunt and Uncle have been wonderful to us and we don't want to hurt their feelings. Please tell us what to do. — Too Much Togetherness

Dear Too Much: It was presumptuous of Aunt and Uncle to expect you to accept their ground rules, if you will pardon the expression. The chances are good that they will predecease you, in which case you have plenty of time to decide what you want to do. In the meantime, say "Thank you" and make no commitment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a young girl with terrible looking legs. It's not that they are too fat or too thin; they are shaped rather well. The problem is that my legs are all blotchy from poison ivy and poison oak. I also have an ugly scar where I cut myself on a milk bottle when I was very young. The textured stockings and high boots are a blessing, but eventually they will go out of style and then what will I do? Do you know of a solution? — Looking Ahead and Dreading It

Dear Looking: If your legs are as unsightly as you say, you should see a physician about a procedure called abrasive planing. The outer layer of skin can be removed by a sanding process. This operation has proven highly successful in a great many cases. Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1967)

Many Causes for Fluid Retention in Tissues

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D. responsible for fluid retention. Dear Dr. Molner: Please advise how to solve fluid problems during menopause, as fluid goes into my tissues and the urine output has slowed down. Is this common or rare? Will I return to normal? — Mrs. M. C.

First of all forget the idea that this is a problem that goes with menopause per se. There are several factors which can be involved. The use of female hormones (very often used to relieve menopause symptoms) may cause some water retention, — but the swelling disappears although this by no means bothers all women. Some kidney disorder may be just because the kidneys are not working at full efficiency in filtering out wastes to be discharged. Thus the possibility of a physician's mind. Or, of course, some heart deficiency can cause fluid retention, but other symptoms would be so readily apparent that there's no need of our belaboring that. Overweight people tend to urinate less during the day and thus accumulate fluid in the tissues as indicated by ankles which swell at the end of the day. Keep in mind that there is moisture expelled with each breath, and this adds up to a measurable amount in a matter of hours. We also perspire.

Dr. Molner

You, Mrs. M. C., may require a diuretic (a medication to facilitate water release). But I certainly suggest that you see your doctor to determine what is causing this fluid retention. It may be indirectly related to menopause in some way, but it isn't a sheer matter of menopause alone, and just waiting isn't likely to correct it.

Dear Dr. Molner; I am a man 81. I cramp below my knees so I can't rest at night and have to get up and walk the floor. Is there any vitamin I can take for this, or what would you recommend? — A. B. T.

Leg cramps aren't the most important problem we have to contend with as we grow older, but they are one of the most annoying, and the loss of sleep can be significant.

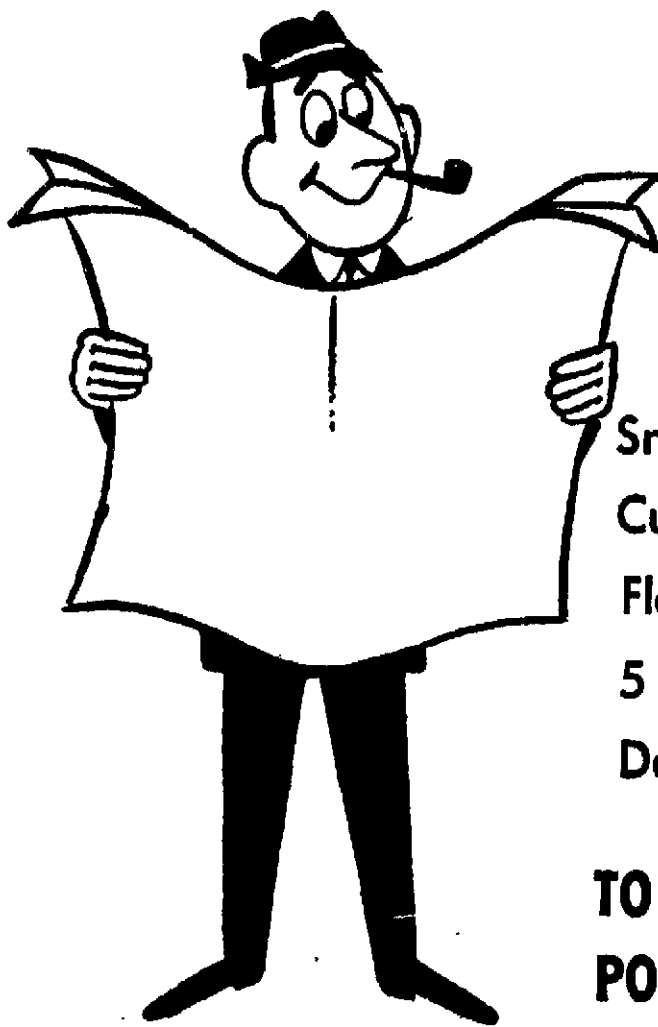

These cramps are muscle spasms, and a vitamin isn't the answer (except that if you are low in Vitamin D, it can have an effect on absorption of calcium, which is important).

Principle causes of the spasms are faulty circulation, abnormal strain on the muscles which can result from faults in foot structure, shoes which do not fit correctly, lack of calcium, or other causes.

Simple medication, of which quinine is an old stand-by, is often helpful. Sometimes an easy leg exercise is even better. I recall one reader who said she got rid of cramps in two weeks by doing the exercises for a few minutes each night. (The exercise is described in my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," which is obtainable by sending 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner, care of The Post-Crescent.

Many older folks lack calcium. Milk (a glass a day is enough) is a good way to get plenty of calcium. Skim milk is just as good for those who have to avoid gaining weight.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Frankincense, Myrrh Prized by Ancients

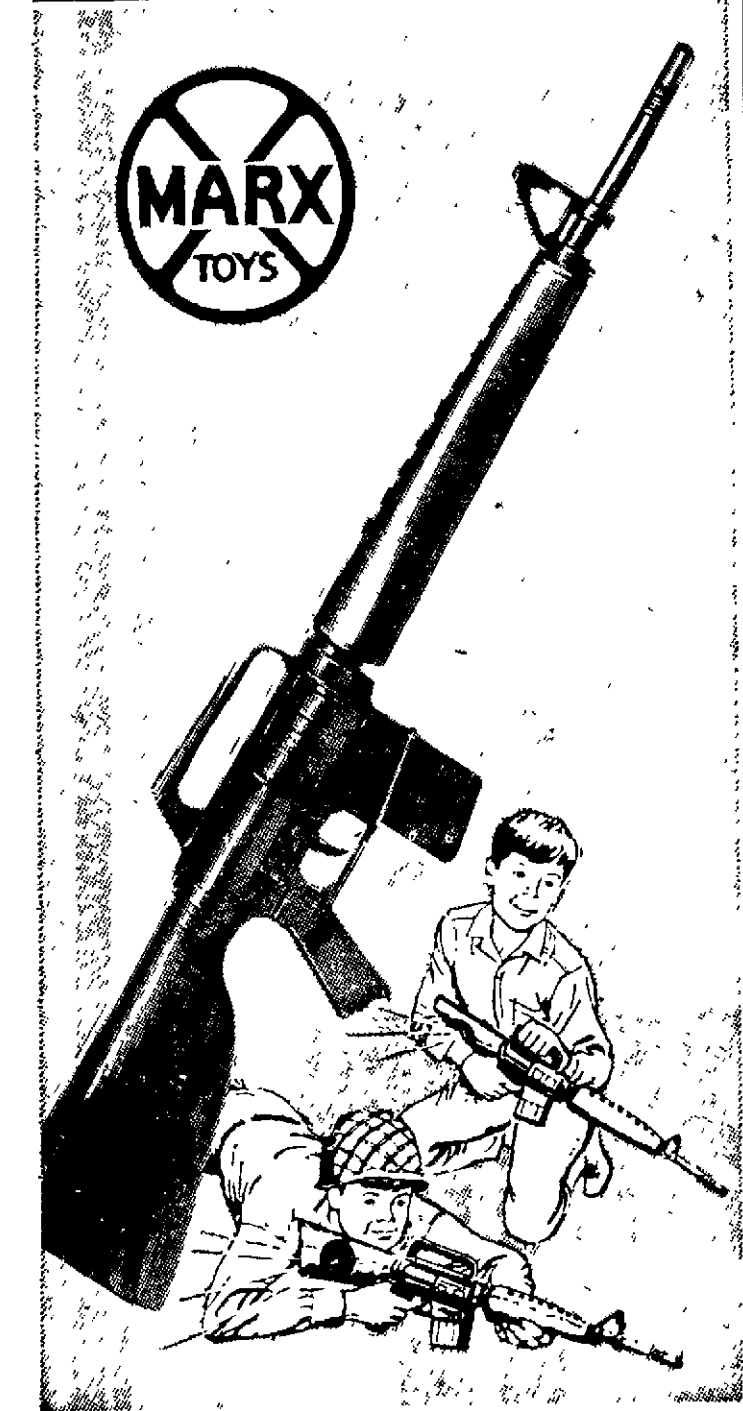

WASHINGTON — The first Christmas presents were worthy of the newborn Christ Child. The wise men brought two aromatic resins — frankincense and myrrh — that were prized as highly as gold. Long before, man had honored his pagan gods with the fragrance of smouldering frankincense. Myrrh anointed the dead, supposedly cured the sick, and celebrated military victories, the National Geographic Society says. Ancient Babylonians dedicated thousands of costly pounds of frankincense to their god Bel each year. Persian monarchs wore myrrh in their crowns. Egypt's fabled Queen Hatshepsut rubbed the resin on her body for fragrance.

Loaded With Marvels Sculptured incense ships still set sale on the walls of Queen Hatshepsut's temple near Thebes. An inscription describes, "The loading of the ships very heavily with marvels of the country of Punt all goodly, fragrant woods of God's Land, myrrh trees, with fresh pure ivory, with green gold of Emu."

The two resins brought enormous wealth to Arabia. Countless camel caravans jangled oil and spices to prepare bodies along incense roads from the Hadramawt region on Arabia's south coast to Mediterranean ports. The South Arabians jealously guarded the source of their wealth with mystery and legend, and went with Him to the tomb.

Frankincense, or olibanum, dries into semitransparent yellowish drops; myrrh turns into yellow or red-brown granules. The pleasing odor and bitter taste of the two resins may have been the qualities that inspired their use as a cure-all. The Roman naturalist Pliny listed frankincense as an antidote for hemlock poisoning. Contemporary physicians sent medical bills soaring by prescribing myrrh — an expensive wonder drug — for everything from ulcers to liver trouble. If the treatment failed, myrrh also was used as an embalment. The resin was mixed with oil and spices to prepare bodies for sacred burial. According to the New Testament, Nicodemus wrapped the martyred Jesus in "a mixture of myrrh and aloes." (John 19:39) Thus, one of the gifts that had welcomed Christ into the world, welcomed Christ into the world.

Swedes Taking Second Look at Matters of Sex

Wondering Whether Freedom Hasn't Gone Much Too Far

By EDWIN SHANKE
Associated Press Writer
STOCKHOLM (AP) —

used to be that marriage led to children," a Lutheran churchman said the other day. "Nowadays children lead to marriage."

His comment came in the midst of a re-examination of what effects a broad easing of sexual taboos has had in Sweden.

Social workers estimate that every third bride goes to the altar pregnant. The rates of illegitimacy and venereal disease, and probably those of divorce, are rising. Peddlers of pornography, "porn" as the Swedes have nicknamed it, are becoming bolder all the time. Published estimates put their annual turnover at $8 million to $10 million. Nearly every Stockholm street has shops with windows crammed with booklets and pictures. The portrayal of a naked female no longer seems to be enough. Photos now go into anatomical detail, and show more than one person together in the nude. Clusters of men regularly stare into the windows.

Nude Sequences
Movies show extended nude sequences and details. Afternoon papers particularly are heavy with sex stories, nude pictures and sex advertisements. Some sample ads: "Homosexual club for men and women"; "Are you looking for uninhibited women eager for sex? You'll find them in the Club". Strings of ads from "professional models" give telephone numbers.

A commission is studying laws which broadly prohibit all publications and pictorial matter offensive to "propriety and decency." This principle, Justice Ministry officials say, is open to wide interpretation because of changing public attitudes. But 39 pornographic publications have been confiscated this year, against none last year.

A shocked businessman, Harry Hedman, almost a lone voice of protest, is circulating petitions to put pressure on authorities to tighten the law.

"We are asking people to protest against writers and film directors who earn money by stripping bare sexual life, by distortions and by offering women for sale as though they were toys or stimulants," he said. "It isn't only our womanhood which is being defiled by the immorality which is spreading over the land. Now even males are beginning to figure in the photographs."

Psychologist Views
Is this food of pornography and open discussion about sexual freedom damaging Swedish youth and the family structure? Psychologist Aake Edfeldt says

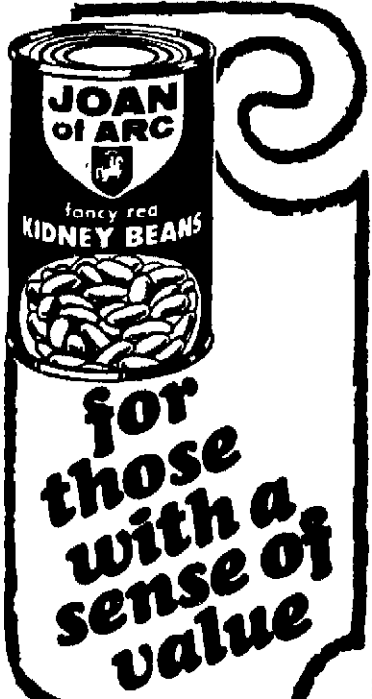

"During a certain period of youth, pornographic literature and photos are the normal form of sexual experience. In my view, it is a symptom of the fact that sexual instruction in the schools hasn't advanced far enough, that it isn't sufficiently realistic. Instruction is limited too much to books on biology."

Sex education is compulsory from the age of 7. The teaching manual is under review. One issue is what children should be taught about contraceptives.

"There's no doubt our children have much greater freedom in sexual matters than ever before," commented a Swedish father, "but at the same time, if it's a comfort, they also know how to take better care of themselves than ever before."

Housing Problem
There was an old tradition in Swedish rural society of getting married only after a child was on the way. Some Swedes say a new tradition is tied to the housing shortage. If a baby is expected, the time on the waiting list can be reduced by a year.

Illegitimate children are officially called "born out of wedlock," with equal rights to adoption.

Climatizing Too Much To Georgia Lawmakers

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The just-installed "climatizing" system in the Georgia House chamber was working so well it put a chill on the House Appropriations Committee hearings.

Those present shivered through part of a morning session, then recessed until the air conditioning could be turned off and the heat turned on.

Although the General Assembly meets in the winter months, House and Senate chambers recently were air-conditioned.

quate care, training and education. The mother has the right to be called "Mrs." and she and her baby are considered a family.

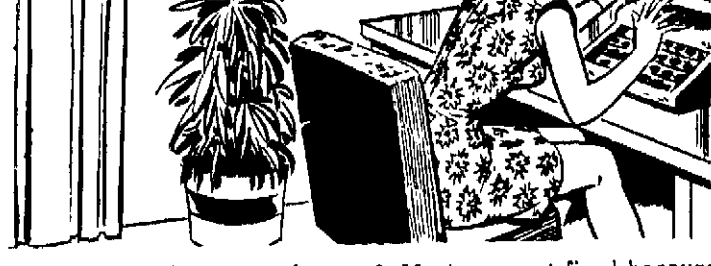

Over the last decade the rate of such births is said to be between 8 and 9 per cent. During 1965 the highest annual incidence of venereal disease was recorded since a 1919 law to combat it went into effect. The 23,928 cases of gonorrhea compared with 13,810 in 1956. Officials say prostitution is declining and has little influence on the disease rate.

Compared to other European countries, the divorce rate is relatively high—one divorce occurs in every six to seven marriages. Statistics indicate the rate is increasing, but officials emphasize the figures are difficult to interpret.

WHOSE MARRIAGES ARE HAPPIER?
WORKING WIVES ☐
NON-WORKING WIVES ☐

1. Whose marriages are happier? Working wives? Non-working wives? —
False. The late Dr. William C. Menninger, one of our greatest psychiatrists, estimated that, at least three times out of five, the man who loses his job is fired because he cannot get along with people, not because he is technically incompetent. Which only bears out the finding that one emotionally disturbed person can mess up a whole department so that no one can operate efficiently.

2. Most men get fired because they're incompetent! True? —
False. The late Dr. William C. Menninger, one of our greatest psychiatrists, estimated that, at least three times out of five, the man who loses his job is fired because he cannot get along with people, not because he is technically incompetent. Which only bears out the finding that one emotionally disturbed person can mess up a whole department so that no one can operate efficiently.

3. Are religious people intolerant? Yes? No? —
No, they tend to be more tolerant because of their religious faith. One social scientist writes,

"Faith serves as a tolerating force. Those with faith try to place their primary emphasis on the individual as a person rather than on his material advantages or disadvantages. Because of this, religious persons are often better able to adjust to one another. Most religions teach that perfection is not to be expected of others, and the truly religious person does not expect any more from others than he expects of himself." You may know some exceptions, but in general, religious people try to be tolerant and forgiving.

Taxpayers Suffer?

System of Tax Credits Is Necessary, Disliked

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Which federal department aids the elderly, helps the lumberman and promotes livestock production — all at the same time?

It's the Treasury Department and it does these and other jobs through tax relief and tax incentives. Officials don't particularly relish the task and would like to give it up to experts in these fields.

They relish less the long list of bills awaiting Congress' return next year which would provide a variety of tax credits ranging from underground transmission lines to antipollution devices and higher education.

And they have a strong ally in Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, who contends a tax incentive is nothing more than back-door spending and a failure to face up to a direct-spending program.

Whets Appetites
Mills said approval of any of the tax credit measures now before his committee would only whet appetites for a legion of other possible credits.

His opposition, together with that of the Treasury Department, will probably mean the death of tax-credit bills standing on their own. They could be attached as riders to other legislation, however.

Money saved through a tax credit, Mills said, must be made up by the rest of the nation's taxpayers and increases the deficit just as much as direct spending because it lowers the Treasury's tax revenues.

The Treasury has no over-all estimate of the tax loss from credits and other incentives but the special exemption for sick pay paid to workers costs $100 million yearly alone. Other forms of tax relief run into the billions.

President Johnson could ask for an overhaul of some tax incentives when he submits his promised tax-revision bill to Congress next year.

Stanley S. Surrey, a former Harvard University professor and now assistant Treasury secretary for tax policy, has placed his department on record against tax incentives to solve the nation's social ills.

He and other Treasury officials, like Mills, prefer the direct approach.

Explore Details
"The immediate leap to the tax solution serves only to stultify, thinking about these social problems," Surrey has said.

And once the leap is made there's no chance to explore details of a program each year as Congress would do if direct federal spending were involved.

Surrey also contends tax relief closes the door to the study of alternative solutions to the many problems facing the nation.

"Our progress in space exploration is not built on tax incentives, but on direct relations between government and business that bring forth the required participation by private enterprise," he said.

"Our capsules are not propelled into space by the Internal Revenue Code," added Surrey.

Another Treasury official, Melvin I. White, deputy assistant for tax policy, said if the nation continues down the tax-incentive road the Treasury will soon be making crucial decisions in all economic matters.

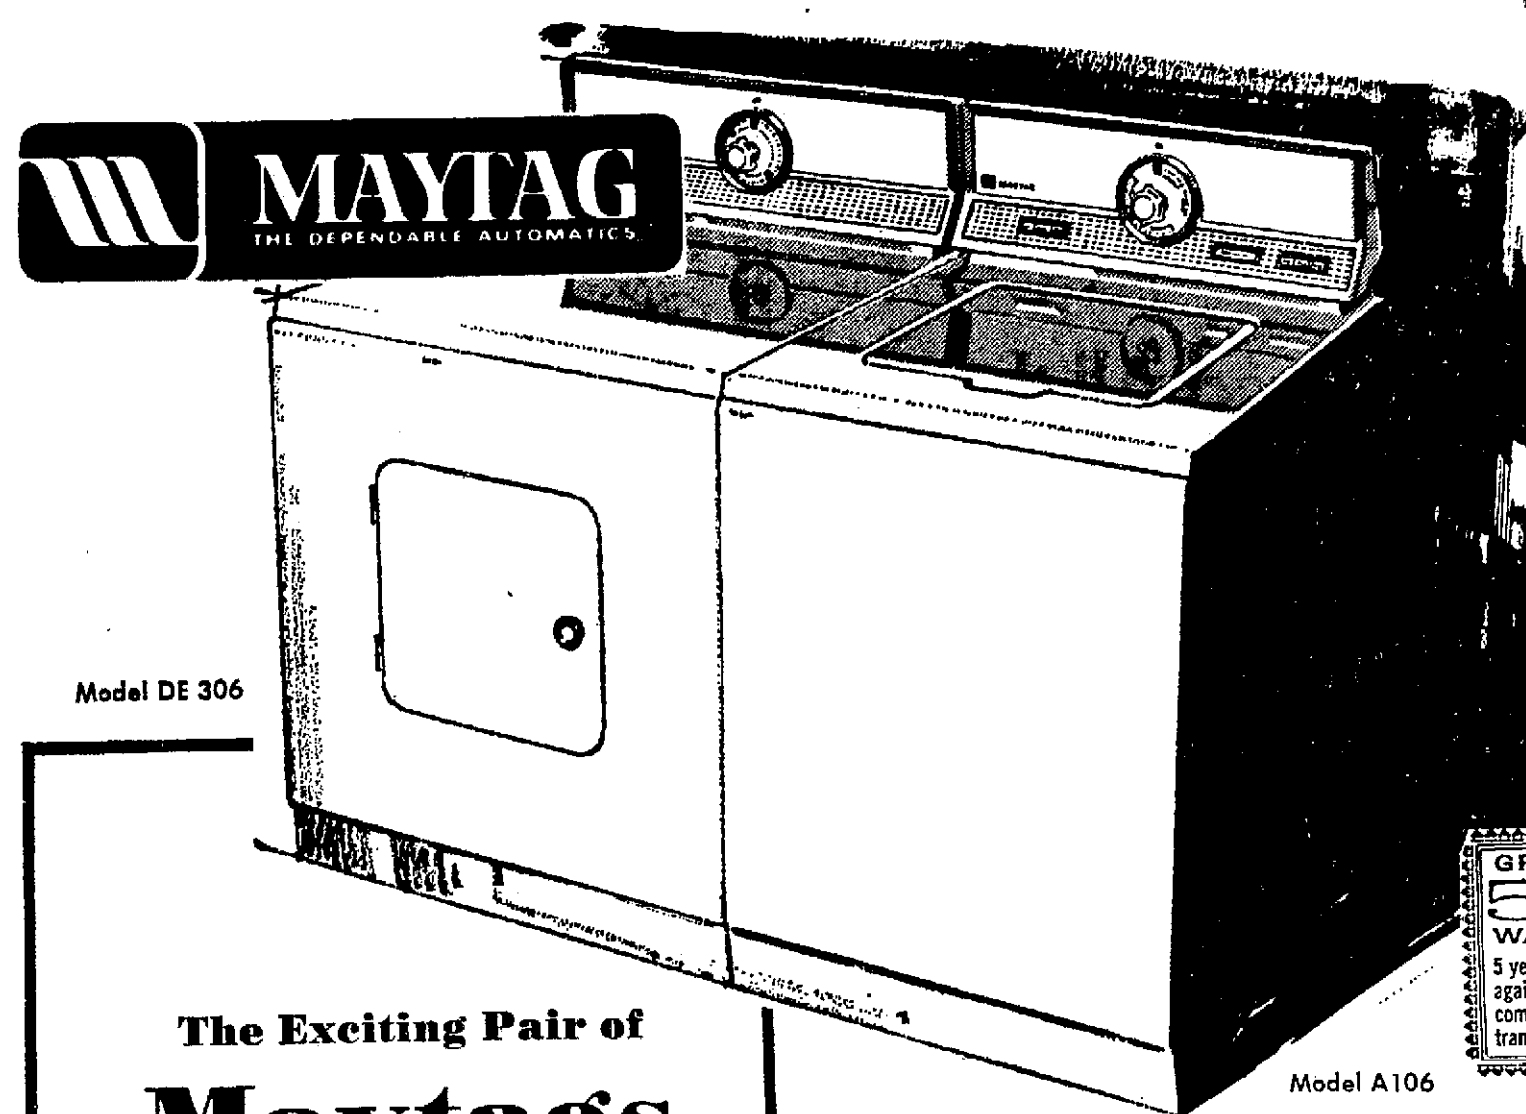

"I can assure you that the prospect of such an empire is not really an appealing one to the Treasury Department," he added.

A tax system, Surrey said, is presumably designed to raise money but at present is more like a spending system couched in tax language.

Rams' Front 4 Share NFL Weekly Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — If the Fearsome Foursome of the Los Angeles Rams weren't the Defensive Players of the Week on the National Football League's final weekend of regular play, somebody must have been slugging John Unitas with a club Sunday.

Deacon Jones, Merlin Olsen, Roger Brown and Lamar Lundy put so much heat on Unitas that the Most Valuable Player in the NFL was thrown seven times in a 34-10 Ram victory.

For this reason all four players—not just one—share the week's defensive honor.

'Aging' Offensive Linemen of Green Bay Can Silence Critics

Face Task of Protecting Starr From Rush by Rams' Front Line

By KEN HARTNETT

GREEN BAY (AP) — Green Bay's aging offensive linemen get a chance Saturday to send their critics off for another long winter's rest.

The critics warned before the 1966 season that the Packer linemen were getting dangerously old. Green Bay silenced them by capturing a second consecutive National Football League title.

But the critics are at it again as the Packers prepare for Saturday's Western Conference playoff with the Los Angeles Rams in Milwaukee.

"When they talk about the old men, they are talking about Bob Skoronski and me," said All-Pro Forrest Gregg, 34, "not Jerry Kramer, he's only 31."

Set Defensive "Every time they mention my age, it's a challenge," said Skoronski, 33, the Packers' offensive captain. "You get very defensive."

If the critics are right, as eventually they may be, the age of the offensive linemen could be the Packers' Achilles' heel in the match with the Rams.

It will be up to the linemen to protect quarterback Bart Starr from one of football's most formidable pass rushes—that staged by the Ram front four of Lamar Lundy, Roger Brown, Merlin Olsen and Dave Jones.

The Ram rushers are substantially taller and heavier at every position than the Packer blockers opposing them. The size and weight could be handicaps for the Packers, but the age factor certainly won't be, said Fuzzy Thurston, 33.

"This is where age counts—in the big game," said Thurston, who has been eased out of the Packer starting line-up by the younger and larger Gale Gil-lingham, 23.

Thurston has probably played in more major games than anyone in football history. He has been with five championship teams, including the 1958 Baltimore Colts, and has played in 12 post-season games.

"It helps to have that experience," he said. If Gillingham, 6-foot-3, 253 pounds, should have trouble handling the 295-pound Brown, Thurston would be sent to left guard.

"He's quick and strong and intelligent. He's got all the physical and mental attributes. He's as good as any I've ever played against," Thurston said.

Gregg Faces Jones Gregg, 6-foot-4, 250 pounds, will be up against the 6-foot-5, 260-pound Jones. "He's a great football player. He's so quick. How do you handle him? That's the problem. He gives you real

Chisox Staff Dominates ERA

Horlen, Peters Finish in 1-2 Spots; John Fourth

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Horlen and Gary Peters changed the billing from a year ago but the two Chicago White Sox pitching aces still managed to keep everyone else out of their act atop the American League's earned run average department.

In 1966, left-hander Peters took top honors with a 1.98 average while the right-handed Horlen finished second at 2.43. This season, according to the official figures announced Tuesday, it was Horlen, 19-7, who finished top at 2.06 while Peters 16-11 took runner-up honors at 2.28.

Brilliant Staff

Teammate Tommy John, 10-13, was fourth with a 2.48 mark as the brilliant Chicago staff dominated the league for the second straight year with a club average of 2.45. The second-placed Minnesota staff was far behind at 3.14.

Cleveland's Sonny Siebert, 10-12, was third individually at 2.38, while Minnesota's Jim Merritt, 13-7, finished fifth at 2.53.

Boston's Jim Lonborg, 22-9, the Cy Young Award winner as the league's top pitcher, also led in strikeouts with 246. Minnesota's Dean Chance, 20-14, pitched the most innings, 284, and had the most complete games, 18.

Five pitchers tied for the lead in shutouts with six each—Horlen, John, Steve Hargan of Cleveland, Mickey Lolich of Detroit and Jim McGlothlin of California.

BY RON WITT

Post-Crescent Staff Writer Defending champion Neenah is once again alone atop the Mid-Eastern Conference basketball standings, but good defensive play rather than a particularly high-powered offense seems to have put the Rockets in their present orbit.

The Rockets, who will be seeking their fourth M-E win at home against Clintonville Friday night and their 20th consecutive league triumph, rank no better than third in team offense but are far and away the best club to date defensively.

Besides the Trucker-Rocket engagement Friday, Kaukauna hits the road to Two Rivers, and Shawano travels to New London in a battle to escape the cellar. Menasha and Kimberly will square off Thursday night at Kimberly to begin the week's activities.

Neenah has scored 196 points in racking up its three victories for a 65.5 average, nearly eight points behind Kimberly's 74.0 average (222 points). Kaukauna ranks second in the scoring department with 220 points for a 73.3 mark.

Average of 48 However, the league-leaders have given up no more than 50 points in any league start and have yielded an average of just 48.0 points per contest. This compares to runner-up Two Rivers' average of 58.0 and third-place Clintonville at 61.0.

The Rockets are not without a top-flight scorer of their own, as senior forward Dan Jankowski is fourth with 56 points. He is the only Rocket in the top 15 scorers.

Hot-shooting Dick Carstens, of Kaukauna, has taken over the lead in the individual point race with 72 points, 38 of them coming in the Ghosts' 82-80 win over Kimberly last week. Teammate Denny Spice is right

Green Bay Tops Defensively; Had Fewest Penalties

NEW YORK (AP) — In battling the Los Angeles Rams this Saturday for the Western Conference title, the Green Bay Packers are taking on the only National Football League team to score more than twice as many points as its opponents during the season.

The Rams, in compiling an 11-1 record, amassed 398 points for an average of 28.4 a game, while allowing 196, or 14 a game, final NFL statistics showed Tuesday.

Baltimore, whom the Rams defeated for the Coastal Division crown Sunday, just missed posting a 2-1 scoring margin, averaging 28.1 points a game to 14.1 for its opponents.

Lead in Offense

The Colts were the overall leader in offense, totalling 5,008 yards to be the only team to reach the 5,000 level. Green Bay was the best defensive team, giving up 3,300 yards during the season.

Cleveland had the best rushing teams, 2,139 yards, and Washington topped everyone in passing with 3,730 yards. Defensively, Dallas allowed the fewest yards rushing, 1,081, and the Packers had the stingiest pass defense, 1,377 yards.

The Packers also were called for the fewest penalties, 48, and allowed the fewest first downs, 183. Dallas recovered the most opponents' fumbles, 19.

He played three years at end in college before being switched to quarterback in his senior year where he gained distinction by being ambidextrous and able to through pitchouts with either hand, helping to confuse the opposition. For long tosses, he was strictly a right hander.

Roloff also had a try-out with the New York Giants of the National Football League after graduating from college in 1956. He was given a try-out at both quarterback and defensive half-back with that organization.

Has Made Clutch Catches

Truax Plays Key Role in Ram Success

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was Billy Truax, a young giant who plays for the Los Angeles Rams and may now be known as the sage of the bayou land of Louisiana, who recently observed:

"It's a short trip from the penthouse to the outhouse."

Truax, who plays tight end and doesn't get as much acclaim as his companion pass-catchers, Bernie Casey and Jack Snow, was thinking of the Rams' continued success this season.

The idea applies as much as ever to the Rams' next brush with danger, the Green Bay Packers in Milwaukee Saturday.

A loss for the Western Conference championship means the switch from the penthouse.

Truax, who played end for Louisiana State University before coming to the Rams in 1964 in a trade with Cleveland, stands 6-5, weighs 235 and has a neck size comparable to teammate Roger Brown's thigh.

He has caught 37 of Roman Gabriel's passes for 487 yards and scored four touchdowns.

The last one, from nine yards out, put Los Angeles too far out of reach for the Baltimore Colts to match in the Rams' 34-10 romp over the Colts last Sunday.

It was Baltimore's star, Johnny Unitas, who summed up the success of the Rams' offense. He pointed out the maturing of Gabriel, the hard running of fullback Les Josephson — and the savage blocking and adept receptions on short throws of Billy Truax.

In the first game at Baltimore, Truax was the prime pass target. He caught six from Gabriel and was a big man in an important 24-24 tie.

In the Washington game a clutch pass-run by Billy for 43 yards spurred the Rams to the tying touchdown, and against Detroit his catch in the end zone put the team out of reach of the Lions.

The Cleveland Browns drafted Truax. "They probably didn't know whether I could catch a pass or not," he recalled.

"I played both offensive and defensive end for LSU but on most pass plays I was used as a decoy. Besides, we didn't throw much.

"And I've never carried the ball once in my life. Our defense at LSU, which became famous as the Chinese Bandits, got most of the publicity."

The Rams, said Truax, are dwelling happily in the penthouse. They don't want to move.

Gregorius Pounds 631; Belongea Fires 257 Game at Little Chute

Bob Schmitz rocked a pair of 236 games and came within 14 pins of a national honor count as he fired a 686 series to lead the Major Scratch League at Hahn's Lanes Tuesday night.

Schmitz led the Reetz Supper Club team to a 1,039 scratch game and a sweep of three games over Haupt's Bar.

A share of honors in the Major League went to Gene Blake who recorded a 643 singleton and finished with a 202 series. Runnerup honors for series went to Joe Gregorius with a 631 set which included a 233 game while Keith Gehring fired a 227 line and 629 series and Roger Koehn had a 614 set.

Dave Erdmann's 244 line and Ed Erdmann's 619 series topped the Metropolitan Men's League at Sabre Lanes last night.

In the Allis - Chalmers League at Sabre Lanes last night, Ray Zimmerman socked a 235 game and Larry Hansen had a 603 series. Zimmerman finished with a 559 set and other top scores included Arnie Kopitzke with a 574 set and Art Brower had 567. The Machine Shop team (26-16) won the first half title.

Ed Belongea's 257 game in the Tri-City League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes was the top singleton rolled in the Fox Cities Tuesday night. Pete Schmidt took series honors with a 595 which included a 233

Amherst Posts First Victory Of Campaign

BIRNAMWOOD — Amherst rallied from a 44-33 halftime deficit to score a 69-68 victory over Birnamwood in a non-conference game Tuesday night.

The Falcons' Tony Piotrowski tallied the winning point on a free throw with 25 seconds to play. The win was Amherst's first of the year in nine games. Officials whistled a total of 47 personal fouls, and the clubs combined to shoot 83 free throws.

Amherst, playing without three of its regulars most of the second half, outscored its foe, 21-10, in the final frame to pull out the win.

Tim Harvey led Amherst with 21 points, but the game's high scorer was Birnamwood's Bob Krut with 38.

behind, with 68 points, and Leah Penass of Shawano is third with 56.

Clintonville will be a definite underdog with rangy Neenah but should provide a good test just the same. The Truckers struggled for three periods against New London and then exploded for 27 points in the last quarter to win, 80-57.

Kaukauna, the hottest club in the league after a slow start, should be able to maintain its momentum against Two Rivers in the Raiders' gym. Two Rivers will be trying to avert a second loss in a row after bowing to Menasha, 63-50, on the road a week ago.

Shawano, a pre-season pick to fight in the thick of the first division, has been a flop to date and may take out its wrath against the Bulldogs. New London has an 85-point defensive average, and the Indians have a hard-driving pair of guards.

The Menasha - Kimberly duel should be a tossup. The Blue-jays have beaten Kaukauna, 56-50, while Kimberly fell last week to the Ghosts. The Paper-makers are a tough nut to crack at home, however, and rule slight favorites.

quick moves. That speed and quickness—that's the thing."

Skoronski, 6-foot-3, 245-pound tackle, had much the same things to say about the 6-foot-7, 260-pound Lundy. "The key is to avoid getting into third and 15 situations. When Baltimore got behind and had to pass, they just put their heads down and kept coming. You have to make them conscious of other things besides the pass, things like the sweep and the draw."

Kramer, 6-foot-3, 250 pounds, is usually at his best playing against the best. And few come better than Olsen, the Rams' 6-foot-5, 275-pound tackle.

Never Slows Down

"He's got good speed, good quickness, excellent strength, intelligence, great desire. He never slows down. He never quits on you. Those are his weak points," Kramer said.

The only way to avoid disaster against Olsen, Kramer said, is "100 per cent concentration all week long. You've got to get yourself prepared mentally as best you can."

Another member of the Packers' "Golden Age Society," spot receiver Max McGee, 35, sat in the dressing room, with his feet up on a table, a pack of cigarettes nestling on his belly.

Saturday's game could be the last in McGee's career.

"It seems funny to play all year and now it comes down to this one game," McGee said. "It sort of makes it seem like all the rest was for nothing."

PACKER POTPOURRI

By LEE REMMEL

BY LEE REMMEL

As a veteran of eight championship games, a record which may be unmatched by any of his colleagues in pro football, the Packers' mild-mannered Don Chandler obviously is accustomed to title pressure.

As a result, the 33-year-old placement specialist is not disposed to quail at the thought of facing the suddenly awesome Los Angeles Rams in Saturday's showdown for the National Football League's Western Conference crown in Milwaukee County Stadium.

always have had good defense and now it looks like they've got a real good offense to go with it. And Gabriel (quarterback Roman) is hot."

"A couple of times he was rushed pretty hard Sunday, and he jumped around back there and finally completed the pass. He's big and strong and, because he's so tall (6-5), he can stay in there and see over the defenses."

Chandler, who began his pro football career as a New York Giant, hardly knows what it is to spend the Christmas holidays with his family, unburdened by championship concerns but, of course, he is not complaining.

"I think this will be the ninth playoff for me," he says, adding, "I've been in a title game all but three years and this is my 12th season."

Does he feel such experience — the Packers have been in four NFL showdowns in the last six years — is likely to be a material factor Saturday?

Not a Big Factor

"I think it's an advantage to have the experience of playing in these games," Don replied. "These are truly pressure games, so you know what to expect. But I don't think that it's going to be a big factor."

He also discounted the possible effect of the Pack's two successive season-ending losses to the Rams and Pittsburgh Steelers. "They really shouldn't affect us," the forthright Tulsa native said. "We've been getting ready for this one for a long time."

"We've got three games left in the season, we hope," Chandler said, "and the 19 field goals in only 26 attempts is as good as I've ever had. I had 19 other seasons."

Whitewater Quint Loses To La Crosse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

La Crosse whipped Whitewater 100-79 Tuesday night and climbed into a tie with the Warhawks for second place in the Wisconsin State University Conference basketball standings, while the league's only other game saw Eau Claire beat Superior 84-71 in a battle of previously winless clubs.

La Crosse's victory gave the Indians a 3-1 record and left previously unbeaten Whitewater with the same mark. Gene Loughlin scored 28 points in pacing the winners, while Don Paulsen collected 25 for Whitewater.

Eau Claire and Superior both carried 0-3 records into their contest, but Pat Hammond and Jim Severson scored 21 points apiece to leave Superior the only winless team in the league. Scoring honors went to Don Hartlund of Superior, with 24 points.

First place Oshkosh, 4-0, was idle Tuesday night and plays tonight in a nonconference game at Steubenville, Ohio.

River Falls and Stout play tonight in the final conference game before the holiday break. They share sixth place with 1-2 slates.

Gabriel Again Named Player Of Week in NFL

Steelers' Gros Among Nominees for Offensive Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Gabriel of the Los Angeles Rams once again is the National Football League's offensive player of the week. By completing 18 of 22 passes for 257 yards and three touchdowns in the only game that really counted, Gabriel brought the Rams the Coastal Division title and a Western Conference championship game with Green Bay at Milwaukee, Saturday afternoon. Last week Gabriel kept the Rams alive with a victory over Green Bay. Splitting his TD passes among Jack Snow, Bill Truax and Bernie Casey, Gabriel led the Rams home Sunday with a smashing 34-10 victory over previously undefeated Baltimore. Gale Sayers also wound up the regular season with a flash, scoring one touchdown for the Chicago Bears on a 51-yard run and another on a 32-yard pass from Jack Concannon. Sayers wound up with 120 yards on 19 carries in a 23-14 victory over Atlanta.

Four TD Passes
Fran Tarkenton pitched the New York Giants into third place in the Eastern Conference with four touchdown passes in a 37-14 romp over St. Louis. Tarkenton hit a career high of 29 touchdowns, 3,088 yards and 204 completions. He also broke the Giants' record by throwing 377 passes. Homer Jones set two club marks for receptions with another TD for 13 and 1,209 yards on the season.

Bill Kilmer came off the bench to bring the New Orleans Saints a 30-14 upset of Washington as rookie Dan Abramowicz caught seven passes for 144 yards and two touchdowns. George Mira, another bench warmer during most of the year, made it two in a row for the San Francisco 49ers with three scoring passes against Dallas in a 24-16 upset victory.

Earl Gros of Pittsburgh put on a show against his old Green Bay mates as he ran for 61 yards, caught five passes and scored a touchdown in a surprising 24-17 triumph over the Packers.

Holds Area Clinic Junior Pin Program Shows Rapid Growth, AJBC Chief Stresses

BY JIM HARP Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Ninety per cent of today's youngsters are looking for someone to take an interest in them," said Charles Hall, Milwaukee, world manager of the American Junior Bowling Congress in an interview Tuesday. Hall was at Sabre Lanes, in the Town of Menasha, and, along with a team of six specialists, conducted a bowling clinic designed to train adults for work in the junior bowling program.

Over 30 adults from communities including Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Little Chute, Kaukauna, New London, Fond du Lac, Manitowoc, Oshkosh, Bonduel and Green Bay participated in the day-long clinic.

Use of Slides
The training ranged from an explanation of the junior program through the use of slides to actual demonstrations on the lanes regarding procedures, courtesy and other bowling mannerisms.

In elaborating on his opening statement, Hall added: "A lot of parents will probably take exception to my saying that their youngsters are looking for someone to take an interest in them, but this is true. We live in such busy days that few families have time for activities together."

Along the lines with his thinking about adults, Hall pointed out that the key to any successful junior program in bowling is the adults in charge.

Become Enthusied
"Your adult personnel and their interest, reflect the success of the program," Hall offered. "One of the first things I suggest to a new junior group is to run a parent-child tournament, and in a short time you find that the parents really become enthused about the junior program and the opportunities it offers."

Hall has been associated the the AJBC for the past nine years, starting as a field man for the midwest area before moving to the manager's position. The junior bowling program is actually about 25 years old, but the big boom in popularity has just started in the last three years.

Membership in the junior program jumped by 8 1/2 per cent in 1966 to where over 380,000 youngsters in the nation participated. At the present time for 1967, membership is up another 8.4 per cent, Hall said.

There are 1,700 junior bowling associations in the nation and last year over 10,000 youngsters participated in the Wisconsin program alone.

In commenting about the junior program in the Fox Valley area, Hall noted that there has been a rapid growth in the last two to three years and looks for a bright bowling future for youngsters in this area.

Browns' Collier Wary of Spying as Workouts Begin

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Cleveland Browns hold their first workout on Texas soil today as they train for the Eastern Conference playoff game of the National Football League with Dallas.

Nothing further was said about Coach Blanton Collier's mild protest over his team to work in sight of a 15-story apartment building only a block from Alamo Stadium.

Collier appeared upset at the prospect, some of the writers who talked to him reported. Later it was announced that the team would practice at Alamo Stadium and the workouts would be closed to the public.

al junior program who appeared at the clinic with Hall Tuesday included Red Hoffman, Atlanta, Ga., southeastern AJBC representative; Henry Preston, Dallas, Texas, southern area; Al Todd, San Bruno, Calif., western area; Bob Mason, Buffalo, N.Y., eastern representative; Ken Trester, Milwaukee, Junior Bowling Magazine editor and Mrs. Virginia Rogers, Milwaukee, administrative assistant to Hall.

The big national prize in today's easy coloring contest for boys and girls is my Stamp Collector's Outfit that includes an album containing spaces for thousands of stamps, a packet of 1,000 colorful stamps of the world, a watermark detector, a magnifier, a package of stamp hinges and a booklet of tips on how to collect stamps.

Five of these big awards will be given away as the prizes for the five neatest and most original entries as judged nationally. The entries considered for these awards will be those that first win local qualifying prizes in the cities where this column is published, 5 of which will be awarded to boys and girls of the Fox Cities area. These awards, also of interest to young hobbyists, will be my new "show-and-tell" sets of three colorful Mongolian stamps picturing farmers and farm animals of that remote part of the world. In addition to having educational value for any young reader, these stamps are excellent additions to any stamp collection.

Indiana Tops Notre Dame Davidson Rolls to 7th Win in 8 Games

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Some folks laughed when Davidson, beaten in 12 of 27 games last season, made the Top Ten in The Associated Press preseason poll in college basketball.

They're not laughing any more at the Southern Conference Wildcats, who have won seven of eight games and lost only to third-ranked Vanderbilt by two points 81-79 in overtime.

The Wildcats, sixth-ranked in this week's AP poll, made previously unbeaten Temple their latest victims in the final of the Charlotte, N.C., Invitational Tournament Tuesday night.

Paced by the 6-foot-6 Mike Maloy, a sophomore from New York City who was voted the Most Valuable Player of the tourney, the Wildcats downed the Owls from Philadelphia 63-60.

Has Every Move

Maloy made only 11 points, but his floor generalship was superb and drew praise from Coach Lefty Driesell. "He's so quick, he's unreal," Driesell said. "He has every move in the book under the hoop."

Fifth-ranked Indiana, Duke, St. Bonaventure, Louisville, Cincinnati, Wyoming and Louisiana State won in other major games.

Indiana, led by Earl Schneider's 23 points, beat Notre Dame 96-91 at Fort Wayne, despite Bob Whitmore's 30 points for the Irish.

On-rushing Duke, another team beaten only by Vanderbilt and that by one point, whipped Princeton 85-79 at Durham, N.C., behind Mike Lewis' 33 points and 20 rebounds.

Bob Lanier and Bill Butler combined for 50 points, each got 25, to lead St. Bonaventure to a 83-77 victory over Seattle in the final of the Tampa, Fla., Invitational.

18 in Second Half

Louisville beat St. Louis on the road 76-64 as Westley Unself, who finished with 20, broke loose for 18 points in the second half.

Rick Roberson's 25 points paced Cincinnati to a 69-58 home court victory over Southern California. Harry Hall also got 25 to lead Wyoming over Oklahoma on the road, 82-71.

Pistol Pete Maravich flipped in 46 points on his home court to spark Louisiana State over Mississippi 81-68. LSU now has won four games, one more than all of last season.

Auburn beat Rutgers 70-62 in the consolation game of the Tampa Invitational. Miami of Ohio took third place in the Charlotte Invitational by defeating Rice 70-66 in overtime.

Appleton Woman Given Probation For Taking Car

Barbara A. King, 204 W. Prospect Ave., was placed on two years probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services Tuesday after she earlier pleaded guilty of taking a car without the owner's consent.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller first sentenced her to two years in the State Home for Women at Taycheedah, but then stayed execution of the sentence and placed her on probation.

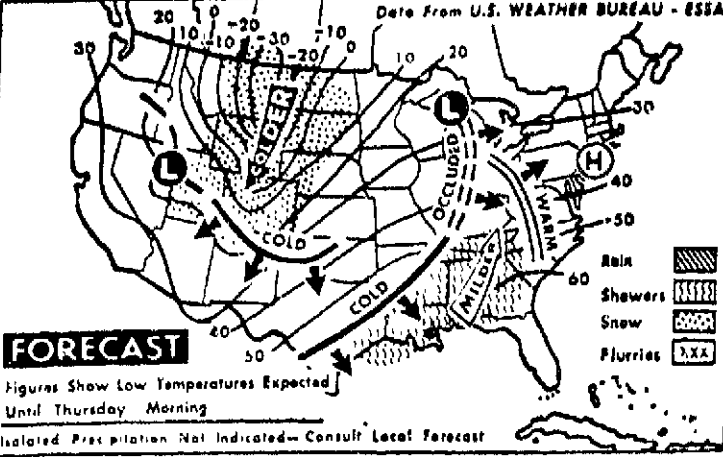

Appleton police said the woman took a car owned by Dow Miller, 716 W. 10th St., Kaukauna, early the morning of Dec. 10, while the vehicle was parked in the 100 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue. She picked up another woman and drove to Neenah, then to Green Bay, after which she returned the 1966 auto to Appleton.

Miss King pleaded guilty Dec. 12 and has been in jail without bond until Tuesday, pending a pre-sentence investigation.

Six of Nine Counties OK Zoning Plan

Two more counties have recently adopted county comprehensive zoning ordinances bringing the total to six of the nine members of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Executive Director William Morris said today that Florence County adopted its ordinance Monday evening and Forest County Friday night.

These ordinances include the shoreland and floodplain provisions of the new state water law.

Waushara County held its public hearing on a zoning ordinance Tuesday night and Outagamie County will conduct its hearing tonight, Morris said. The Winnebago County Zoning Committee has not set a date for its hearing yet.

Other counties which have adopted ordinances are Waupaca, Shawano, Langlade and Menominee.

Morris explained that following the public hearing the zoning committee presents an ordinance recommendation for county board approval.

He said that adoption in Waushara may be delayed because of some public misunderstanding expressed at the hearing Tuesday.

Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for April 22 for DuWayne Romanesko, 30, and Harland Romanesko, 22, both of route 2. Judge Keller set a $200 bond for each man.

The battery complaint was brought by Richard Kuberth, 52, 214 E. Greenfield St., Appleton, who contended that the Romanesko brothers beat him up at a rural Black Creek supper club.

New Australian Premier Vows Continued Support of Vietnam

Allied Chiefs All Attend Holt Services

By GORDON TAIT
Associated Press Writer
CANNBERRA, Australia (AP) — Interim Prime Minister John McEwen said today that the death of Prime Minister Harold E. Holt does not alter the Australian government's commitment to stand firmly beside its allies in Vietnam.

"We will share their efforts and agonies," McEwen told his first news conference after his swearing in. About 6,000 Australian troops are fighting in Vietnam.

Preparations continued at an accelerated pace for the arrival of President Johnson, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other foreign leaders flying to Australia for a memorial service in Melbourne Friday for Holt, who disappeared last weekend while swimming in the surf off the southeast coast.

War Discussion
The chiefs of state or government heads of all seven of the anti-Communist allies in the Vietnam war were to be on hand for the Melbourne service, and it was obvious that the war would be discussed, at least informally.

Prime Minister Keith Holyoake of New Zealand said members of the Australian government had told him arrangements were being made for such talks. A spokesman for President Johnson said the Americans expected "informal, bilateral conversations" but there were no plans for "multilaterals," meaning a session of all the allies at once.

McEwen told newsmen it would be impossible to arrange a formal summit meeting on such short notice.

Other Leaders
In addition to Johnson, Holyoake and McEwen, the war allies present will include President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam, President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines, President Chung Hec Park of South Korea and Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn of Thailand.

Prime Minister Wilson was being accompanied to Australia by 19-year-old Prince Charles, designated by his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, to represent her at the service. It was the first such assignment for the heir to the throne, who spent a term at an Australian school last year.

Search Continuing
Police said the search for Holt's body would continue off Portsea, 37 miles south of Melbourne, for at least eight more days although there has been speculation that it would never be found because of the strong currents Holt's wife, her three stepsons and their wives remained at the family's vacation home at Portsea to be near the search.

The last man to see Holt alive, Alan Stewart, a businessman who was swimming with him, was in serious condition with injuries suffered in an auto accident Tuesday night. Stewart's car collided with one carrying news photographers in the compound that is headquarters for the search.

Rescued After Cave-in

Trapped Man Prayed All the Time

APEX, N.C. (AP) — John Lipscomb emerged unharmed from a well where he had been buried for six hours Tuesday. "Thank you, Lord Jesus, I was praying all the time," he said.

A smile wrinkled the mud-caked face of the 62-year-old laborer as he was hauled from the 20-foot well which had caved in while Lipscomb was at the bottom cleaning it.

Lipscomb was led about a dozen steps to a stretcher where he removed his jacket and lay down, his workman's helmet toppling from his head.

His wife grabbed the hat and clutching it to her breast said: "They say this old hat saved my man's life."

Rescue workers had said that the helmet protected Lipscomb from injury and allowed him to keep rock and clay away from his face so he could breathe.

Lipscomb was working in the well alone when the walls caved in burying him under about five feet of bricks and mud.

Ben McCoy, one of two men working on the surface, said he heard a rumble when the sides caved in. He looked down and "Lipscomb was gone. I couldn't see anything but dirt."

The workers summoned assistance. The Wake County sheriff's office, the Apex fire department and the Raleigh rescue squad and volunteers joined in the rescue.

Soon they succeeded in worming a hose through the debris to Lipscomb and started pumping oxygen to the trapped man. After about four hours the workers uncovered Lipscomb's head.

Wade McNeill, 23, a winch operator, was working with Lipscomb when the cave-in occurred. He stayed at the winch handle during the entire rescue effort and refused to be relieved.

"I'm going to make sure he gets out of there," he said. After his rescue, Lipscomb was taken to the Apex branch of the Wake County Hospital, examined and released.

Jury Declares Lawyer Guilty Of Slaying Wife, Her Lover

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Kirschke, a suspended deputy district attorney convicted of murdering his wife and her alleged lover, says the jury's decision was "a terrible error which in due time will be corrected." He plans to appeal the verdict.

The jury convicted Kirschke Tuesday after a 13-week trial. On Jan. 8 it will decide whether the penalty should be life imprisonment or death in the gas chamber. The prosecution said it had not decided whether to press for the death penalty.

"We haven't lost the war, alive," Alan Stewart, a businessman who was swimming with him, was in serious condition with injuries suffered in an auto accident Tuesday night. Stewart's car collided with one carrying news photographers in the compound that is headquarters for the search.

"It was Jack Kirschke's gun, it was his house, it was his bed, it was his wife, and it was his Kirschke, 43, and Orville Drankhan, 41, were found in the bedroom of the Kirschke's Long Beach apartment April 8.

Mrs. Kirschke's body was found on a bed, clad only in a kimono top and shot in the head. Drankhan was shot fully clothed on the floor next to the bed, also shot in the head.

It was never clearly established when the shootings took place—the bodies were discovered too long after death for medical experts to pinpoint the time.

"Not Prepared" President Thieu has said that the South Vietnamese government is not prepared to recognize the NLF as a government, and it knows well that NLF's control is by Hanoi. And so do we.

"But he also has said that he is prepared for informal talks with members of the NLF, and these could bring good results. I think that is a statesmanlike position. And I hope the other side will respond."

"I think the war could be stopped in a matter of days if President Thieu's suggestions that he informally talk with members of the NLF are carried out and if they would agree to what they have already agreed to in the 1954 accords and the 1962 accords and the other points that I mentioned this morning, like one man-one vote under the present constitutional government."

Froehlich 'Astounded' by Beer Bill Criticism

MADISON (AP) — Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, said Tuesday he was "astounded" that Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles could so strongly criticize the legislature for not passing a uniform minimum beer drinking age. Froehlich said the bill "couldn't have been approved this year with his assistance," but the governor contributed no support for a minimum age under 21. Knowles in a statement issued Monday, criticized the Assembly for its passage of a bill setting the minimum at 19, with local options for communities to raise it to 21. The Senate killed the measure in its closing session and Knowles said the Upper House was wise in rejecting the bill. The measure was a "bill of goods," Knowles said, because it "really didn't provide for statewide uniformity."

he couldn't get what he wanted," said Froehlich of the Republican chief executive.

"It just astounds me that he would be so critical of a compromise solution that was worked out. Once he took the position that a uniform age of 21 should be adopted and it failed, the governor lost interest in uniformity," Froehlich said.

Thieu, Viet Cong Should Talk—LBJ

I think is best for my country. This peace is going to be found by the leadership of South Vietnam, the people of South Vietnam, in South Vietnam," he said.

'Continued Prosperity'
—Business and production will pick up next year and "we look forward to continued prosperity." But he called still essential the administration's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

—US policy toward Europe has recorded more success during 1967 than in any other period. Accomplishments range from the new tariff agreements to revamping of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Johnson is sorry about his differences with French President Charles de Gaulle, but says relations between the American and French people remain friendly.

—The Middle East still presents "one of our most dangerous situations" and will require efforts by all parties concerned to achieve a solution. The United States has a "very definite interest in Israel" but not a mutual security treaty commitment to defend her.

On what he termed the No. 1 subject for US government leaders, a continuing search for a Vietnam peace, Johnson said the solution will not come from administration critics like Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

$4.3 Billion Spending Cut OK'd by Johnson

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson complied with a congressional order and took action today that will lead to a spending cut of $4.3 billion. It could also lead to congressional enactment of a tax increase next year.

Johnson signed the spending-cut resolution on his plane as he winged across the South Pacific toward Australia to pay final tribute to Prime Minister Harold E. Holt.

The President noted Congress had pared appropriations by $1.8 billion and vowed he would follow its directive to cut an additional $2.5 billion because of the need to preserve the strength of the dollar.

In the recently concluded session of Congress, the spending cut was made a condition of passage of Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D - Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee. And while the tax bill died, Mills has made clear the same condition would apply when the surcharge proposal is brought up again in January.

Johnson's destination was Canberra, the Australian capital, where he was expected to have an opportunity to chat individually with representatives of his allies in the Vietnam war and perhaps with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

The American chief executive will fly to Melbourne on Friday to attend memorial services for Holt, who was lost in a weekend swimming accident.

Talks to Protestors

Johnson addressed several thousand cheering spectators, mostly children, and a couple dozen antiwar demonstrators at Honolulu.

In a tribute to Holt, Johnson said: "Harold Holt's vision of Asia—and of Australia's role there—was not limited to the battlefield. The end he sought was not military conquest. It was the building of a new Asia . . ."

At Honolulu, the traveling White House made public a transcript of a special tribute Johnson paid Holt in a taped interview with Peter Barnett of the Australian Broadcasting Co.

Of Holt, 59 like himself and a personal friend after several formal and informal meetings, Johnson said: "I don't think I have ever known a man whom I trusted more or for whom I had greater affection and respect."

Johnson recalled his last meeting with the prime minister and Mrs. Holt, last June at the presidential retreat, Camp David, Md.

Suggested Swim

After formal discussions, the President said, Holt suggested a swim.

"We went out to the swimming pool," Johnson went on. "I had a short swim. I couldn't get him out of the water. He stayed in it."

News of Holt's disappearance while swimming in the ocean near Melbourne was, Johnson said, "one of the saddest things that has happened to us in Washington . . ."

Striking a personal note, the President said of his warm relationship with Holt: "We struck things off together. We spoke plain, unvarnished, without any dressing."

Flying to Australia with the chief executive were a handful of White House aides and Keith Waller, the Australian ambassador to Washington.

725 Holiday Deaths Seen

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council estimated today between 625 and 725 persons may die in Christmas holiday weekend traffic, half of the number in crashes in which liquor will be a factor.

The period covered by the estimate will extend from 6 p.m. local time Friday until midnight Monday, Christmas day.

"Somewhere in the neighborhood of 375 Americans are likely to die from traffic accidents related in some way to alcohol," William G. Johnson, council general manager, said in a statement.

U.S. to Pull 35,000 Troops From Europe Starting in April

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced today that the withdrawal of up to 35,000 U.S. Army and Air Force troops from Germany to the United States will begin in April.

Plans for the redeployment were announced last May 2. The aim is to reduce the gold-dollar drain stemming from heavy U.S. overseas spending.

The forces being withdrawn will remain committed to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

'Maintain Readiness'

The Pentagon said: "The forces and aircraft deployed to the United States will be maintained in a high degree of readiness, and equipment will be maintained in the Federal Republic of Germany in sufficient quantity and readiness to insure that the forces and aircraft can be promptly redeployed to Germany."

The Defense Department has said that under emergency conditions it would take about two weeks to fly the Army troops back to Germany, match them up with their equipment stockpiled there, and have them ready for combat.

The theory is that there would be time enough to redeploy the troops—that a period of tension would precede any outbreak.

The action will drop U.S. Army and Air Force troops in Germany to 222,000.

This is the first long-term reduction in the U.S. garrison in Europe since the Cold War began nearly two decades ago.

The announcement said that two brigades of the 24th Infantry Division and associated units will be moved to Ft. Riley, Kan.

The 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment will be based at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

The three squadrons of the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing will go to Holloman Air Force Base, N.M., and the 417th Tactical Fighter Squadron will shift to Mountain Home Air Force Base in Idaho.

Several Months

While the moves will begin in April, they will continue over a number of months.

One brigade of the 24th Infantry Division will remain in Germany on a rotational basis. The two other brigades of the division and the four fighter squadrons will return to Germany yearly to take part in maneuvers, the announcement said.

Based on the statement, it appeared that the armored cavalry regiment to be brought back to Ft. Lewis, Wash., will not be returned to Germany for exercises, but only in event of emergency.

This means that the U.S. ground presence in West Germany, across the Iron Curtain from the East bloc, will be reduced to four Army divisions—two infantry and two tank—and two armored cavalry regiments, which function as a screening force, plus the Berlin Brigade.

Also remaining will be five fighter plane squadrons.

Just last week, NATO ministers met in Belgium and, among other things, reevaluated the threat from Communist conventional forces from the other side of the Iron Curtain and decided the threat was not as great as had been felt in the past.

Last March, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told Congress that the joint chiefs felt that the reduction move was militarily unjustified.

Religion in Public

Christmas Called Unconstitutional

NEW YORK (AP) — Debate has broken out in various parts of the country this holiday season over the question: "Is Christmas unconstitutional?"

A number of people argue that some aspects of it are, including Christmas decorations with a religious motif in public places such as schools.

Others contend that school singing of Christmas carols associated with religion also runs afoul of the first amendment, which provides for the separation of church and state.

Mayor Norman A. Myers of Overland, Mo., was stunned by a letter from two lawyers demanding, on constitutional grounds, the removal of a nativity scene from the City Hall lawn.

The mayor said he would ignore the letter and commented: "If this is the type of constitution we are living under, it certainly is in line for revision."

In Duluth, Minn., an unbeliever named Garry DeYoung, 44, took umbrage when one of his children brought home a program indicating that traditional carols would form a part of a school Christmas program.

DeYoung asserted that "the school's use of a religious holiday to present a religiously oriented program constitutes an affront to non-Christians and is a direct violation of the first amendment."

After taking counsel with the school board attorney, Principal Donald Olson deleted the carols from the program.

The Florida branch of the American Civil Liberties Union advised school officials throughout the state that Christmas pageants with a religious content are unconstitutional and should be avoided. Reaction in general was outraged. Said Sheriff Lehigh Wilson of Brevard County: "If I am handed a warrant to arrest some teacher, somebody else will have to serve it—I won't."

In East Paterson, N.J., Mrs. Shirley Friedman stood up at a school board meeting and objected to paintings of Christ and other biblical figures on windows and doors of the Memorial Junior-Senior High School.

The 10 board members walked out of the school, where they were meeting, looked at the decorations, walked back in and went on to the next order of business without comment.

Urges Thieu-Viet Cong Talks

War Could End 'In Days'—LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says "the war could be stopped in a matter of days" if South Vietnam's president talks informally with South Vietnamese Communists and wins their agreement to abide by the Geneva accords.

And on curing violence at home, Johnson says he's going to tell American businessmen either they help in hiring a half million hard-core unemployed or the government will offer them jobs—"as expensive as it is."

Johnson spoke hopefully of "good results" through Saigon talks with members of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong political arm, during a wide-ranging pretaped television interview broadcast nationally Tuesday night as he winged toward Australia.

Talk With Thieu

Administration sources said the President may stress this point privately with President Nguyen Van Thieu, of South Vietnam, who also is headed for the Melbourne memorial service for Prime Minister Harold Holt.

But in Saigon, Thieu, reacting to Johnson's interview, told newsmen he would talk to leaders of the NLF only if they defected and gave their allegiance to Saigon.

"We would accept any representative of the Front who comes back to use as a returnee," Thieu said, adding he meant by "returnee" any defector from the Viet Cong. Later, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said there was "no difference" between the South Vietnamese and U.S. positions when asked about Thieu's comments.

Thieu has been rebuffed by Hanoi in his call for direct negotiations with North Vietnam. He has refused to recognize the National Liberation Front (NLF) as a government, but has left the way open for informal talks with its members.

Johnson outlined five peace proposals based on existing U.S. policy demands that North Vietnam "leave your neighbors alone." They were:

1. The demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam must be respected in accordance with the 1954 Geneva agreements.

2. The unity of Vietnam as a whole must be peacefully negotiated and adjusted.

3. North Vietnamese troops must get out of Laos and stop infiltrating that country, as required by the 1962 Geneva agreements.

4. South Vietnam must be governed on the basis of a constitutional "one man-one vote" agreement, which the President said an overwhelming majority of her people want.

5. Informal discussions between President Thieu and NLF representatives could produce good results.

Chatting earnestly and leaning forward occasionally in his rocking chair as he stressed a point, Johnson also made these observations:

"I don't know what the effect of the Kennedy-McCarthy movement is having in the country" but "I do know of the interest of both of them in the presidency and the ambition of both of them—I see that reflected from time to time."

A spokesman for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said, "It seemed a very curious way for the President to promote party unity."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, an avowed candidate for next year's Democratic presidential nomination, could not be reached immediately for comment.

While Johnson again declined to say whether he'll seek re-election, he said he's sure the Republicans will still wind up in the minority on election day.

—He is going to appeal to every Republican in Congress to "do what is best for his country" and "I am going to do what

Triumvirate in Athens Quits Military; Elections Predicted

The switch indicated that the ruling triumvirate was preparing for an election in which ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The top members of the Greek military regime resigned today from the army to make an all-civilian government and pave the way for an apparent national election.

The switch from army to civilian status was disclosed in the Government Gazette.

Involved were the premier and defense minister, Col. George Papadopoulos, strong man of the junta that seized power in the April 21 coup; the deputy premier and interior minister, Brig. Stylianos Patakos, and the minister of economic coordination, Col. Nicholas Makarezos.

All three retire one rank higher than those held in active service, making them all retired generals. They would run as civilian candidates.

This development seemed a major try by the regime to rid their rule of the aspect of military control and give it the look of civilian respectability.

The retirements came a week to the day after the junta crushed King Constantine's ill-fated counter coup aimed at ousting the junta. He fled with the royal family to Rome.

In three more days the revised constitution ordered by the junta is to be submitted to the government. While expected to continue the monarchy, the new constitution is expected to greatly reduce the king's powers. A date for a national referendum on the constitution may be set Saturday.

Patakos said Monday a date for general elections might also be announced soon.

Thus the regime was moving ahead with its plans with no apparent place in them for Constantine, who was still sitting out his first week of exile in Rome.

Becoming civilians is the most explicit sign so far that the colonels who rule Greece intend to hold on to power for years to come.

The so-called Revolutionary Council they head will probably serve as the nucleus of a political party they will form.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Tuesday that Marine Sgt. Terri M. Boeltger of Milwaukee and Marine Lance Cpl. William E. Pierson of Brookfield, Wis., had been killed in action in Vietnam.

It also said Marine Lance Cpl. Larry D. Traaseth of rural Eau Claire, Wis., had died of wounds.

'No Change' Listed in Washkansky Condition

CAPE TOWN South Africa (AP) — A hospital bulletin today reported no change in Louis Washkansky's condition and said the world's first heart transplant patient "is still seriously ill."

Washkansky's doctors said Tuesday night that he had made a slight gain after a transfusion of white blood cells.

A spokesman for the team of 30 specialists caring for the 53-year-old wholesale grocer said they would probably repeat the treatment to provide Washkansky with more of the white cells that combat infection.

A sharp decrease in his white corpuscle count Tuesday indicated to physicians that Washkansky's body was acting against its own tissue more than against the borrowed heart he received 17 days ago.

Until he took a turn for the worse over the weekend, Washkansky had made a startling show of robustness since the heart of a 25-year-old woman who died in an auto accident was implanted in his chest Dec. 3.

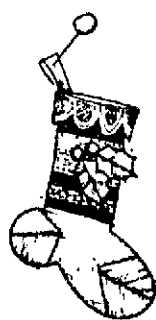

The white cell transfusion, gathered from the blood of four donors, was made on the recommendation of a French blood cancer specialist who reported the treatment had remarkable results in some cases.

The Parents of 4-Month-Old Madeleine Grieve are delighted as President Johnson holds the baby Tuesday during a refueling stop at Travis Air Force Base, Calif. Airman 1.C. Robert Grieve, Mrs. Grieve and others gather around to get a glimpse of the President before he continued toward Australia.

Police Car Bid Questioned By New London Aldermen

Commission Asked to Explain Why Low Offer Wasn't Accepted

NEW LONDON — City Council members want to know why the Police and Fire Commission accepted the second-high bid in the purchase of a new squad car and didn't award the contract to the lowest bidder.

The squad car was purchased from Volz Chevrolet, Inc., for $1,688 plus trade-in, which was $293 higher than a bid received from Freiburger's Inc., Dodge and Plymouth dealer.

The council moved by a vote of 8-2 to request a member of the commission to appear before the council to explain the action.

The motion was made by Ald. Jerome Freiburger, brother of William and Arthur Freiburger, who own the auto agency. The alderman is employed there.

Matter of Good Will

Roy McIrath, secretary of the Police and Fire Commission, told the Post-Crescent this morning that the purchase was a matter of "good will" and that the commission felt that this year's contract should go to Volz because no Chevrolet has been bought for "a good many years".

When Freiburger wanted to know why the low bid had been rejected, Ald. Gilbert Kroll replied that the low bid was not always the best bargain. Kroll and Alderman Grace Stern cast the only dissenting votes to Freiburger's motion.

In other business, the council suspended the rules of reading proposed ordinances at two meetings and adopted a fire prevention code as recommended by the plan commission Monday.

Speed Approval

Council members indicated they want to get the code into effect as soon as possible to speed approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The council also authorized the finance committee to obtain insurance for the Christmas decorations purchased from the Jaycees.

It was announced that the city has received $10,924 from Waupaca County and $3,313 from Outagamie County in utility taxes.

The salary ordinance was passed, putting into effect raises as outlined in the 1968 budget for most elected officials.

Down the Drain

Since 1943 Mrs. Joseph Dhein, 329 State St., Chilton, has been paying $7 to $8 every three months to the City of Chilton for sewer and water service.

As far as she is concerned it is just money down the drain.

Mrs. Dhein had no complaint until May of this year when she began to have trouble with the sewer. She called a plumber and he went to work only to discover that the Dhein residence was not connected to the city sewer at all.

Mrs. Dhein learned that she is the proud owner of a septic tank located on her property.

Last Tuesday night she entered a claim with the city council for reimbursement of the money she has paid for city sewer. Since this has been going on for better than 25 years, the amount is considerable—somewhere around $750.

The council has referred the matter to an attorney.

It might be better if they called a plumber.

Butte des Morts, Wolf Low Bids Announced For Bridge Projects

MADISON — Low bidders on two major bridge projects in the Fox River Valley were announced Tuesday by the Wisconsin State Highway Division.

An apparent low bid of $285,078 for grading and concrete surfacing of the southbound on the Lake Butte des Morts Bridge on U.S. 41 in Winnebago County was filed by the Streu Construction Co., Two Rivers.

Other bidders were Harrison Paving Co., St. Joseph, Mo. and Parker Co., Appleton.

The approaches will cover 1.2 miles.

The contract for the major structure of the second lane of the bridge was awarded last August to the Nelson Construction Co., Black River Falls, for $670,905.

The commission also announced bids received for the construction of a three-span bridge of 174 feet in length, including eight culverts to cross the Wolf River on County Trunk M between Hortonville and State 54.

Apparent low bidder was Ed Kraemer and Sons, Plain, at $176,876. Other bidders were Vinton Construction Co., Manitowish, and Wunderlich Bros., Appleton.

When the second section of the Butte des Morts bridge is completed, traffic will be directed over it during the period required to build new approaches for the northbound traffic on the existing span, officials said. Paving of the southbound approaches will begin in the spring.

Judging Set For Brillion's Yule Decor

BRILLION — Christmas home decorations will be judged Tuesday evening, according to Helmut Krueger, chairman of the Lions Club sponsored project.

This is the ninth annual contest sponsored by the club to encourage the recognition of the birth of Christ and beautification of the community. Rural residents within a half mile of the city limits are eligible for the competition.

Thirteen cash prizes totaling $50 will be awarded. Judging will be on a point bases for originality and beauty. First place winner will receive $15; second place, $10; third place, $5, and $2 awards will be given to 10 honorable mention winners.

Other club members on the civic improvement committee who will aid in judging are Carl Ott, John Coisman, Oliver Worsted and Harrison Weaver.

Battle Coming Over Appleton Station? ETV Network Could be on Air in '69

MADISON — Educational television stations, including one in the Fox Valley Appleton area, will be on the air and broadcasting into school rooms throughout Wisconsin in 1969 if all goes well, according to Angus Rothwell, executive director of the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

Approved in the final hours of the 1967 legislative session early Sunday morning, the new stations will be financed with federal funds and with money raised by the state through the sale of long term bonds.

The new stations will be located "in the Appleton vicinity," and in LaCrosse, Colfax and Wausau. In addition, relay stations to rebroadcast signals will be located in Ashland and near Platteville.

"The only target date we have is to move as fast as possible," said Rothwell, when asked how soon state students could be expected to be benefiting from the broadcasts of educational material aimed at them.

"Sometime in 1969"

"I would imagine that it will be sometime in 1969," he said. The educational television network, once thought dead for the session, gained the spark of life in the final few hours of the planned 1967 legislative session when it was passed by the Senate and sent to the governor after seeming to fail a few hours before.

The action came on the final "night" of the session, which lasted in the upper house until almost 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

Early in the evening the Senate failed to advance the bill on a vote that fell two votes short of success. The measure, long the hope of educational planners in the state and the center of a legislative fight for two sessions, seemed dead.

The day before, Rothwell, prepared for the defeat, had told the CCHC that a full scale battle should be waged during the interim to win passage of a similar proposal in the 1969 session.

But suddenly, long past midnight, the Senate reconsidered its action and the bill sailed through.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles is expected to sign the bill.

Appeals Board Upholds Sheriff On Suspension

Sergeant Failed to Report for Training In Control of Riots

The Outagamie County Civil Service Board of Appeals, following brief deliberation Tuesday morning, upheld the three-day suspension of a county police sergeant who failed to report for a mob and riot control training session Sept. 23.

Sgt. Edward Metko, a county policeman for 19 years, appealed the suspension, without pay, ordered by Sheriff Norbert Marx. The training session was held in conjunction with National Guardsmen, in Appleton.

The three-man appeals board, which heard an hour of testimony in the Circuit Courtroom ruled that Metko did not give Marx adequate reasons for not attending the session, even though the sergeant had sufficient time to do so.

Marx, one of five county policemen called by A. W. Poth Outagamie County corporation counsel, said he had posted a directive on the sheriff's department bulletin board Sept. 18, ordering all members of his department to be at the session.

Marx testified that Metko approached him three days after the directive was issued, and explained that he (Metko) was off duty the weekend of Sept. 23 and had to "go up north." The sheriff said Tuesday morning that several other policemen had asked to be excused from attending, but he had refused them. The only two lawmen who did not attend from his department, he said, was a man who was on vacation.

Stream Improvement $250,000 K-C Clarifier 80 Per Cent Completed

NEENAH — Construction is 80 per cent completed on a $250,000 stream improvement project at the Lakeview Division of Kimberly-Clark's Neenah Mill, engineers in charge of the project said Tuesday.

A $125-foot diameter clarifier to treat manufacturing waste water is scheduled to begin operation early in 1968.

The new installation will bring stream improvement expenditures by Kimberly-Clark for its mills bordering Little Lake Butte des Morts to $800,000.

Since 1961, general manager Fred Hollenbeck said. Total money spent at Neenah Mill alone for stream improvement equipment will be $677,000.

Hollenbeck said there has never been a problem to the lake or river from the standpoint of organic material in solution. However, settleable solids from the mill have gone into the lake forming a sludge bank along a portion of the west shoreline.

When the clarifier begins operation it will remove essentially all of these settleable solids, mostly wood fibers, from the mill's manufacturing waste water.

Installation of the clarifier is the second part of a two-pronged program, Hollenbeck explained. The company has

18-Year-Old Is Sentenced In Waupaca Police Say License Plates Are Listed By State as Stolen

WAUPACA — James K. Hansen, 18, Milwaukee, was sentenced to 30 days in the Waupaca County jail after pleading guilty Tuesday in Municipal Justice Court to a county police charge of operating an unregistered vehicle.

Hansen also entered an innocent plea to a second charge of illegal use of license plates. Justice George Whalen set 10 a.m. Thursday as the trial date.

The youth was apprehended Monday night by county police after they stopped him east of Waupaca on State 54 for driving a car with faulty mufflers. A five-day ticket was issued and police then checked the license number with the sheriff's office.

Patrolman Robert Starks testified that the plates were listed on the statewide stolen plate list. He found Hansen north of Sheridan where he was changing a flat tire.

The youth said he was traveling to Stevens Point to visit relatives and friends.

County police have notified Milwaukee police.

Less Food More Often 5-Meal Plan Lauded at New London Hospital

NEW LONDON — The new five meals a day schedule, begun last week at Community Hospital, is working out well for hospital staff and has received hearty endorsement from patients.

Thomas P. Zdrzil, office manager, reports that "patients liked it very much and were impressed with it." As expected, the increased service has not placed any extra burdens on the kitchen and no additional help will be needed.

Zdrzil said Sister Mary Magdalene, hospital administrator, polled patients during the first two days of the new schedule. Patients liked the idea of being able to eat less food at a meal but to eat more often.

The schedule starts with a continental breakfast at 7 a.m. At 10:30 a.m. a brunch is served. Patients enjoy a sandwich snack at 1 p.m., with the main dinner being served at 4 p.m. The last meal is an evening snack at 8 p.m.

Community Hospital is the first in the area and one of a few in the state to try a five-meal set-up. With its initial success, the program definitely will be continued, Zdrzil said.

Patients at New London Community Hospital have been enjoying five meals a day under a program unique in this area. A few other hospitals in the state have tried the five-meal day, but Community is the first in the Fox Valley.

Action Rescinded to Cancel County Farm Building Leases

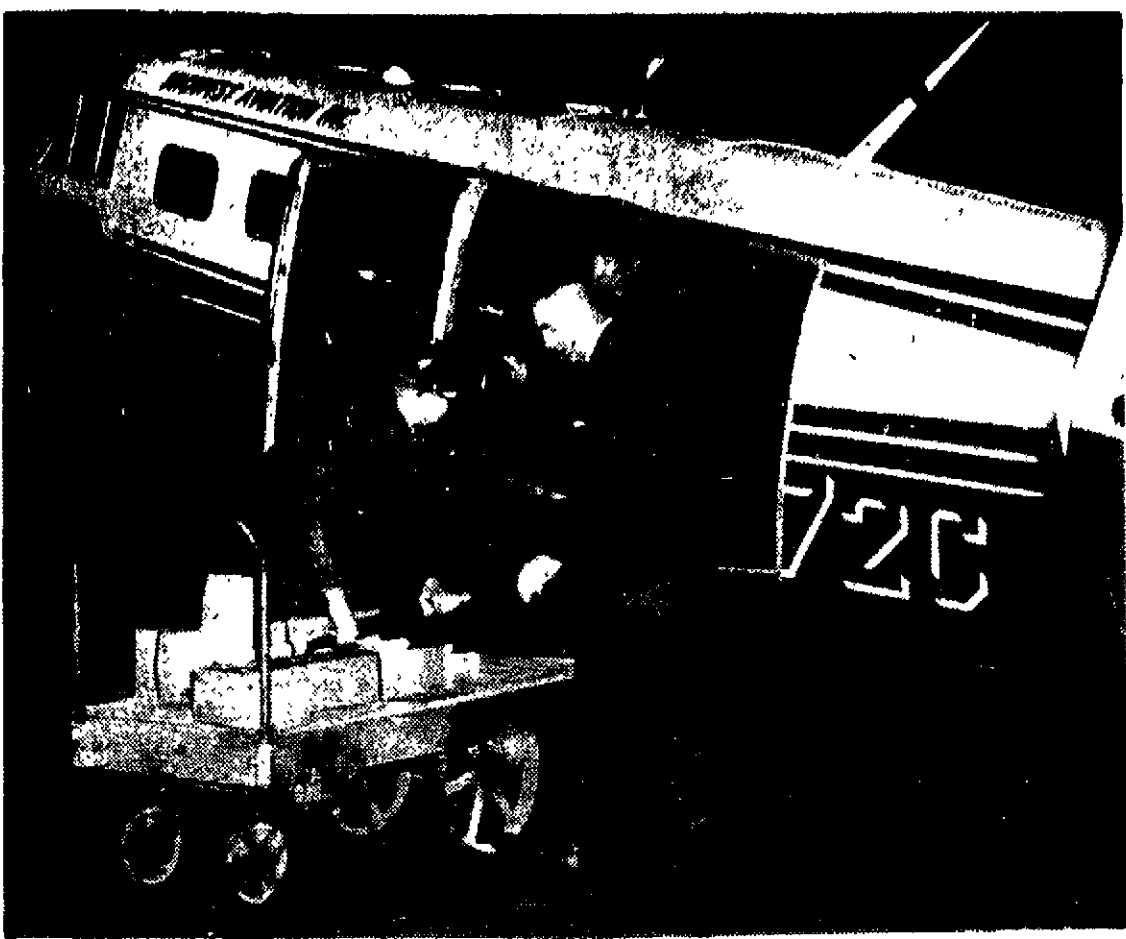

The Outagamie County Board's Public Property and Insurance Committee backed-tracked Tuesday on its decision of the public property and involving the buildings at the old county farm and may not terminate leases held by private operators.

Two weeks ago the committee had agreed, at the request of the health, education and institutions committee, to terminate the leases by May 1 as the first step toward possible demolition of the buildings and turning the land over to the County Hospital farm site and they may also be interested in the farm buildings for agricultural courses.

However, Supv. Walter Fredricks, New London, chairman of the public property and insurance committee, recommended the leases not be canceled although the original committee action was not rescinded.

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, told the Technical and Adult Education District 12 has indicated interest in the county's offer of 100 acres of land on the former land over to the County Hospital farm site and they may also be interested in the farm buildings for agricultural courses.

The squad car was purchased from Volz Chevrolet, Inc., for $1,688 plus trade-in, which was $293 higher than a bid received from Freiburger's Inc., Dodge and Plymouth dealer.

The council moved by a vote of 8-2 to request a member of the commission to appear before the council to explain the action.

The motion was made by Ald. Jerome Freiburger, brother of William and Arthur Freiburger, who own the auto agency. The alderman is employed there.

Matter of Good Will

Roy McIrath, secretary of the Police and Fire Commission, told the Post-Crescent this morning that the purchase was a matter of "good will" and that the commission felt that this year's contract should go to Volz because no Chevrolet has been bought for "a good many years."

Down the Drain

Since 1943 Mrs. Joseph Dhein, 329 State St., Chilton, has been paying $7 to $8 every three months to the City of Chilton for sewer and water service.

As far as she is concerned it is just money down the drain.

Mrs. Dhein had no complaint until May of this year when she began to have trouble with the sewer. She called a plumber and he went to work only to discover that the Dhein residence was not connected to the city sewer at all.

Mrs. Dhein learned that she is the proud owner of a septic tank located on her property.

Last Tuesday night she entered a claim with the city council for reimbursement of the money she has paid for city sewer. Since this has been going on for better than 25 years, the amount is considerable—somewhere around $750.

The council has referred the matter to an attorney.

It might be better if they called a plumber.

Battle Coming Over Appleton Station?

ETV Network Could be on Air in '69

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Educational television stations, including one in the Fox Valley Appleton area, will be on the air and broadcasting into school rooms throughout Wisconsin in 1969 if all goes well, according to Angus Rothwell, executive director of the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

Approved in the final hours of the 1967 legislative session early Sunday morning, the new stations will be financed with federal funds and with money raised by the state through the sale of long term bonds.

The new stations will be located "in the Appleton vicinity," and in LaCrosse, Colfax and Wausau. In addition, relay stations to rebroadcast signals will be located in Ashland and near Platteville.

"The only target date we have is to move as fast as possible," said Rothwell, when asked how soon state students could be expected to be benefiting from the broadcasts of educational material aimed at them.

"Sometime in 1969"

"I would imagine that it will be sometime in 1969," he said. The educational television network, once thought dead for the session, gained the spark of life in the final few hours of the planned 1967 legislative session when it was passed by the Senate and sent to the governor after seeming to fail a few hours before.

The action came on the final "night" of the session, which lasted in the upper house until almost 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

Early in the evening the Senate failed to advance the bill on a vote that fell two votes short of success. The measure, long the hope of educational planners in the state and the center of a legislative fight for two sessions, seemed dead.

The day before, Rothwell, prepared for the defeat, had told the CCHE that a full scale battle should be waged during the interim to win passage of a similar proposal in the 1969 session.

But suddenly, long past midnight, the Senate reconsidered its action and the bill sailed through.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles is expected to sign the bill.

As amended by the Assembly, the bill provides for a 13-man board to oversee the operation of the system. Included on the

Sergeant Failed to Report for Training In Control of Riots

The Outagamie County Civil Service Board of Appeals, following brief deliberation Tuesday morning, upheld the three-day suspension of a county police sergeant who failed to report for a mob and riot control training session Sept. 23.

Sgt. Edward Metko, a county policeman for 19 years, appealed the suspension, without pay, ordered by Sheriff Norbert Marx. The training session was held in conjunction with National Guardsmen, in Appleton.

The three-man appeals board, which heard an hour of testimony in the Circuit Courtroom ruled that Metko did not give Marx adequate reasons for not attending the session, even though the sergeant had sufficient time to do so.

Marx, one of five county policemen called by A. W. Pothout Outagamie County corporation counsel, said he had posted a directive on the sheriff's department bulletin board Sept. 18, ordering all members of his department to be at the session.

Marx testified that Metko approached him three days after the directive was issued, and explained that he (Metko) was off duty the weekend of Sept. 23 and had to "go up north." The sheriff said Tuesday morning that several other policemen had asked to be excused from attending, but he had refused them. The only two lawmen who did not attend from his department, he said, was a man who was on vacation.

Stream Improvement $250,000 K-C Clarifier 80 Per Cent Completed

NEENAH — Construction is 80 per cent completed on a $250,000 stream improvement project at the Lakeview Division of Kimberly-Clark's Neenah Mill, engineers in charge of the project said Tuesday.

A $125-foot diameter clarifier to treat manufacturing waste water is scheduled to begin operation early in 1968.

The new installation will bring stream improvement expenditures by Kimberly-Clark for its mills bordering Little Lake Butte des Morts to $800,000 since 1961, general manager Fred Hollenbeck said. Total money spent at Neenah Mill alone for stream improvement equipment will be $677,000.

Hollenbeck said there has never been a problem to the lake or river from the standpoint of organic material in solution. However, settleable solids from the mill have gone into the lake forming a sludge bank along a portion of the west shoreline.

When the clarifier begins operation it will remove essentially all of these settleable solids, mostly wood fibers, from the mill's manufacturing waste water.

Installation of the clarifier is the second part of a two-pronged program, Hollenbeck explained. The company has

Police Say License Plates Are Listed By State as Stolen

WAUPACA — James K. Hansen, 18, Milwaukee, was sentenced to 30 days in the Waupaca County jail after pleading guilty Tuesday in Municipal Justice Court to a county police charge of operating an unregistered vehicle.

Hansen also entered an innocent plea to a second charge of illegal use of license plates. Justice George Whalen set 10 a.m. Thursday as the trial date.

The youth was apprehended Monday night by county police after they stopped him east of Waupaca on State 54 for driving a car with faulty mufflers. A five-day ticket was issued and police then checked the license number with the sheriff's office.

Patrolman Robert Starks testified that the plates were listed on the statewide stolen plate list. He found Hansen north of Sheridan where he was changing a flat tire.

The youth said he was traveling to Stevens Point to visit relatives and friends.

County police have notified Milwaukee police.

Action Rescinded to Cancel County Farm Building Leases

The Outagamie County Board's Public Property and Insurance Committee backtracked Tuesday on its decision of the public property and involving the buildings at the insurance committee, recommended the leases not be canceled although the original committee action was rescinded.

Two weeks ago the committee had agreed, at the request of the health, education and institutions committee, to terminate the leases by May 1 as the first step toward possible demolition of the buildings and turning the land over to the County Hospital farm site and they may also be interested in the farm buildings for agricultural courses.

Less Food More Often

5-Meal Plan Lauded at New London Hospital

NEW LONDON — The new five meals a day schedule, begun last week at Community Hospital, is working out well for hospital staff and has received hearty endorsement from patients.

Thomas P. Zdrzil, office manager, reports that "patients liked it very much and were impressed with it." As expected, the increased service has not placed any extra burdens on the kitchen and no additional help will be needed.

Zdrzil said Sister Mary Magdalene, hospital administrator, polled patients during the first two days of the new schedule. Patients liked the idea of being able to eat less food at a meal but to eat more often.

The schedule starts with a continental breakfast at 7 a.m. At 10:30 a.m. a brunch is served. Patients enjoy a sandwich snack at 1 p.m., with the main dinner being served at 4 p.m. The last meal is an evening snack at 8 p.m.

Community Hospital is the first in the area and one of a few in the state to try a five-meal set-up. With its initial success, the program definitely will be continued, Zdrzil said.

Patients at New London Community Hospital have been enjoying five meals a day under a program unique in this area. A few other hospitals in the state have tried the five-meal day, but Community is the first in the Fox Valley.

Agricultural Program Rated 'Very Good' at Hilbert High

HILBERT — An evaluation report by the State Department of Public Instruction rated the high school's vocational agriculture program generally very good, with several areas rating excellent and others good, the board of education learned Monday.

The department noted the increased participation in the program with 48 students. Also noted was the "excellent" contact with teacher and students, discipline and the heavy work load of the instructor.

Recommended was more participation in dairy herd improvement program. The report did not favor sharing vocational agricultural facilities with the industrial arts program. Classrooms however were rated good.

In other business the board signed a contract with Merrill Olson, business education teacher, who will begin his duties Jan. 3. Olson holds a bachelors degree from Mankato State University, Minn. He will replace Mrs. Veryl Hein, Valders, who accepted the position until a teacher could be found.

The board ordered a note of thanks be sent to Mrs. Hein for helping the district when it was unable to hire a teacher.

Theodore Diener, Potter, has been hired as bus driver beginning Jan. 3. The bus will be kept in Potter to serve the students from that area and will be serviced at the Central Garage, Potter.

It also was reported that all buses had been inspected by Van Haren Company and found to be in order.

New System

A new system requiring bus drivers to file daily mileage reports was approved. Drivers also will be given cards to report any repairs needed. Rotation of drivers for extra curricular activities also was discussed. It was recommended action be delayed until the proposal can be discussed with the drivers.

Boards meeting Jan. 24-26 in Milwaukee. An agenda was presented and several other members indicated attending.

A meeting of faculty and school board salary committees was scheduled for 7 p.m. Jan. 15 immediately before the next board meeting.

The clerk was authorized to borrow $8,000 on short term loan.

State ETV Network Could Start Broadcasting in 1969

board will be six legislators, and seven other members appointed because of their positions.

That board will be accountable to the CCHE, as the state university boards are to the Coordinating Committee, which will place lawmakers in the curious position of being responsible to an administrative board.

Also seated on that body will be the governor or his representative, the state superintendent of public instruction, the state vocational school system director, the president of the University of Wisconsin, the secretary of the state university system, a representative of public elementary or secondary schools and a private school counterpart.

Legislative Membership

"I'm not disturbed by the legislative membership," said Rothwell. "Of course, you can have any kind of legislator out of a legislature made up of 133 members."

Some lawmakers raised stiff opposition to the creation of the system because of dangers which they alleged can come from the institution of a state run broadcasting system. State politicians and bureaucrats could use the system to propagandize, they warned.

Supporters of the system pointed out that the decades old state radio network has not fallen into that trap despite similar warnings in the past.

Rothwell said that the decision locating the station "in the Appleton vicinity" will be left entirely to a professional engineering committee to be appointed to advise the board.

The bill almost died earlier as contenders for the site battled over the location of the Fox Valley station. Green Bay boosters want the station in their city, and point out that the area's three commercial channels are located there.

Support Green Bay

The location of the system's antenna in the valley should be located just outside of the city, they claim.

Appleton backers contend that their city should win the station because of the location of all of the commercial outlets in Green Bay. They had the wording specifying the Appleton area inserted in the bill.

Fox Cities lawmakers point out that the entire Appleton area is included in that wording, and say they must be considered.

And Oshkosh forces emphasize the developing television capacity of their state university and argue their home town should win the station.

A political and educational hassle seems certain.

Rothwell also warned that the channels will broadcast programs aimed at being "not entertainment, but instructional."

Material Videotaped

No local production facilities will be available at the stations at the start of programming, but a wealth of educational material already exists on videotape both from the UW station in Madison and two educational channels in Milwaukee.

All three will be tied into the system.

At the start the system also will lack the interconnecting facilities that would allow a linking of broadcasts, and will have to depend on taping and mailing of broadcasts from the production centers to the stations around the state.

"This is a modest start," cautioned Rothwell.

"But we'll certainly cover 95 per cent of the school children of the state," he pointed out.

Only the area surrounding Superior will be unable to receive the programs in Wisconsin. And that area is already served by an educational channel located in Duluth, he said.

Programs, broadcast through normal channels, will be available to both public and private schools in the state, thus making the programming available to schools which lack some forms of state aids.

Bond Issue Needed

The state building commission will have to approve a $400,000 bond issue for construction of the stations to win the release of the already allocated $1.2 million in federal funds available to Wisconsin.

Only construction funds currently are available. Operating funds will have to be allocated in the 1969-71 state budget before the stations actually can go on the air.

Besides creating an educational television for the state, the late-night passage of the bill also strengthened the hand of the CCHE in a subtle manner.

The administrations of UW-Green Bay and Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point have been talking of the possibilities of creating educational broadcasting programs.

The move to create the system will tie up federal funds available for such uses, and give the CCHE power to coordinate all such future programs in Wisconsin.

Appeals Board Upholds Sheriff On Suspension

and another who had been injured.

Marx testified that he "especially wanted the sergeants there because they would be the key man" in actual riot control situations.

On cross-examination questions by Metko's attorney, Allan Cain, Marx testified that only such things as sickness, death in the family or the like would excuse a man from fulfilling such an order. Marx, who said that he was in charge of taking disciplinary action when his men do not carry out orders, explained that the punishment could have been a reprimand, suspension, reduction in rank, or dismissal from duty.

No Explanation

On further questions by Cain, Marx said he had not consulted with Lt. Lowell Veitch, head of the traffic division, about suspending Metko. Marx also testified that Metko had not explained to him the specific reason he had to "go north" and could not be at the training session.

The second witness was Undersheriff Calvin Spice, who said he had been directed to be at the session. On a question by Ponath, Spice said he believed such an exercise was "necessary in this day and age." On cross-examination by Cain, Spice said that to his knowledge, Metko had not been a disobedient officer while serving under him while he was sheriff for four years.

Other brief testimony came from Lt. Jack Zuelzke, investigator George Hanlon, and Patrolman Orville Crane, all of whom said they had asked to be excused from the Sept. 23 training session, but were refused by Marx. Each also testified that they had not known Metko to be disobedient in the past.

Metko, called to the stand by his attorney, testified that he had made arrangements last August to have an excavating firm do sewer and dry well work at his Crandon area cottage the weekend of Sept. 23. He produced a bill for services by the excavator.

Tried To Get Delay

Metko, on a question by Cain, said that after the directive was posted Sept. 18, he tried to reach the excavator by telephone, to seek a delay in the work, but said he could not contact him.

The sergeant said he met Marx in the courthouse Sept. 20 and informed him he and his wife had to be "up north." Metko said Marx refused to excuse him from the session, and Marx reportedly stated that several others had asked and were refused. Metko said there was no further discussion on the matter. He said he did not explain to Marx that he had hired an excavator.

On a question by Cain, Metko said he felt it was an "emergency" that he be at his cottage the weekend of Sept. 23.

Metko, in reply to a question by L. C. Smith, chairman of the appeals board, said he was questioning the severity of the penalty by Marx, and not Marx's authority to suspend him. Metko said he lost $73.92 in pay because of the three-day suspension. He said he had attended every past training session.

Tuesday's hearing was the first called by the appeals board in two years.

State Evaluation

Agricultural Program Rated 'Very Good' at Hilbert High

HILBERT — An evaluation report by the State Department of Public Instruction rated the high school's vocational agriculture program generally very good, with several areas rating excellent and others good, the board of education learned Monday.

The department noted the increased participation in the program with 48 students. Also noted was the "excellent" contact with teacher and students, discipline and the heavy workload of the instructor.

Recommended was more participation in dairy herd improvement program. The report did not favor sharing vocational agricultural facilities with the industrial arts program. Classrooms however were rated good.

In other business the board signed a contract with Merrill Olson, business education teacher, who will begin his duties Jan. 3. Olson holds a bachelors degree from Mankato State University, Minn. He will replace Mrs. Veryl Hein, Valders, who accepted the position until a teacher could be found.

The board ordered a note of thanks be sent to Mrs. Hein for helping the district when it was unable to hire a teacher.

Theodore Diener, Potter, has been hired as bus driver beginning Jan. 3. The bus will be kept in Potter to serve the students from that area and will be serviced at the Central Garage, Potter.

It also was reported that all buses had been inspected by Van Haren Company and found to be in order.

New System

A new system requiring bus drivers to file daily mileage reports was approved. Drivers also will be given cards to report any repairs needed. Rotation of drivers for extra curricular activities also was discussed. It was recommended action be delayed until the proposal can be discussed with the drivers.

Chairman Walter Vollmer has been named delegate to the Wisconsin Association of School Boards meeting Jan. 24-26 in Milwaukee, an agenda was presented and several other members indicated attending.

A preliminary cost report was prepared and distributed by Earl Anderson, supervising principal for a new high school proposed in a few years. Several sites were discussed and the possibility of a combined Hilbert, Stockbridge, Sherwood area school was considered.

A meeting of faculty and school board salary committees was scheduled for 7 p.m. Jan. 15 immediately before the next board meeting.

The clerk was authorized to borrow $8,000 on short term loan.

Calumet Hospital Boosts Rate $10 Per Trip for Use of Emergency Vehicle

CHILTON — Ambulance service and police radio contracts were approved Tuesday by the city council.

The contract with Calumet Memorial Hospital for ambulance service calls for a $25 fee per trip, an increase of $10 from last year, for all persons living within a cooperating municipality. The contract also called for payment of half of the 70 cent per capita rate immediately and the remainder July 1. Cities pay 70 cents per capita and towns 50 cents.

The non-cooperating municipalities will pay $35 per trip plus 50 cents per mile. This is also a $10 increase per trip.

Sign Radio Contract

The city also signed the police and fire radio contract which will take effect Jan. 4, 1968. The contract terms call for a fee of $37.50 per month for maintenance and calls. Service fee for all fire and police calls is $2 per hour, an increase of 25 cents.

Tuesday's hearing was the first called by the appeals board in two years.

of the state university system, a representative of public elementary or secondary schools and a private school counterpart.

Legislative Membership

"I'm not disturbed by the legislative membership," said Rothwell. "Of course, you can have any kind of legislator out of a legislature made up of 133 members."

Some lawmakers raised stiff opposition to the creation of the system because of dangers which they alleged can come from the institution of a state run broadcasting system. State politicians and bureaucrats could use the system to propagandize, they warned.

Supporters of the system pointed out that the decades old state radio network has not fallen into that trap despite similar warnings in the past.

Rothwell said that the decision locating the station "in the Appleton vicinity" will be left entirely to a professional engineering committee to be appointed to advise the board.

The bill almost died earlier as contenders for the site battled over the location of the Fox Valley station. Green Bay boosters want the station in their city, and point out that the area's three commercial channels are located there.

Support Green Bay

The location of the system's antenna in the valley should be located just outside of the city, they claim.

Appleton backers contend that their city should win the station because of the location of all of the commercial outlets in Green Bay. They had the wording specifying the Appleton area inserted in the bill.

Fox Cities lawmakers point out that the entire Appleton area is included in that wording, and say they must be considered.

And Oshkosh forces emphasize the developing television capacity of their state university and argue their home town should win the station.

A political and educational hassle seems certain.

Rothwell also warned that the channels will broadcast programs aimed at being "not entertainment, but instructional."

Material Videotaped

No local production facilities will be available at the stations at the start of programming, but a wealth of educational material already exists on videotape both from the UW station in Madison and two educational channels in Milwaukee.

All three will be tied into the system.

At the start the system also will lack the interconnecting facilities that would allow a linking of broadcasts, and will have to depend on taping and mailing of broadcasts from the production centers to the stations around the state.

"This is a modest start," cautioned Rothwell.

"But we'll certainly cover 95 per cent of the school children of the state," he pointed out.

Only the area surrounding Superior will be unable to receive the programs in Wisconsin. And that area is already served by an educational channel located in Duluth, he said.

Programs, broadcast through normal channels, will be available to both public and private schools in the state, thus making the programming available to schools which lack some forms of state aids.

Bond Issue Needed

The state building commission will have to approve a $400,000 bond issue for construction of the stations to win the release of the already allocated $1.2 million in federal funds available to Wisconsin.

Only construction funds currently are available. Operating funds will have to be allocated in the 1969-71 state budget before the stations actually can go on the air.

Besides creating an educational television for the state, the late-night passage of the bill also strengthened the hand of the CCHE in a subtle manner.

The administrations of UW-Green Bay and Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point have been talking of the possibilities of creating educational broadcasting programs.

The move to create the system will tie up federal funds available for such uses, and give the CCHE power to coordinate all such future programs in Wisconsin.

Salome...An Ambitious Aunt of Christ

Editor's Note—Some deserted Christ, but throughout his brief ministry on earth, Salome, his ambitious but faithful aunt, stayed by him, steadfast in her faith. Following is the third of a five-part Christmas series dealing with the kinsmen of Christ.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

She was daring, venturesome, idealistic, brimming with energy. She was a woman of property. She apparently was ambitious and something of a firebrand. She also was Jesus' aunt.

They shared the same blood, by descent, and he, by commitment, joined it with others—the hungry, the strangers, the naked, the prisoners.

"As you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me," he said.

The fraternal Galilean linked himself by intention with the downtrodden, the poor, the pursuers of peace and justice, but he also had natural ties given him by birth. Not all of them condoned his chosen involvements.

But his aunt did. She did so with majestic expectations, and eventually, with sobered realism.

She stuck close to him during the three years of his swift, momentous ministry, and was among the well-off women who, as reported in Luke 8:30, financed it "out of their means."

She Mistrusted Cause

She was sure of the cause, even though she brashly misconstrued it, while many of his hometown relatives plainly doubted it. She pressed advice on him. She refused to abandon him. She refused to abandon him even when danger drove most of his apostles away.

Salome was true-blue family. A typical sort of rich aunt, a g gressive, strong-minded, meddlesome, but unswervably loyal to her own.

Her name, although variants are possible, is indicated by comparing Scripture references, such as John 19:25 which lists Jesus' "mother's sister" in a group of women and Mark 15:40 which lists "Salome" instead in the same group.

Elsewhere, in Matthew 27:56, Salome is identified as "the mother of the sons of Zebedee"—James and John, who were among the apostles of Jesus, presumably cousins. He nicknamed the high-strung pair "sons of thunder."

Zebedee owned a fishing

business with hired employees, Scripture notes.

It was a substantial industry, compared to the humble lot of the kinfolk in Nazareth, about 30 miles to the southwest.

Valued Prestige

Salome valued prestige, the leverage of class and possessions. It was the coin of world power, and she was a practical woman. But she also was socially concerned, a staunch Israelite, with strong feelings of nation and a compassion for its people.

Yet she and the hardheaded Zebedee must have been shaken when their two sons quit the profitable family enterprise to join with Jesus in his unpredictable, non-conforming activities.

Zebedee kept gruffly busy with his ships and dock hands, and whether or not he approved of it Salome began frequenting the happenings and gatherings wrought by her nephew. She likely visited often with her sister, Mary, about it.

It was a strange experience. At first, she may have been motivated by a desire to stay near her sons, but she absorbed the deeper magnetism of it, the current of powerfully rising expectancy.

She and other women of means furnished provisions and funds to sustain Jesus' itinerant company, and traveled much with it to attend to its needs. Salome also was touched by the fiery dedication of her sons.

They were thunderbolts, indeed.

Matches Sons' Fervor

Salome matched the fervor of her sons, absorbing the crowd's excitement, the swelling intensity of the movement. All the land churned with hope of a messiah—a new kingdom to throw off Rome's yoke.

She recognized that James and John held a special place of confidence with Jesus, along with Peter. John especially was the "disciple that Jesus loved." She was convinced that soon, Jesus would establish his reign.

In anticipation, she went to him with her sons, as related in Matthew 20, saying she had a special request to make of him.

He was readily attentive. "What do you want?"

She put it bluntly, like an elder counselor accustomed to being heeded. "Command that these two sons of mine may sit, one at your right hand one at your left, in your kingdom."

It seemed entirely reasonable to her, considering not only the family connections, but also the able diligence of her sons. It also was sound organizational planning to get major cabinet officers picked in advance.

Jesus looked fondly at his aunt, and slowly shook his head. "You do not know what you are asking." He turned to James and John. "Are you able to drink the cup that I am to drink?"

'We Are Able'

Always eager, not realizing the crucifixion he faced, they said, "We are able."

His expression clouded, and he nodded. "You will drink my cup." Indeed they would, later on, James slain by the collaborationist regime to become the first martyred apostle, and John arrested, exiled to a desolate island.

But Jesus didn't give the details. He said that the kind of passing political power proposed by Salome was not his to grant, that relationships would be settled in the divine province. The implications didn't seem to impress them.

The rest of the apostles, similarly preoccupied with potential governing status, were indignant that Salome had tried to curry special privilege for her sons.

These usual trappings of power had meant much to her. A sensible, direct woman, she had thought Jesus would achieve his sovereignty in these ordinary ways. But she also had a fuller, unqualified trust in him.

When he gained, not a crown, but a cross, she was among the few who stayed with him to the finish.

Things hadn't turned out as Salome had expected, or wanted. But whatever kind of dynasty Jesus was establishing, she believed in it. It would be a good one, including all those unfortunate sufferers he equated with himself.

He would build a bigger, nobler line. She could depend on it. After all, he was her nephew.

Sir Thomas More Won't Get Pardon After 400 Years

LONDON (AP) — Sir Thomas More, who was beheaded because he would not recognize Henry VIII as head of the English church, will not be granted a pardon, Home Secretary James Callaghan has ruled 400 years later.

Benjamin Whitaker, a Roman Catholic member of parliament, suggested that More, who was convicted of high treason, be given a posthumous pardon before a plaque commemorating his trial is unveiled next year in Westminster Hall.

More, whose life was dramatized in the play and the movie "A Man for All Seasons," lived from 1478 to 1535, when he was beheaded on King Henry's order. He had succeeded Cardinal Wolsey as Lord Chancellor of England.

U.N. Adjourns Without Airing Two Big Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly recessed for about three months early today after a session overshadowed by two crises it never came to grips with—the Middle East and Vietnam.

The 123-nation assembly also failed to conclude a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons because the 17-nation disarmament committee in Geneva couldn't nail down all points at issue. But the assembly hoped to have a treaty waiting for it in the spring.

The final day was highlighted by a bright note. The assembly gave unanimous approval to a treaty providing for the rescue and safe return of astronauts forced to land on foreign soil.

Goldberg called the vote "an historic action" and one of the major achievements of the assembly. Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko said the agreement would "have great importance in connection with speedy progress in space technology."

The Middle East was on the assembly agenda, but there was no debate because the Security Council was dealing with the issue. But the Arab-Israeli conflict so distracted delegates that the assembly had to suspend virtually all business until the council finally agreed on a resolution.

Arab members are expected to press for an assembly airing of the Middle East dispute next spring after Secretary-General U Thant receives a report from his special envoy in the area, Gunnar Jarring of Sweden.

Not on Docket

The Vietnam war was not on the docket, but it dominated the general policy debate and cropped up in the assembly's main committees during exchanges on disarmament, aggression and other issues.

During the session, the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, got Romania to circulate its new political program to all U.N. members. It was generally viewed as Communist propaganda, but a few delegates speculated that it might be some sort of a feeler.

This was the first assembly to elect a Communist president. Most western delegates felt that Romanian Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu, who got the job, served efficiently and showed no bias.

Hopes that a treaty banning dissemination of nuclear arms could be concluded this year faded when the Geneva committee was unable to agree on the question of inspection.

Most of the other disarmament items were also dumped in the lap of the Geneva committee, except for a call for an international conference of the non-nuclear nations next August.

Test Ban Treaty

In addition to urging completion of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty by mid-March the assembly asked the 17-nation committee to speed up work on a nuclear test ban treaty, to debate elimination of foreign military bases and to resume negotiation on a general disarmament draft.

The Soviet Union played its propaganda themes in lower key this year. It gave almost perfunctory treatment to the Communist item calling for a definition of aggression which was expected to serve as a springboard for attacks on U.S. policies in Vietnam.

The Soviet bloc also gave only token support to the annual proposal of U.N. membership for Red China. The Soviet delegate set a record for brevity during the Chinese debate with a nine-minute speech.

Each usual anticolonial item as apartheid and South-West Africa were on the agenda again this year, but they failed to generate much heat. Some African members complained that their grievances were not receiving sufficient attention.

Cigarette Licenses

Ordered in New York To Halt Smuggling

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has signed into a law a bill requiring the city's 40,000 cigarette dealers to buy annual licenses.

The law is aimed at the dealer who has been selling contraband or untaxed cigarettes bought in other states and shipped here for distribution to the public.

Roy M. Goodman, the city's finance administrator, has said the cigarette smuggling is costing New York $20 million a year.

Under the new law retailers will pay $2 a year for licenses and wholesalers will pay $10. The law gives the city the right to suspend the license of any dealer selling cigarettes for which city taxes are not being paid.
